VOTERS GO TO POLLS TODAY; GOP HOPES HIGH

Half-Million Marylanders May Turn Out

Campaign One Of Most Closely Contested In Free State History

GOVERNOR AND SENATE RACES HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Cloudy Morning With Clearing Skies In Afternoon Predicted

[By The Associated Press]

The issues of the 1946 Maryland general election campaign—which observers say has been one of the most closely contested in Free State history—were in the hands of the electorate today (Tuesday), and before the last polls close at 7 p. m., about 500,000 Marylanders are expected to have registered their choice for governor, senator, congressmen and hundreds of other offices.

The weatherman forecast cloudy skies and occasional rain for this morning, with clearing skies during the afternoon.

All state-wide candidates took to the radio last night to broadcast their final appeals and then went to their homes to get ready to cast their own votes.

Both Republicans and Democrats made last-minute claims of victory in the two top races— for governor and for the United States Senate.

Conflicting Claims

Headquarters of Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, the Republican mayor of Baltimore who is his party's choice for governor, confidently predicted victory. From the Democratic headquarters of William Preston Lane, Jr., came the forecast that their man would be elected governor today by a majority of more than 40,000 votes.

Similar conflicting claims came from backers of Gov. O'Conor and D. John Markey, Democratic and Republican standardbearers, respectively, in the Senate race.

The election-eve consensus was that balloting could be close in both races.

The Democratic candidates for the other two state-wide offices—attorney general and state comptroller — were presumably favorites to win.

Hall Hammond, the Democratic candidate for state's attorney, is opposed by Republican George Cochran Doub, and James J. Lacy, the nominee of the Democrats for state Comptroller, has Alexander T. Grier for his opponent.

Rep. Beall Faces Battle

Both sides were claiming a good chance to win three of the six seats in the House of Representatives, while the three incumbent Democrats who are up for re-election in the other districts were conceded a wide edge over their Republican opponents.

The three congressional districts where the vote may be very close are:

The First, where Rep. Roe (D-Md) is opposed by Edward T. Miller, well-known Eastern Shore Republican of Easton.

The Second, where Hugh A. Meade, Democrat of Baltimore City, and former State Sen. David G. Harry, Pylesville Republican, are vying for the seat being vacated by Rep. Baldwin (D-Md).

The Sixth, which finds Maryland's only Republican congressman, J. Glenn Beall, in opposition to Arch McDonald, Washington sports announcer.

Four minor amendments to the state constitution are up for approval, and the different counties and municipalities are voting on hundreds of local candidates and questions.

Polls opened at 6 a. m. in Baltimore City and one hour later in most of the counties. They will close at 6 p. m. in Baltimore and at 7 p. m., in most other places.

Ministers Agree To Hear Yugoslav, Italian Views On Trieste Government

East-West Split Again Noted; Byrnes To Handle Palestine Problem

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—The four-power Foreign Ministers conference agreed in a lengthy opening session here tonight to hear Yugoslavia and Italy present arguments on the kind of government which they believe the United Nations should have over Trieste.

Arguments during the three hour and forty-five minute session in a Manhattan hotel room again revealed the basic split between Russia and the western powers over critical issues such as control of Trieste.

There were, however, some agreements such as an understanding that while Yugoslavia and Italy might be allowed to comment on the projected boundaries of the disputed Adriatic port, the boundary issue would not thereby be reopened.

Molotov Loses Out

Russian foreign Minister Molotov reportedly lost out on one proposal to the effect that after hearing the Yugoslavs, the Foreign Ministers should turn the question of constituting a government for Trieste over to their deputies, allowing the Yugoslavs to sit in on the work. This was not approved.

The critical conference began at 4 p. m. (EST) in the skyscraper Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in a pale green drawing room 37 floors above the traffic of Park avenue.

On their discussions hinge the future of Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland, to whom the conferees hope to hand final peace treaties before Christmas.

Before the four sat down at a white pine table in a Waldorf Towers apartment, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes held preliminary talks with Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Couve De Murville.

Conference sources considered this a move to remove some of the roadblocks from the path of peace in Eastern Europe before the formal discussions began.

Vandenberg First To Enter

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of the American delegation, was the first to enter the conference chamber. He was followed by Sen. Tom Connally and Couve De Murville. Then Bevin entered. He was followed by Molotov. Byrnes was the last to enter.

They all shook hands and then took their appointed places around the table.

It was not known immediately what Byrnes and Molotov discussed, but Byrnes notified Bevin that he was taking over the handling of the Palestine problem from President Truman. He said he wanted to see whether the United States could contribute to a solution of the Holy Land problem. This suggested a more active effort by the American government to get Jewish refugees into Palestine.

Byrnes also reviewed with Bevin plans for meetings next week of American and British representatives on problems connected with the merger of the British and American zones of occupation in Germany. The problems were not specified.

This was the first opportunity that Byrnes had had to confer with either Bevin or Molotov since the Paris peace conference closed October 20.

More Mines Idle; Talks Recessed Until Tomorrow

No Word Of Progress; Showdown Presumably Awaits Krug's Return

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP) — More bituminous coal pits shut down today as the government and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers resumed their wage talks briefly and then recessed until after the elections without any word of progress.

Lewis remained away from the negotiations with Navy Capt. N. H. Collisson, Coal Mines Administrator who has been representing the government in the absence of Secretary of the Interior Krug.

Presumably any showdown waited Krug's return from a western trip after Tuesday's elections. The Secretary and Collisson have insisted that the Krug-Lewis agreement of last spring covers the entire period of government possession. The coal mine owners, who have been serving as mine managers, agree with Krug.

Time Slipping By

Lewis maintains that the procedure for terminating a contract was carried over from his last agreement with the coal operators, and that entitles him to wipe out the agreement November 20, after 15 days of negotiations.

Time was slipping by without apparent progress. The conferences between Lewis' aides and Collisson were started Friday. They recessed in "delicate shape" over the weekend. Another two and a half hour meeting today failed to produce any announcement whatever beyond the mere word that the negotiators would return Wednesday at 11 a. m. EST.

Collisson, in watching the calendar, was well aware that days remaining for shipping coal to vital ports on the Great Lakes are numbered.

In the bituminous production District Number 8, comprising Southern West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee, 8,259 miners and 56 mines were idle today, the solid Fuels Administration reported.

Kilgore's Defeat Urged

This compared with 5,700 miners and 42 mines which were not working Friday because of what was termed "unrest" over the contract. Most of the idleness was concentrated in the Williamson, W. Va., area, where 32 mines and 4,339 miners were idle today compared to 15 mines and 1,500 men on Friday.

Political phases of the situation included a call from William Bliz-

Jan. 18 "X-Day," Navy Announces

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The navy today set January 18 as "X-Day" for choosing some 5,000 high school seniors who will be offered free college educations plus $50 a month under its expanded officers training program.

On that date, competitive examinations will be held in 555 cities for candidates for either the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) or Naval Aviation College Program (NACP).

Applications to take the examination must be filed by December 17. High school principals have details. Application blanks and information have been sent to high school heads, college deans and officers of naval officer procurement.

Those selected for the NROTC program will be given four years of education with the tuition, books, normal fees and $50 a month furnished by the government.

The students must agree to accept commissions as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps, if qualified, upon graduation. After two years of active duty as commissioned officers, they may resign and return to civilian life with commissions in the organized reserve.

Successful candidates choosing the Reserve Officers Training Corps must attend one of 52 universities and colleges at which NROTC units have been established.

Reds May Back Geneva As U.N. Headquarters

Site Battle May Be Resumed Today; Council Drops Spanish Case

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—A new move to take the United Nations headquarters back to Europe and settle it permanently in the League of Nations palace at Geneva loomed as a possibility tonight in the United Nations Assembly.

United Nations sources said that Soviet Russia, which once vigorously opposed Geneva and anything connected with the old league as a home for the United Nations, was ready to ask that the Assembly consider the Swiss city among the possible headquarters sites.

These sources added that the Russian position crystallized when it became known last weekend that the United States delegation, finally abandoning its neutrality on the home issue, had asked the Assembly to put the home-site offers of New York City and San Frascisco up for debate by the delegates of 51 nations.

The battle is expected to be resumed tomorrow at 2 p. m. EST., when the powerful Steering Committee of the Assembly meets here to take up the site question, the Spanish case and other problems.

Council Drops Franco Case

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council dropped from its agenda by unanimous vote the long-dormant Spanish case and gave the Assembly the green light for whatever action it wants to take toward Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

There was little debate in the council after Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, offered a resolution to remove the case from the council calendar. Brazil, the United States, France, Soviet Russia, Great Britain and Egypt quickly voiced their support and the vote was taken.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said the council was trying to make it "possible for the General Assembly not only to discuss but to make recommendations on the Spanish question."

Gromyko last June vetoed all attempts by the council to send the case to the Assembly for its action this fall, contending that it was up to the council to act instead of the Assembly. But when the Assembly met in New York, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov indicated willingness to drop the case and today's action ensued.

No Date Set For Next Meeting

The council quickly adjourned after the vote without fixing a date for the next meeting.

Poland last Friday filed two resolutions with the Assembly, one demanding a complete United Nations break with Franco and the other barring Franco Spain from any participation in organizations affiliated with the United Nations.

The question of a permanent home for the United Nations is daily assuming more important proportions.

So far, the Assembly has before

Denver Digs Out Of 26-Inch Snow

DENVER, Nov. 4, (AP) — Denver started digging out today from under a 26-inch snowfall, the city's worst in 33 years, and attempted to get vital services operating even before the snow stopped falling.

Schools were closed, the State Capitol was shut down and city council called off a scheduled meeting.

Emergency snow removal crews worked on the city's streets, where thousands of automobiles and delivery trucks were stalled. Funeral services were called off. Garbage disposal was stalled.

Transportation from the south — where the storm struck almost as hard as in Denver—was almost at a standstill.

No buses were running and trains were hours later.

The snow caved in roofs of some buildings in Denver, including that on the plant of the Monitor, a weekly newspaper.

Seven deaths were left in the wake of the storm.

OPA Takes Five Other Actions Designed To Aid Business, Industry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4, (AP) — OPA boosted paint prices today, promised increases or complete decontrol for soap, and took five other actions designed to aid business and industries.

Ceilings were raised an average of 24 per cent, at the manufacturing levels, on all paints sold over the counter. Retail prices will go up even more because distributors and retailers may tack on their customary profit margins.

OPA attributed most of the increase to a sharp rise in costs of linseed oil which was released from price control last week. Pricing officials said the oil is selling at about 32 cents a pound compared with previous ceiling prices of 14.5 to 17.8 cents.

Soap Ingredients Rise

These officials also reported that prices of coconut oil and most other soap ingredients had risen since they were decontrolled recently. OPA has been working on increases for soaps but some officials believe it might be wiser to free the product rather than continually raise ceilings. A decision is expected soon.

OPA promised to continue to "watch market prices of linseed oil to determine if further price action will be needed" on paint. The manufacturers' increase varied from 31 cents a gallon on semi-gloss paint to $1.31 a gallon on colors in oil.

The other new actions to aid business involved sugar, coal, waste paper, dump truck renters and retailers of plywood.

The sugar order allows restaurants, roadside stands and other so-called institutional users to change locations without loss of their refreshment sugar basis, effective November 9. Refreshment sugar is that used in coffee, drinks and other foods.

The coal change allows sales agents for coal producers to increase their commissions for selling coal if the producer agrees to absorb the increase. OPA said this would re-

Cafe Abandons Its Policy Of Letting Patrons Set Prices

CLINTON, Ia., Nov. 4 (AP)—The Port Hole Cafe abandoned tonight its policy of letting the customer pay what he thought his meal was worth, and set up a price list averaging 17 per cent lower than that before last week's four-day experiment.

"We found we were defeating our purpose," said Floyd Magee, 41, World War II veteran and co-partner in the recently-established plush eating place. "We found a reluctance among our customers to set their own prices, and a preference for a set schedule for meals."

Magee said the new prices were based on the average price paid by the customers under the experimental plan. For the month the Port Hole was open before the experiment its prices for prime steaks, fish, seafood and chicken ranged from $1.75 to $3.50. Now the prices run from $1.25 to $3.

TWA Strike May Be Ended Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Representatives of opposing sides in the Trans-World Airline pilots' strike failed tonight to complete drafting of an arbitration agreement which would put the 28,000-mile system back into operation.

Once such an agreement is reached, the 15-day-old strike over increased pay and improved working conditions for pilots of four-engined craft would be over.

The dispute affecting 1,400 pilots who are members of the Air Line Pilots Association (AFL), resulted in the furloughing of 15,000 other employes over the system when it shut down.

Earlier in the day both the union and the management had agreed to the arbitration idea in principle.

David L. Behncke, president of the Pilots' Association, had announced in Chicago that the union "officially accepted" the arbitration plan.

Federal Mediator Frank P. Douglass said that he would resume conferences tomorrow in an effort to iron out the issue of whether TWA should be permitted to propose to an arbitration panel that pilots flying international routes be paid on flat monthly salaries, instead of using the formula applied to domestic flying.

Chief Executive Ignores Politics On Election Eve

President Will Vote This Morning, Then Board Train For Capital

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4 (AP)—President Truman sought relaxation tonight at his big, old-fashioned frame home on the eve of the most critical election of his career.

Pursuing to the last his decision to leave the fight for the retention of a Democratic majority in Congress strictly up to the party organization, the President withheld even an eleventh hour statement.

He and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, will drive to the Memorial Hall about 9 a. m. (CST) tomorrow to cast their ballots, 30 minutes before boarding their special train for Washington.

Mother To Vote In Grandview

His mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, 93, will vote in nearby Grandview, as she has voted since women were given the suffrage, "for the straight Democratic ticket."

She and the President's brother, J. Vivian Truman, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, will cast a vote for Enos T. Axtell, the President's personal choice for Fifth District congressman. He defeated Democratic Rep. Roger Slaughter, for whose defeat the President called in last August's primary.

Two Youths Get Life For Double Slaying

YUBA CITY, Calif., Nov. 4 (AP)—Billy Anderson, 16, and Nathern James, 15, were sentenced today to life imprisonment in San Quentin for the murder of Anderson's parents.

The boys were convicted by a Superior Court jury last Friday of the killing last September 8 of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Billy's father and stepmother.

Judge Arthur Coats sentenced the boys to life imprisonment on both counts and ruled that the sentences should run concurrently.

Judge Coats denied defense motions for arrested judgment, for a new trial, and for remanding the case to Juvenile Court.

Congressional Control Is Top Prize At Stake

Balloting Weighs Heavily On 1948 Political Fate Of Truman

[By The Associated Press]

The American people hand in a verdict of votes today on shortages, strikes and other issues of a congressional election campaign that has hoisted Republican victory hopes to the highest level in more than a decade.

Some 35,000,000 voters are expected in the polling places to make their pick of 1,065 candidates for an even 500 major offices. Not since the late Franklin D. Roosevelt began performing his political magic in national elections in 1932 has the GOP been so optimistic.

Control of Congress for two years at least, with its impact on the course of the administration, is the big, immediate stake. Fifteen states appear to hold the key to what will happen in the Senate. These and another eight seem likely to determine the political alignment of the House.

The election weighs heavily, too, on the 1948 political fate of President Truman and men from whom Republicans may choose their next candidate for the White House. The voters also select governors of 33 states.

Each Party Finds Good Omens

Both the Democratic and Republican high commands stood pat on the usual forecasts of victory. Each read into prospects of a record vote in an off-year election omens favorable to its cause.

So confident were the Republicans that this is their year that they differed only on the size of the majorities by which they claimed they would rule the next Senate and House. Not since 1930 have they held the upper hand in the House. They last had a Senate majority in 1932.

Democratic forecasters saw somewhat varying prospects. Some had conceded during the campaign that they felt the off-year election trend against the party in power had set in.

Rep. John J. Sparkman, of Alabama, chairman of the Democratic Speakers' Bureau, said in an election-eve statement for the Associated Press that the Democrats would hang on to majorities in both branches of Congress but would lose some strength. But National Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan stuck to a prediction that his party will pick up power in Congress.

With 39 senators now, the Republicans need a net gain of 10 seats to capture control. In the House they have to add 26 seats to their present 192.

Key States In Senate Control

The decision whether the Senate stays Democratic or swings to the Republicans apparently hinges on results in these states:

Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Wisconsin, where the Republicans contend they are sure to gain four Senate seats and the Democrats concede nothing.

New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho, Montana, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and New Mexico, where the Republicans say they will bowl over Democrats and the Democrats say they will hold their own.

Kentucky and California, where the Democrats hope to turn Republican senators out of office and the GOP says it can't be done.

The significance of the balloting in these states to the make-up of the House rests among 22 congressional districts where the winner was named by margins of less than 5,000 votes in 1944. Five of the districts are in Pennsylvania, four in Missouri.

Europe Awaits Election Results With Varying Degrees Of Anxiety

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP) — European capitals awaited with varying degrees of anxiety tonight the results of tomorrow's elections in the United States, watching closely for any indication of a swing to the right or left.

Interest was keenest in France and England. The Paris press gave the closing stages of the campaign more play than France's own approaching vote for a national assembly.

British and German newspapers predicted Republican congressional gains. The German press concluded that there would be little effect on America's role in world affairs, since foreign policy had been conducted recently on a bi-party basis.

"Whoever wins, we need not be afraid that America will revert to isolationism," said the Berlin organ of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity party, victor in the recent Berlin elections.

Most British newspapers printed long—and, to their readers, complicated—explanations of United States politics.

The Paris Liberation-Soir summed up a frequently expressed viewpoint:

"The winning party will have the best chance of choosing in its ranks the new President that the United States will elect later. It is, in large part, upon the qualities of the man who will enter the White House in 1948 that depend the destiny of America and, one may say without exaggeration, that of the world."

In Rome, the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano headlind a long, non-committal dispatch "Lively Interest in United States Elec-

Women "Decoys"

Forgery Suspect Maintained $300-A-Month Suite In Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 4, (AP) — A $300-a-month hotel suite, well stocked with Scotch whisky, where $20 tips were given bellboys and from which attractive women carried messages, may have been the base for the alleged embezzlement of nearly $900,000 from the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said today.

The Kings County district attorney said William A. Nickel, 40, former $100-a-week bookkeeper for the Brooklyn firm, now en route from Miami Beach, Fla., to answer charges of forgery and grand larceny, maintained the suite in the Hotel Capitol for nearly a year.

The Kings County grand jury heard its first evidence in the case today.

McDonald said the women — who included an attractive brunette and a tall red-haired woman — visited the suite in the Manhattan hotel on Monday or Thursday evenings. Investigation showed that checks in the Mergenthaler case always were cashed on Tuesdays or Fridays, he added, indicating "a pre-arrangement by the women to make sure arrangements were all right for the next day."

Joseph Millstein, 45, New York City merchandising man, surrendered to McDonald today. He had been sought for three days in the case. After questioning he was booked on charges of grand larceny and forgery and conspiracy to commit both. The district attorney did not explain Millstein's alleged connection in the case.

GOP Candidate Concedes Defeat In Texas Election

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 4 (AP)—Eugene Nolte, Jr., Republican candidate for governor or Texas, may didate for governor of Texas, may row, but he was way ahead today—he was the first candidate in 33 gubernatorial races in the United States to concede defeat.

He conceded defeat before the first ballot was cast.

"I have no illusions," he said cheerfully. "Beauford Jester (the Democratic candidate) will be our next governor."

"I made out like I was going to win," he said. "You know I traveled 5,000 miles, making speeches all over the state in big and little towns."

Major Candidates In State Races Issue Election-Eve Statements

[By The Associated Press]

The traditional election-eve statements of the major candidates in the Maryland general election:

Herbert R. O'Conor, governor of Maryland and Democratic candidate for the United States Senate:

"I urge every registered voter to go to the polls tomorrow to do his part towards electing officials who will truly be the choice of the majority.

"The seriousness of the problems facing the state and nation makes it our duty as responsible citizens to select for public office the most capable persons available.

"Unless we discharge that civic responsibility faithfully, we will have failed our state and nation.

"It is vital that there be sent to the Congress, as a result of tomorrow's election, men who will have a sympathetic understanding of the problems facing America as this nation seeks to discharge its responsibility of leadership of the road to the peace."

D. John Markey, the Republican party's candidate for the United States Senate:

"The people of Maryland are about to make at this election a vital decision affecting their daily lives.

"They have seen our nation transferred from a land of plenty to a land of scarcities, with industrial strife hampering production and their life savings shrinking in value.

"There is one course open. To Another two and a half hour meeting today failed to produce any announcement whatever beyond the mere word that the negotiators would return Wednesday at 11 a. m. EST.

Collisson, in watching the calendar, was well aware that days remaining for shipping coal to vital ports on the Great Lakes are numbered.

In the bituminous production District Number 8, comprising Southern West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee, 8,259 miners and 56 mines were idle today, the solid Fuels Administration reported.

Kilgore's Defeat Urged

This compared with 5,700 miners and 42 mines which were not working Friday because of what was termed "unrest" over the contract. Most of the idleness was concentrated in the Williamson, W. Va., area, where 32 mines and 4,339 miners were idle today compared to 15 mines and 1,500 men on Friday.

Political phases of the situation included a call from William Bliz-

Reds May Back Geneva As U.N. Headquarters

Site Battle May Be Resumed Today; Council Drops Spanish Case

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—A new move to take the United Nations headquarters back to Europe and settle it permanently in the League of Nations palace at Geneva loomed as a possibility tonight in the United Nations Assembly.

United Nations sources said that Soviet Russia, which once vigorously opposed Geneva and anything connected with the old league as a home for the United Nations, was ready to ask that the Assembly consider the Swiss city among the possible headquarters sites.

These sources added that the Russian position crystallized when it became known last weekend that the United States delegation, finally abandoning its neutrality on the home issue, had asked the Assembly to put the home-site offers of New York City and San Frascisco up for debate by the delegates of 51 nations.

The battle is expected to be resumed tomorrow at 2 p. m. EST., when the powerful Steering Committee of the Assembly meets here to take up the site question, the Spanish case and other problems.

Council Drops Franco Case

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council dropped from its agenda by unanimous vote the long-dormant Spanish case and gave the Assembly the green light for whatever action it wants to take toward Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

There was little debate in the council after Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, offered a resolution to remove the case from the council calendar. Brazil, the United States, France, Soviet Russia, Great Britain and Egypt quickly voiced their support and the vote was taken.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said the council was trying to make it "possible for the General Assembly not only to discuss but to make recommendations on the Spanish question."

Gromyko last June vetoed all attempts by the council to send the case to the Assembly for its action this fall, contending that it was up to the council to act instead of the Assembly. But when the Assembly met in New York, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov indicated willingness to drop the case and today's action ensued.

No Date Set For Next Meeting

The council quickly adjourned after the vote without fixing a date for the next meeting.

Poland last Friday filed two resolutions with the Assembly, one demanding a complete United Nations break with Franco and the other barring Franco Spain from any participation in organizations affiliated with the United Nations.

The question of a permanent home for the United Nations is daily assuming more important proportions.

So far, the Assembly has before

Jan. 18 "X-Day," Navy Announces

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The navy today set January 18 as "X-Day" for choosing some 5,000 high school seniors who will be offered free college educations plus $50 a month under its expanded officers training program.

On that date, competitive examinations will be held in 555 cities for candidates for either the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) or Naval Aviation College Program (NACP).

Applications to take the examination must be filed by December 17. High school principals have details. Application blanks and information have been sent to high school heads, college deans and officers of naval officer procurement.

Those selected for the NROTC program will be given four years of education with the tuition, books, normal fees and $50 a month furnished by the government.

The students must agree to accept commissions as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps, if qualified, upon graduation. After two years of active duty as commissioned officers, they may resign and return to civilian life with commissions in the organized reserve.

Successful candidates choosing the Reserve Officers Training Corps must attend one of 52 universities and colleges at which NROTC units have been established.

Denver Digs Out Of 26-Inch Snow

DENVER, Nov. 4, (AP) — Denver started digging out today from under a 26-inch snowfall, the city's worst in 33 years, and attempted to get vital services operating even before the snow stopped falling.

Schools were closed, the State Capitol was shut down and city council called off a scheduled meeting.

Emergency snow removal crews worked on the city's streets, where thousands of automobiles and delivery trucks were stalled. Funeral services were called off. Garbage disposal was stalled.

Transportation from the south — where the storm struck almost as hard as in Denver—was almost at a standstill.

No buses were running and trains were hours later.

The snow caved in roofs of some buildings in Denver, including that on the plant of the Monitor, a weekly newspaper.

Seven deaths were left in the wake of the storm.

Paint Prices Are Increased; Soap Decontrol Looms

OPA Takes Five Other Actions Designed To Aid Business, Industry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4, (AP) — OPA boosted paint prices today, promised increases or complete decontrol for soap, and took five other actions designed to aid business and industries.

Ceilings were raised an average of 24 per cent, at the manufacturing levels, on all paints sold over the counter. Retail prices will go up even more because distributors and retailers may tack on their customary profit margins.

OPA attributed most of the increase to a sharp rise in costs of linseed oil which was released from price control last week. Pricing officials said the oil is selling at about 32 cents a pound compared with previous ceiling prices of 14.5 to 17.8 cents.

Soap Ingredients Rise

These officials also reported that prices of coconut oil and most other soap ingredients had risen since they were decontrolled recently. OPA has been working on increases for soaps but some officials believe it might be wiser to free the product rather than continually raise ceilings. A decision is expected soon.

OPA promised to continue to "watch market prices of linseed oil to determine if further price action will be needed" on paint. The manufacturers' increase varied from 31 cents a gallon on semi-gloss paint to $1.31 a gallon on colors in oil.

The other new actions to aid business involved sugar, coal, waste paper, dump truck renters and retailers of plywood.

The sugar order allows restaurants, roadside stands and other so-called institutional users to change locations without loss of their refreshment sugar basis, effective November 9. Refreshment sugar is that used in coffee, drinks and other foods.

The coal change allows sales agents for coal producers to increase their commissions for selling coal if the producer agrees to absorb the increase. OPA said this would re-

Cafe Abandons Its Policy Of Letting Patrons Set Prices

CLINTON, Ia., Nov. 4 (AP)—The Port Hole Cafe abandoned tonight its policy of letting the customer pay what he thought his meal was worth, and set up a price list averaging 17 per cent lower than that before last week's four-day experiment.

"We found we were defeating our purpose," said Floyd Magee, 41, World War II veteran and co-partner in the recently-established plush eating place. "We found a reluctance among our customers to set their own prices, and a preference for a set schedule for meals."

Magee said the new prices were based on the average price paid by the customers under the experimental plan. For the month the Port Hole was open before the experiment its prices for prime steaks, fish, seafood and chicken ranged from $1.75 to $3.50. Now the prices run from $1.25 to $3.

TWA Strike May Be Ended Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Representatives of opposing sides in the Trans-World Airline pilots' strike failed tonight to complete drafting of an arbitration agreement which would put the 28,000-mile system back into operation.

Once such an agreement is reached, the 15-day-old strike over increased pay and improved working conditions for pilots of four-engined craft would be over.

The dispute affecting 1,400 pilots who are members of the Air Line Pilots Association (AFL), resulted in the furloughing of 15,000 other employes over the system when it shut down.

Earlier in the day both the union and the management had agreed to the arbitration idea in principle.

David L. Behncke, president of the Pilots' Association, had announced in Chicago that the union "officially accepted" the arbitration plan.

Federal Mediator Frank P. Douglass said that he would resume conferences tomorrow in an effort to iron out the issue of whether TWA should be permitted to propose to an arbitration panel that pilots flying international routes be paid on flat monthly salaries, instead of using the formula applied to domestic flying.

Congressional Control Is Top Prize At Stake

Balloting Weighs Heavily On 1948 Political Fate Of Truman

[By The Associated Press]

The American people hand in a verdict of votes today on shortages, strikes and other issues of a congressional election campaign that has hoisted Republican victory hopes to the highest level in more than a decade.

Some 35,000,000 voters are expected in the polling places to make their pick of 1,065 candidates for an even 500 major offices. Not since the late Franklin D. Roosevelt began performing his political magic in national elections in 1932 has the GOP been so optimistic.

Control of Congress for two years at least, with its impact on the course of the administration, is the big, immediate stake. Fifteen states appear to hold the key to what will happen in the Senate. These and another eight seem likely to determine the political alignment of the House.

The election weighs heavily, too, on the 1948 political fate of President Truman and men from whom Republicans may choose their next candidate for the White House. The voters also select governors of 33 states.

Each Party Finds Good Omens

Both the Democratic and Republican high commands stood pat on the usual forecasts of victory. Each read into prospects of a record vote in an off-year election omens favorable to its cause.

So confident were the Republicans that this is their year that they differed only on the size of the majorities by which they claimed they would rule the next Senate and House. Not since 1930 have they held the upper hand in the House. They last had a Senate majority in 1932.

Democratic forecasters saw somewhat varying prospects. Some had conceded during the campaign that they felt the off-year election trend against the party in power had set in.

Rep. John J. Sparkman, of Alabama, chairman of the Democratic Speakers' Bureau, said in an election-eve statement for the Associated Press that the Democrats would hang on to majorities in both branches of Congress but would lose some strength. But National Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan stuck to a prediction that his party will pick up power in Congress.

With 39 senators now, the Republicans need a net gain of 10 seats to capture control. In the House they have to add 26 seats to their present 192.

Key States In Senate Control

The decision whether the Senate stays Democratic or swings to the Republicans apparently hinges on results in these states:

Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Wisconsin, where the Republicans contend they are sure to gain four Senate seats and the Democrats concede nothing.

New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho, Montana, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and New Mexico, where the Republicans say they will bowl over Democrats and the Democrats say they will hold their own.

Kentucky and California, where the Democrats hope to turn Republican senators out of office and the GOP says it can't be done.

The significance of the balloting in these states to the make-up of the House rests among 22 congressional districts where the winner was named by margins of less than 5,000 votes in 1944. Five of the districts are in Pennsylvania, four in Missouri.

Chief Executive Ignores Politics On Election Eve

President Will Vote This Morning, Then Board Train For Capital

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 4 (AP)—President Truman sought relaxation tonight at his big, old-fashioned frame home on the eve of the most critical election of his career.

Pursuing to the last his decision to leave the fight for the retention of a Democratic majority in Congress strictly up to the party organization, the President withheld even an eleventh hour statement.

He and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, will drive to the Memorial Hall about 9 a. m. (CST) tomorrow to cast their ballots, 30 minutes before boarding their special train for Washington.

Mother To Vote In Grandview

His mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, 93, will vote in nearby Grandview, as she has voted since women were given the suffrage, "for the straight Democratic ticket."

She and the President's brother, J. Vivian Truman, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, will cast a vote for Enos T. Axtell, the President's personal choice for Fifth District congressman. He defeated Democratic Rep. Roger Slaughter, for whose defeat the President called in last August's primary.

Two Youths Get Life For Double Slaying

YUBA CITY, Calif., Nov. 4 (AP)—Billy Anderson, 16, and Nathern James, 15, were sentenced today to life imprisonment in San Quentin for the murder of Anderson's parents.

The boys were convicted by a Superior Court jury last Friday of the killing last September 8 of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Billy's father and stepmother.

Judge Arthur Coats sentenced the boys to life imprisonment on both counts and ruled that the sentences should run concurrently.

Judge Coats denied defense motions for arrested judgment, for a new trial, and for remanding the case to Juvenile Court.

Europe Awaits Election Results With Varying Degrees Of Anxiety

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP) — European capitals awaited with varying degrees of anxiety tonight the results of tomorrow's elections in the United States, watching closely for any indication of a swing to the right or left.

Interest was keenest in France and England. The Paris press gave the closing stages of the campaign more play than France's own approaching vote for a national assembly.

British and German newspapers predicted Republican congressional gains. The German press concluded that there would be little effect on America's role in world affairs, since foreign policy had been conducted recently on a bi-party basis.

"Whoever wins, we need not be afraid that America will revert to isolationism," said the Berlin or- victor in the recent Berlin elections.

Most British newspapers printed long—and, to their readers, complicated—explanations of United States politics.

The Paris Liberation-Soir summed up a frequently expressed viewpoint:

"The winning party will have the best chance of choosing in its ranks the new President that the United States will elect later. It is, in large part, upon the qualities of the man who will enter the White House in 1948 that depend the destiny of America and, one may say without exaggeration, that of the world."

In Rome, the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano headlind a long, non-committal dispatch "Lively Interest in United States Elec-

Women "Decoys"

Forgery Suspect Maintained $300-A-Month Suite In Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 4, (AP) — A $300-a-month hotel suite, well stocked with Scotch whisky, where $20 tips were given bellboys and from which attractive women carried messages, may have been the base for the alleged embezzlement of nearly $900,000 from the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said today.

The Kings County district attorney said William A. Nickel, 40, former $100-a-week bookkeeper for the Brooklyn firm, now en route from Miami Beach, Fla., to answer charges of forgery and grand larceny, maintained the suite in the Hotel Capitol for nearly a year.

The Kings County grand jury heard its first evidence in the case today.

McDonald said the women — who included an attractive brunette and a tall red-haired woman — visited the suite in the Manhattan hotel on Monday or Thursday evenings. Investigation showed that checks in the Mergenthaler case always were cashed on Tuesdays or Fridays, he added, indicating "a pre-arrangement by the women to make sure arrangements were all right for the next day."

Joseph Millstein, 45, New York City merchandising man, surrendered to McDonald today. He had been sought for three days in the case. After questioning he was booked on charges of grand larceny and forgery and conspiracy to commit both. The district attorney did not explain Millstein's alleged connection in the case.

GOP Candidate Concedes Defeat In Texas Election

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 4 (AP)—Eugene Nolte, Jr., Republican candidate for governor or Texas, may didate for governor of Texas, may row, but he was way ahead today—he was the first candidate in 33 gubernatorial races in the United States to concede defeat.

He conceded defeat before the first ballot was cast.

"I have no illusions," he said cheerfully. "Beauford Jester (the Democratic candidate) will be our next governor."

"I made out like I was going to win," he said. "You know I traveled 5,000 miles, making speeches all over the state in big and little towns."

Major Candidates In State Races Issue Election-Eve Statements

[By The Associated Press]

The traditional election-eve statements of the major candidates in the Maryland general election:

Herbert R. O'Conor, governor of Maryland and Democratic candidate for the United States Senate:

"I urge every registered voter to go to the polls tomorrow to do his part towards electing officials who will truly be the choice of the majority.

"The seriousness of the problems facing the state and nation makes it our duty as responsible citizens to select for public office the most capable persons available.

"Unless we discharge that civic responsibility faithfully, we will have failed our state and nation.

"It is vital that there be sent to the Congress, as a result of tomorrow's election, men who will have a sympathetic understanding of the problems facing America as this nation seeks to discharge its responsibility of leadership of the road to the peace."

D. John Markey, the Republican party's candidate for the United States Senate:

"The people of Maryland are about to make at this election a vital decision affecting their daily lives.

"They have seen our nation transferred from a land of plenty to a land of scarcities, with industrial strife hampering production and their life savings shrinking in value.

"There is one course open. To

She was a member of the Church of God. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, November 3, at 2 o'clock from the Blooming Rose Church, with Rev. Mahon, Morgantown, W. Va., officiating. Interment was in the Blooming Rose cemetery.

Plan For Education Week

Members of the Garrett County Teachers association have made plans for the observance of American Education Week, November 10 to 16, with the particular theme for the week "Education for the Atomic Age."

The members are asking churches, civic organizations, farm groups, fraternal orders, and other groups believing in education, to plan special programs for that week based on varying topics which include Brotherhood, World Security, Facing New Tasks, Developing Better Communities, Investing in Education, Strengthening Home Life, and Promoting Health and Safety.

Widow Of Local Physician Dies

Mrs. Bertha Charles, 76, Hancock, widow of Dr. F. H. Charles, a former Cumberland physician, died suddenly yesterday morning at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Annabelle Brown, St. Louis, Mo., whom she was visiting.

A native of Hancock, Mrs. Charles was a daughter of the late Martin and Catherine Ernst Jenkins. Since her husband's death she had resided with her sister, Mrs. H. E. Tabler, Hancock, the only immediate survivor.

The body will arrive in Hancock tomorrow and will lie in state in St. Thomas Episcopal Church from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m., the time of the funeral. Rev. H. Kearney Jones will officiate. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery here.

MRS. JULIA SMITH

Mrs. Julia Agnes Smith, 79, widow of Michael Smith, died yesterday at 10:55 a. m. at her home in Artemas, Pa., after an illness of two weeks.

Mrs. Smith, a daughter of the late Jeremiah and Catherine Roland Robinette, was a member of Bethel Congregational Christian Church in Purcell, Pa.

Surviving are four sons, Roy H. Smith, Amaranth, Pa.; Carl Smith, this city; Jed Smith, Artemas, and Spencer Smith, at home; one daughter, Mrs. Lola Loy, this city; one sister, Mrs. W. F. Robosson, and a brother, Harry O. Robinette, both of Flintstone; and nine grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Robert Robinette, Roy Smith, Stanley Leasure, Joseph Martin, James Carbaugh and William C. Gurtler.

Forgery Suspect

Joseph Kupsnecker, 50, president of a check cashing firm, is held under $100,000 bail as a material witness in the case.

Isadore Rappaport, 55, president of an optical goods firm, who yesterday was ordered held without bail on forgery and grand larceny charges pending a hearing Wednesday, was taken from jail to a Brooklyn hospital late today. Attendants said he may undergo an operation.

Rappaport's attorney, Hyman Barshay, served on McDonald's office late today a writ of habeas corpus.

Supreme Court Justice Michael F. Walsh heard the writ appeal and fixed bond for Rappaport at $25,000.

Miss Luku Kibler Dies In Keyser

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—Miss Luku Marie Kibler, 74, died at her home, 118 Mozelle street at 9:30 p. m. Sunday, following a long illness. She was a native of Hampshire County where she lived before coming to Keyser. Her parents were the late Franklin J. and Elizabeth Comer Kibler. Her brother, Lewis Kibler, with whom she lived is the last surviving member of the immediate family, though there are several nephews and nieces.

Service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Markwood Funeral Parlor, with Rev. Harry S. Myerly, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Queens Point Cemetery.

Council Postpones Session

The city council will meet in regular session Tuesday. However, that being general election day, the meeting wil lbe adjourned to meet at 7 p. m. Wednesday, for the consideration of advertising for bids for the erection of the new fire hall.

Meeting with the council and mayor Wednesday, will be the Citizens Advisory Building committee and the building committee of the volunteer fire company. It will be the purpose of the joint meeting to determine what shall be the procedure in getting the new fire hall under way. The state and federal building commissions have already approved the project.

The plan now is to advertise for bids for the erection and roofing of the proposed building on the city lot, corner Mineral and Center streets. The finishing and fitting of the various rooms and departments will be deferred until a later date. Details of the advertising will be considered at the Wednesday meeting.

Takes Testimony

Judge C. E. Nethken, Charleston, chairman of the West Virginia Public Service Commission, was in Keyser today taking testimony on applications for public service franchises from residents of Hampshire, Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson counties. Assisting Judge Nethken was Brooks B. Bosworth, Morgantown, court reporter for Monogalia County, who acted as stenographer at the hearings.

Judge Nethken is a native of Mineral County and was formerly sheriff of the county. He still holds his voting residence here, after voting tomorrow he will return to Charleston.

Judge Nethken's associates on the Public Service Commission, Howard M. Gore, former governor of West Virginia, and John B. Smith were not with him on his trip to Keyser.

Parking Meters Called Success

The parking meters of the city netted $216.16 for the week just ended. In commenting about the parking meters, Mayor John C. "Don" Freeland said that the cooperation of the general public in making the use of the system a success, has been exceedingly helpful, and that the system has proved its usefulness in solving the parking problem in the business district of the city during the busy hours of the day.

4 Arrests Made

Four arrests were made by the city officers over the weekend:

William Zals, John Haines and James Glass, all of McCoole, were charged with disorderly conduct by creating a disturbance in the Star restaurant on Armstrong street, Saturday night.

Zals appeared before the police court today and was fined $25; Haines and Glass failed to appear, thus forfeiting their bonds of $20 each.

Oliver VanMeter was arrested Friday night and drew a fine of $10 on the charge of being drunk.

Plan Reception

Miss Frances Davis, supreme guard of the Supreme Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be specially honored at a reception to be held for her on Thursday night by Olive Temple No. 59 in Castle Hill.

The Supreme Chief, Mrs. Mildred Seney, Baltimore, and the Grand Chief of Maryland, Mrs. Genevieve M. Wagoner, and other dignitaries of the order will attend: The Grand Chief of West Virginia, Mrs. Alice Rogers, Beckley, will not be able to attend.

Miss Davis who is a member of the local lodge of Pythian Sisters, is the first woman from West Virginia to be elected to a supreme office. Her election as supreme guard places her in line for the highest honors of the organization, that of Supreme Chief.

Following the reception there will be a meeting of Olive Temple No. 59. All members and sojourning Pythian Sisters are urged to attend the reception and meeting to meet the visiting speakers and to show appreciation for the honor conferred upon the local Temple by the election of Miss Davis as supreme guard.

Personals

Miss Mary I. Tucker, Mrs. Mary Moreland, Miss Sue Johnson and Mrs. C. Timbrook, Keyser, George Kitzmiller, Mount Storm; Leo Lannon, Luke; Mrs. Georgiana Whetzell, Burlington, and John F. McBee, Westernport, have been admitted to Potomac Valley hospital.

J. C. Sanders and Chester J. Compton, members of First Methodist church were guests speakers at the Sunday services in the Bloomington and Fort Ashby churches, respectively. They spoke on the Reserve Pension plan for retired ministers.

In addition, there are 13 districts which were particularly close two years ago in Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Illinois, Connecticut, Minnesota, New Jersey, Maryland and Michigan.

Sparkman forecast that the Democrats, who now have 235 members in the House, will wind up with "at least 231."

In another statement for the Associated Press, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, of Ohio, Republican campaign director, forecast a minimum gain of 40 for the GOP. That would give it 232 seats.

Later, Brown upped this forecast. He said he is "now satisfied that we will make a net gain in the House of between 50 and 60 seats, with a rock bottom figure of 45."

With the issues long since etched sharply and the minds of many voters made up, last-minute campaign oratory dwindled last night. President Truman remained silent. Outwardly unconcerned about the election, on his usual daily hike he led reporters around the courthouse square at Independence, Mo., where he votes today.

The weather man forecast fair and cool for most of the country, but rain in much of the South.

Politicians count on good weather to bring out a heavy vote.

This year the Republicans are saying heavy registrations and prospects of a heavy ballot mean the people are ready to protest at the polls against shortages and strikes and the pattern of government in general.

The Democrats have replied that there will be a protest vote, all right, but that it will be against the way prices have shot up—they lay that to the GOP—and against what they say is a Republican policy of obstruction and sabotage toward a constructive Democratic program. They say, too, that it is a political axiom that a big vote favors the Democrats.

put an end of these conditions, the people must elect a Republican Senate and Congress and bring an honest, practical, economical and sensible government to replace the present controls, confusion and corruption now existing in our national government."

William Preston Lane, Jr., the Democratic candidate for governor:

"My desire to elected governor arises from the knowledge that there is an important piece of work to be done, and I would like to have the opportunity to do it.

"If I succeed, I will have made a contribution to the comfort, happiness and prosperity of all the people of Maryland.

"We (the Democratic candidates) have worked hard to discharge our obligations as candidates and we feel we have successful.

"I am hoping for a large turnout at the polls tomorrow."

Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican candidate for governor:

"Our ticket this year commands the sincere support of the Republicans, independents, Jeffersonian Democrats. x x x

"This election is destined to put an abrupt halt to a retreat from the high ramparts of our former strong constitutional and economic position and to begin a return march to national safety, solvency and security.

A revision allows waste paper brokers to collect commissions on all paper they sell. Previously this commission was paid only on wastepaper sold for manufacturing purposes. Now it may be paid when the wastepaper is used for wrapping, packing or any other use.

The new order on rental of dump trucks allows addition to ceilings of the actual prevailing wages of drivers plus payroll taxes and similar costs effective November 9. Previously only wages at 1942 levels plus 35 per cent could be charged. OPA said this forced some dump truck renting firms to operate at a loss.

The lumber and plywood revision will allow a greater profit margin to dealers who have handled less than carload shipments in recent months. It also is effective November 9.

Problem Of Sewage Disposal Discussed

Study of the city's sewage disposal problems was urged yesterday by members of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, which held its monthly meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

H. W. Smith, secretary, read a communication from Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, which reported that the firm will send representatives to Cumberland soon to make a final survey in connection with recommendations for a sewage disposal plant.

The letter recommended that use be made of several acres of city-owned land located in the extreme southern part of the city between the old C. and O. canal property and the Potomac river, as the site of such a plant, and described a similar plant constructed in Frederick in 1936 for the disposal of sludge, garbage and trash.

The firm stated, however, that a final report on sewage disposal recommendations could not be made pending completion of flood control plans for Cumberland.

In a discussion of the local parking problem, Smith reported that when he attended a convention in Miami, Fla., last week, one of the speakers stated that the trend in many large cities is to encourage the public to depend more on public transportation facilities and to leave their cars at home.

The Trumans and the Wallaces—the First Lady's family—will cast their ballots for Rep. C. Jasper Bell, the Fourth District Democratic representative.

The results of the election may bear heavily on the President's future course. Already troubled by a working coalition in Congress of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans, the administration has been fighting throughout the country to maintain its numerical superiority in both houses.

In this fight Mr. Truman has stayed consistently on the sidelines.

Condition Of Paw Paw Soldier Remains Serious

The condition of Guy Robertson, 24, Route 1, Paw Paw, W. Va., a soldier, who was found lying along the Western Maryland Railroad tracks Sunday morning near Kifer, was reported as "serious" last night by attaches at Memorial Hospital. He is still unconscious, they said.

Several victims of minor mishaps were treated in both local hospitals yesterday.

Wallace R. Swayne, 31, 941 Baltimore avenue, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe, was treated yesterday morning after he injured the index finger of his left hand while at work in the B. and O. yards.

Joseph Andrews, 21, 412 Walnut street, was treated yesterday afternoon after he caught his right thumb in a car door on Sunday.

Janet Dysinger, 17-month-old daughter of Harding Dysinger, 421 Hanover street, was treated for a laceration of the head, suffered when she fell on a glass jar at her home. Four stitches were required to close the wound.

swimming ability. The questions on the survey will be: 1. Can you swim at all? 2. Can you swim 50 feet? 3. Would you like to swim farther?

The class, Mrs. Witherup said, is part of a program designed to teach every person in Allegany County who would like to swim and is physically fit. It began, she said, when the Eastern Area office of the Red Cross in Alexandria, Va., received a request from Thomas C. Ferguson, state supervisor of physical education and recreation, to participate "learn to swim program."

Ferguson said he was prompted to make the request by the statistics on the appalling number of soldiers who died during the war because they could not swim.

The program will be continued, Mrs. Witherup said, until every county child, who wants to, has been taught to swim.

Teamsters Accept Beer Dealers Raise

Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, has accepted an 18½ cent hourly wage increase offered by 17 beer distributors in this area to approximately 100 drivers, C. E. Stutzman, union business agent said.

The contract ratified Sunday carries the same provisions as the one which expired this summer. Retroactive pay of 13 weeks will be given drivers under the term of the agreement.

The Teamsters had sought a contract based on the one covering drivers in the Pittsburgh area, but the dealers, through their representative Fred A. Puderbaugh, local attorney, refused to bargain under the procedure.

Only one Cumberland firm is involved, the Malamphy Bottling Works, with the remainder being situated in Frostburg, Keyser, W. Va., Romney, W. Va., Oakland and Lonaconing and other nearby towns.

Seven Births Reported

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Jenson, Akron, O., announced the birth of a son October 25 in Akron. Mrs. Jenson is the former Miss Polly Meade Waters, and attended Mt. W. Va. Man Critically Hurt While Changing Tire

BERYL, W. Va., Nov. 4—Frank Kasmier, 38, was seriously injured here today while he was changing a tire on a heavy truck. The rim of the wheel slipped and hit him in the face, amputating his nose, fracturing his skull and causing extensive injuries to his head including both eyes.

Kasmier was taken by a neighbor to Potomac Valley Hospital where his condition was described as critical.

Henry Hart Post Buys Lot As Site For Future Home

Property Located On South Centre Street Purchased For $8,000

Purchase of a lot in the 300 block South Centre street by Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for future construction of a modern home, was disclosed yesterday with filing of a deed in the office of the Clerk of Circuit Court.

The lot, once owned by the old Daily News Building Company, was purchased from Mrs. W. W. Brown by Thomas K. Whalley, Edward W. Kilroy and James W. Beacham, trustees for Henry Hart Post, for a consideration indicated by revenue stamps attached to the instrument to be approximately $8,000.

Previously the trustees had been authorized by the post membership to make the purchase.

Whalley said last night that construction of the new home will be undertaken when building materials become available, and he indicated that it will be more than a year before work gets underway.

The property fronts a little more than 50 feet on Centre street and extends back to an alley for a distance of 148 feet on one side and 139 feet on the other.

Another deed filed yesterday disclosed the purchase by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Zimerla from Mr. and Mrs. Abe Feldstein of a property in LaVale. The consideration was about $13,500.

The property has been leased by Zimerla's auto shop for the past several years and it was reported that he exercised his option to purchase it.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hazelwood have sold to Mr. and Mrs. John McBee a property located on Kent avenue. Revenue stamps attached to the deed indicated the purchase price to be about $9,000.

Beall Fund Gets $500 From Ohio GOP-How Come?

Rep. Beall's campaign for re-election in the 6th Maryland District has cost him $1,572, and he has received contributions amounting to $2,000, according to his report filed in Washington Wednesday.

The Frostburg Republican reported receipt of $1,500 from the National Republican Congressional Committee and $500 from the Ohio Republican Committee.

Sixth District residents were asking themselves yesterday why the Taft machine in Ohio felt compelled to contribute $500 toward the election of a Congressman in Maryland. Explanations are eagerly awaited.

Pallbearers were Robert Robinette, Roy Smith, Stanley Leasure, Joseph Martin, James Carbaugh and William C. Gurtler.

Forgery Suspect

Joseph Kupsnecker, 50, president of a check cashing firm, is held under $100,000 bail as a material witness in the case.

Isadore Rappaport, 55, president of an optical goods firm, who yesterday was ordered held without bail on forgery and grand larceny charges pending a hearing Wednesday, was taken from jail to a Brooklyn hospital late today. Attendants said he may undergo an operation.

Rappaport's attorney, Hyman Barshay, served on McDonald's office late today a writ of habeas corpus.

Supreme Court Justice Michael F. Walsh heard the writ appeal and fixed bond for Rappaport at $25,000.

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—Miss Luku Marie Kibler, 74, died at her home, 118 Mozelle street at 9:30 p. m. Sunday, following a long illness. She was a native of Hampshire County where she lived before coming to Keyser. Her parents were the late Franklin J. and Elizabeth Comer Kibler. Her brother, Lewis Kibler, with whom she lived is the last surviving member of the immediate family, though there are several nephews and nieces.

Service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Markwood Funeral Parlor, with Rev. Harry S. Myerly, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Queens Point Cemetery.

Council Postpones Session

The city council will meet in regular session Tuesday. However, that being general election day, the meeting wil lbe adjourned to meet at 7 p. m. Wednesday, for the consideration of advertising for bids for the erection of the new fire hall.

Meeting with the council and mayor Wednesday, will be the Citizens Advisory Building committee and the building committee of the volunteer fire company. It will be the purpose of the joint meeting to determine what shall be the procedure in getting the new fire hall under way. The state and federal building commissions have already approved the project.

The plan now is to advertise for bids for the erection and roofing of the proposed building on the city lot, corner Mineral and Center streets. The finishing and fitting of the various rooms and departments will be deferred until a later date. Details of the advertising will be considered at the Wednesday meeting.

Takes Testimony

Judge C. E. Nethken, Charleston, chairman of the West Virginia Public Service Commission, was in Keyser today taking testimony on applications for public service franchises from residents of Hampshire, Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson counties. Assisting Judge Nethken was Brooks B. Bosworth, Morgantown, court reporter for Monogalia County, who acted as stenographer at the hearings.

Judge Nethken is a native of Mineral County and was formerly sheriff of the county. He still holds his voting residence here, after voting tomorrow he will return to Charleston.

Judge Nethken's associates on the Public Service Commission, Howard M. Gore, former governor of West Virginia, and John B. Smith were not with him on his trip to Keyser.

Parking Meters Called Success

The parking meters of the city netted $216.16 for the week just ended. In commenting about the parking meters, Mayor John C. "Don" Freeland said that the cooperation of the general public in making the use of the system a success, has been exceedingly helpful, and that the system has proved its usefulness in solving the parking problem in the business district of the city during the busy hours of the day.

4 Arrests Made

Four arrests were made by the city officers over the weekend:

William Zais, John Haines and James Glass, all of McCoole, were charged with disorderly conduct by creating a disturbance in the Star restaurant on Armstrong street, Saturday night.

Zais appeared before the police court today and was fined $25; Haines and Glass failed to appear, thus forfeiting their bonds of $20 each.

Oliver VanMeter was arrested Friday night and drew a fine of $10 on the charge of being drunk.

Plan Reception

Miss Frances Davis, supreme guard of the Supreme Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be specially honored at a reception to be held for her on Thursday night by Olive Temple No. 59 in Castle Hill.

The Supreme Chief, Mrs. Mildred Seney, Baltimore, and the Grand Chief of Maryland, Mrs. Genevieve M. Wagoner, and other dignitaries of the order will attend: The Grand Chief of West Virginia, Mrs. Alice Rogers, Beckley, will not be able to attend.

Miss Davis who is a member of the local lodge of Pythian Sisters, is the first woman from West Virginia to be elected to a supreme office. Her election as supreme guard places her in line for the highest honors of the organization, that of Supreme Chief.

Following the reception there will be a meeting of Olive Temple No. 59. All members and sojourning Pythian Sisters are urged to attend the reception and meeting to meet the visiting speakers and to show appreciation for the honor conferred upon the local Temple by the election of Miss Davis as supreme guard.

Personals

Miss Mary I. Tucker, Mrs. Mary Moreland, Miss Sue Johnson and Mrs. C. Timbrook, Keyser, George Kitzmiller, Mount Storm; Leo Lannon, Luke; Mrs. Georgiana Whetzell, Burlington, and John F. McBee, Westernport, have been admitted to Potomac Valley hospital.

J. C. Sanders and Chester J. Compton, members of First Methodist church were guests speakers at the Sunday services in the Bloomington and Fort Ashby churches, respectively. They spoke on the Reserve Pension plan for retired ministers.

In addition, there are 13 districts which were particularly close two years ago in Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Illinois, Connecticut, Minnesota, New Jersey, Maryland and Michigan.

Sparkman forecast that the Democrats, who now have 235 members in the House, will wind up with "at least 231."

In another statement for the Associated Press, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, of Ohio, Republican campaign director, forecast a minimum gain of 40 for the GOP. That would give it 232 seats.

Later, Brown upped this forecast. He said he is "now satisfied that we will make a net gain in the House of between 50 and 60 seats, with a rock bottom figure of 45."

With the issues long since etched sharply and the minds of many voters made up, last-minute campaign oratory dwindled last night. President Truman remained silent. Outwardly unconcerned about the election, on his usual daily hike he led reporters around the courthouse square at Independence, Mo., where he votes today.

The weather man forecast fair and cool for most of the country, but rain in much of the South.

Politicians count on good weather to bring out a heavy vote.

This year the Republicans are saying heavy registrations and prospects of a heavy ballot mean the people are ready to protest at the polls against shortages and strikes and the pattern of government in general.

The Democrats have replied that there will be a protest vote, all right, but that it will be against the way prices have shot up—they lay that to the GOP—and against what they say is a Republican policy of obstruction and sabotage toward a constructive Democratic program. They say, too, that it is a political axiom that a big vote favors the Democrats.

William Preston Lane, Jr., the Democratic candidate for governor:

"My desire to elected governor arises from the knowledge that there is an important piece of work to be done, and I would like to have the opportunity to do it.

"If I succeed, I will have made a contribution to the comfort, happiness and prosperity of all the people of Maryland.

"I know of no richer reward than the feeling that one is living a useful life, and is assisting to improve the standards of living of the people of his community." x x x

"We (the Democratic candidates) have worked hard to discharge our obligations as candidates and we feel we have successful.

"I am hoping for a large turnout at the polls tomorrow."

Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican candidate for governor:

"Our ticket this year commands the sincere support of the Republicans, independents, Jeffersonian Democrats. x x x

"This election is destined to put an abrupt halt to a retreat from the high ramparts of our former strong constitutional and economic position and to begin a return march to national safety, solvency and security.

"We've all had enough. It's time for a change in Annapolis and Washington."

A revision allows waste paper brokers to collect commissions on all paper they sell. Previously this commission was paid only on wastepaper sold for manufacturing purposes. Now it may be paid when the wastepaper is used for wrapping, packing or any other use.

The new order on rental of dump trucks allows addition to ceilings of the actual prevailing wages of drivers plus payroll taxes and similar costs effective November 9. Previously only wages at 1942 levels plus 35 per cent could be charged. OPA said this forced some dump truck renting firms to operate at a loss.

Problem Of Sewage Disposal Discussed

Study of the city's sewage disposal problems was urged yesterday by members of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, which held its monthly meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

H. W. Smith, secretary, read a communication from Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineering firm, which reported that the firm will send representatives to Cumberland soon to make a final survey in connection with recommendations for a sewage disposal plant.

The letter recommended that use be made of several acres of city-owned land located in the extreme southern part of the city between the old C. and O. canal property and the Potomac river, as the site of such a plant, and described a similar plant constructed in Frederick in 1936 for the disposal of sludge, garbage and trash.

The firm stated, however, that a final report on sewage disposal recommendations could not be made pending completion of flood control plans for Cumberland.

In a discussion of the local parking problem, Smith reported that when he attended a convention in Miami, Fla., last week, one of the speakers stated that the trend in many large cities is to encourage the public to depend more on public transportation facilities and to leave their cars at home.

The Trumans and the Wallaces—the First Lady's family—will cast their ballots for Rep. C. Jasper Bell, the Fourth District Democratic representative.

The results of the election may bear heavily on the President's future course. Already troubled by a working coalition in Congress of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans, the administration has been fighting throughout the country to maintain its numerical superiority in both houses.

In this fight Mr. Truman has stayed consistently on the sidelines.

Beall Fund Gets $500 From Ohio GOP-How Come?

Rep. Beall's campaign for re-election in the 6th Maryland District has cost him $1,572, and he has received contributions amounting to $2,000, according to his report filed in Washington Wednesday.

The Frostburg Republican reported receipt of $1,500 from the National Republican Congressional Committee and $500 from the Ohio Republican Committee.

Sixth District residents were asking themselves yesterday why the Taft machine in Ohio felt compelled to contribute $500 toward the election of a Congressman in Maryland. Explanations are eagerly awaited.

Condition Of Paw Paw Soldier Remains Serious

The condition of Guy Robertson, 24, Route 1, Paw Paw, W. Va., a soldier, who was found lying along the Western Maryland Railroad tracks Sunday morning near Kifer, was reported as "serious" last night by attaches at Memorial Hospital. He is still unconscious, they said.

Several victims of minor mishaps were treated in both local hospitals yesterday.

Wallace R. Swayne, 31, 941 Baltimore avenue, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe, was treated yesterday morning after he injured the index finger of his left hand while at work in the B. and O. yards.

Joseph Andrews, 21, 412 Walnut street, was treated yesterday afternoon after he caught his right thumb in a car door on Sunday.

Janet Dysinger, 17-month-old daughter of Harding Dysinger, 421 Hanover street, was treated for a laceration of the head, suffered when she fell on a glass jar at her home. Four stitches were required to close the wound.

Melvin VanMeter, 3, son of Austin VanMeter, 467 Baltimore avenue, suffered lacerations of the chin when he fell on a stick while playing at his home. Four stitches were taken to close the wound.

swimming ability. The questions on the survey will be: 1. Can you swim at all? 2. Can you swim 50 feet? 3. Would you like to swim farther?

The class, Mrs. Witherup said, is part of a program designed to teach every person in Allegany County who would like to swim and is physically fit. It began, she said, when the Eastern Area office of the Red Cross in Alexandria, Va., received a request from Thomas C. Ferguson, state supervisor of physical education and recreation, to participate "learn to swim program."

Ferguson said he was prompted to make the request by the statistics on the appalling number of soldiers who died during the war because they could not swim.

The program will be continued, Mrs. Witherup said, until every county child, who wants to, has been taught to swim.

Teamsters Accept Beer Dealers Raise

Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, has accepted an 18½ cent hourly wage increase offered by 17 beer distributors in this area to approximately 100 drivers, C. E. Stutzman, union business agent said.

The contract ratified Sunday carries the same provisions as the one which expired this summer. Retroactive pay of 13 weeks will be given drivers under the term of the agreement.

The Teamsters had sought a contract based on the one covering drivers in the Pittsburgh area, but the dealers, through their representative Fred A. Puderbaugh, local attorney, refused to bargain under the procedure.

Only one Cumberland firm is involved, the Malamphy Bottling Works, with the remainder being situated in Frostburg, Keyser, W. Va., Romney, W. Va., Oakland and Lonaconing and other nearby towns.

Seven Births Reported

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Jenson, Akron, O., announced the birth of a son October 25 in Akron. Mrs. Jenson is the former Miss Polly Meade Waters, and attended Mt. Royal and Allegany High School here, while her father, Reginald W. Waters, was patent attorney for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company resided here.

A daughter was born Monday afternoon in Allegany Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William Hendry, 37 Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Patton, Lonaconing, announce the birth of a daughter in Allegany Hospital Monday afternoon.

A son was born Monday morning in Allegany Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Oma Smith, Route 3, Bedford, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. List, 813 Mt. Royal avenue, announce the birth of a son Monday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A son was born Monday morning in Memorial Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Fry, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Clopper, Route 2, Christie road, announce the birth of a daughter Monday afternoon in Memorial Hospital.

Husband Of Former Local Girl Dies

Watson Eichmiller, 56, associated with the Union News Company, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, and who made frequent business missions to the Union News Company stand in the Queen City Station here, died suddenly yesterday morning of a heart attack in the Pennsylvania Railroad station, Pittsburgh.

He was the husband of the former Miss Bernetta Troll, of Cumberland. Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, W. L. Eichmiller, Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Edward Craft, both of Pittsburgh.

The body is at the Baker Funeral Home, East Pittsburgh, Pa., where funeral services will be held at [illegible] o'clock Friday afternoon. Burial will be at East Pittsburgh.

Fairgrieve Post, VFW, Endorses Candidates

John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Frostburg, at a special meeting Sunday, endorsed the candidacy of the following county candidates, according to the post adjutant, Edward Nolan:

William Lemmert, Republican, candidate for county commissioner.

Thomas B. Finan, Democratic, candidate for State Senator.

John T. Fey, William H. Geppert and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Republican candidates and Alexander Nicol, Democratic candidate for the Maryland House of Delegates.

W. Va. Man Critically Hurt While Changing Tire

BERYL, W. Va., Nov. 4—Frank Kasmier, 38, was seriously injured here today while he was changing a tire on a heavy truck. The rim of the wheel slipped and hit him in the face, amputating his nose, fracturing his skull and causing extensive injuries to his head including both eyes.

Kasmier was taken by a neighbor to Potomac Valley Hospital where his condition was described as critical.

Property Located On South Centre Street Purchased For $8,000

Purchase of a lot in the 300 block South Centre street by Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for future construction of a modern home, was disclosed yesterday with filing of a deed in the office of the Clerk of Circuit Court.

The lot, once owned by the old Daily News Building Company, was purchased from Mrs. W. W. Brown by Thomas K. Whalley, Edward W. Kilroy and James W. Beacham, trustees for Henry Hart Post, for a consideration indicated by revenue stamps attached to the instrument to be approximately $8,000.

Previously the trustees had been authorized by the post membership to make the purchase.

Whalley said last night that construction of the new home will be undertaken when building materials become available, and he indicated that it will be more than a year before work gets underway.

The property fronts a little more than 50 feet on Centre street and extends back to an alley for a distance of 148 feet on one side and 139 feet on the other.

Another deed filed yesterday disclosed the purchase by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Zimerla from Mr. and Mrs. Abe Feldstein of a property in LaVale. The consideration was about $13,500.

The property has been leased by Zimerla's auto shop for the past several years and it was reported that he exercised his option to purchase it.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hazelwood have sold to Mr. and Mrs. John McBee a property located on Kent avenue. Revenue stamps attached to the deed indicated the purchase price to be about $9,000.

The Army Ground Forces offers you a new life OUT THERE

Men of the Army Ground Forces' 11th Airborne Division tour Japan's noted "Isles of Pines"

Look toward Korea and Japan! A thrilling new job and a new life—with interesting work, sports, entertainment and travel opportunities—can be had for the asking by qualified young men who volunteer for one of the famed Far Eastern units listed at right.

What an opportunity . . . what a job! Choose one of these great divisions, then set your sights for an experience that will be valuable to you all your life. Training in one of these crack units will stand you in good stead wherever you go. Study a foreign language. Learn the fascinating details of Military Government—so vital to future peace and world prosperity.

Japan's "Isles of Pines" are but a sample of the attractions of an Army career in the Far East. The Army has reopened comfortable hotels, theaters, swimming pools, tennis clubs, golf courses, ball parks. These—familiar haunts of pre-war tourists—and many new developments—provide a broader choice of recreation for Army men than is enjoyed by the average civilian at home.

Not everyone can measure up to this job. Only 3-year enlistees who meet prescribed physical and mental standards can enjoy the benefits of such a job. High overseas pay, excellent medical and dental care, good food and lodging and a generous retirement plan make your future in the Army Ground Forces too good to miss! See your nearest Army Recruiting Officer for full details.

Here's what you gain on overseas service

4 Men Enlist In Inactive Naval Reserve Here

Four men enlisted last week in the naval reserve V-6 (inactive) at the local recruiting station, according to Chief Quartermaster Charles Drinkwater.

Earl Albert Bland, Keyser, W. Va., enlisted as a ship fitter 1-c for a period of four years. He had 26 months previous naval service and immediately applied for the organized reserve division here. James Joseph Lohr, 217 Glen street enlisted as a yeoman 2-c. He had 25 months previous service in the navy.

Freeman Keith Burton Jackson, Rowlesburg, W. Va., enlisted as an aviation ordnanceman 3-c. He has 34 months previous naval service. James Harper White, 459 Baltimore avenue, enlisted as a chief specialist after 42 months previous service.

Five Couples Get Marriage Licenses

Licenses to marry were issued to the following five couples yesterday in the office of the Clerk of Circuit Court:

Earl William Troutman and Evelyn Eleanor Jones, Cumberland.

Wilbert Aljurn Kerns, Capon Springs, W. Va., and Hilda Mae Nesmith, Winchester, Va.

Marvin Craft Simpson, Bedford, Pa., and Ruth Ella Rice, Route 1, Cumberland.

Edward Lester Kolb, Route 2, Flintstone, and Peggy Ann Frey, Cumberland.

Delmar Rutledge Whitfield, Eckhart, and Shirley Canning, Baltimore.

Among the world's displaced persons add the members of those highly-touted football teams who were soundly truonced last Saturday.

Organized Reservists May Apply For Annapolis

Members of the organized naval reserve here are eligible for the 100 appointments to Annapolis open to reservists, Lieut. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer, said yesterday.

Applicants, Commander Hedrick said may not be older than 21 years on April 1 of the year of their appointment unless they have served honorably for at least one year in World War II, which case they may not be older than 23 years on April 1 of the year of their appointment.

Candidates with satisfactory high school credits may compete for appointment by taking the substantiating examination in English and mathematics rather than the regular academic examination

It Is A Privilege And A Duty To Vote Today

During the past several weeks candidates and their supporters and leaders have held the spotlight in one of the most stirring off-year election campaigns in many years. Today, those who have listened to the political debates at party rallies or by radio will have their say with the ballot. Every man and woman who has qualified for this important day, by having his or her name placed on the registration books, should not fail to exercise the privilege of voicing their opinion with a freedom few countries in the world today grant. It is your duty to vote. Do not neglect it.

In this connection we would like to call attention to an essay, submitted to the American Bar Association, "The Responsibility Of the Citizen As a Voter," by Ralph Busnell Potts:

"The blood of free men stains my ballot sheet. Whatever others may do, I shall not carelessly make my mark. I vote not because I can but because I must. Those that died for this, my voice in my government, had a right to expect that I would prepare with every faculty to use it wisely, honestly and courageously. They did not die that fools, blind partisans, or the reckless, might make a game of free elections.

"Only my secret heart knows whether I justify the definition of 'Voter' as they wrote it in the redeening sand. If I love my country as they did, I question my qualifications again and again.

"I carefully study the issues and candidates to determine not what is best for me or my minority but for my Country.

"I will not be confused or deceived by propaganda, slogans or histrionics. I shield my eyes to the glitter of personalities, purge my mind of passion and prejudice, and search diligently for the hidden truth. I must be free of all influences save that of conscience and justice.

"I garden for dreams, but with a realistic spade. My test is not of trend or popularity but of principle and liberty.

"I vote as if my ballot alone decided the contest. I may lose my preference, but I will not throw away my sacred vote. For within the booth I hold in my humble hand the living proxy of all my country's honorable dead."

So, in exercising your right to a voice in your government, we have no hesitancy in suggesting that you mark your ballot for James Holmes, C. N. (Jerry) Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert, for county commissioners; Edward R. Muir for sheriff; A. Charles Stewart, for register of wills; Robert B. Kimble, for state senator, and Noel Speir Cook, William H. Geppert, Charles M. See, John T. Fey, Lester B. Reed and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., for the Maryland legislature. Every one of them will fill the offices they seek with credit to themselves and to the people of Allegany county.

Muzzle For The Press

The socialist-dominated Britisn House of Commons, smarting from patriotic newspaper attacks on the government's "regiment-everything" program, has ordered an investigation into the "finance, control, ownership and management" of the nation's press. If, in their inability to brook criticism of their policies and their shortcomings, the laborites are turning toward the suppresson of freedom of speech, they are showing signs of turning to the reaction that generally has been the downfall of reform parties which become intrenched in power.

The great newspapers of England are the very symbols of the freedoms which made possible the accession of the laborite movement. Their independence of government controls has been in contrast to the press of the Continent, much of which has been and still is the organ and mouthpiece of government. The investigation ordered virtually places British newspapers on trial in a Star Chamber, with the choice of trucking to the government or a degree of state control, which the Times of London says rightly would be "intelerable."

The laborites are riding to a fall if they have the notion that the British people will long stand for the Times becoming a Pravda or the Daily Mail a Izvestia.

Truman And Johnson

An interesting subject of speculation is that if Harry Truman had been elected President in his own right he might have done better. But he was elected merely as the tail to the Roosevelt kite and has maintained from the time of the latter's demise that he would carry out Roosevelt's policies.

It is unfortunate for the nation that Mr. Truman did not develop policies of his own instead of clinging tenaciously to the clearly outmoded panaceas of the late Franklin Roosevelt. The parallel with Andrew Johnson is striking. Johnson was determined to hew to the course of Abraham Lincoln's policies toward the South when Congress would have none of them. He was a bitter-ender, just as Mr. Truman has been, and suffered personal consequences that were most uncomfortable.

Apparently it has not occurred to the President, as it did not occur to Johnson, that his predecessor, had he lived, might have changed his policies to meet changed conditions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

KNOBBY FINGERS

OVER a century ago William Heberden wrote: "What are those little, hard knots about the size of a pea which are frequently seen upon the fingers, particularly a little below the top near the joint? They have no connection with the gout, being found in persons who never had it; they continue for life; and being hardly ever attended with pain or disposed to become sores are rather unsightly than inconvenient, tho they must be some little hindrance of the free use of the fingers."

History does not tell us whether this 18th century physician found the answer but he probably would be interested to learn that today if a patient were to ask, "What are those small, hard knobs?" any medic would reply, "Heberden's nodes."

The condition is a form of arthritis occurring after the halfway mark in life, mainly after 60. It is confined chiefly to the joint nearest the ends of the fingers and rarely affects other structures in the body. As a rule, one digit is attacked at a time. In the early stages, the parts are red and tender but this phase is temporary, disappearing within a few months to a year. Swelling develops slowly and enlargement persists as a firm, bonelike ridge, for the abnormality represents an overgrowth of the hard edges of the joint itself.

To most victims, the appearance of the lumps is the most distressing feature. In some instances the end of the finger is bent somewhat to the right or left; in others, stiffness is noted.

No one knows the exact cause. It may typify an ageing process. Women are more likely to be affected in a ratio of almost 10 to 1. Stretcher discovered that there is a tendency for the disturbance to run in families. Apparently it is inherited and passed along thru the female side. Many afflicted individuals have sisters, but no brothers, who exhibit similar protuberances, especially if the mother had the defect. Its occurrence now and then in men is the exception that proves the rule but many male sufferers have sisters who manifest the deformity.

There is another variety having little to do with heredity which results from repeated injury. The baseball finger is an example. In one case, in which the bumps were located only on the fingers of the left hand, it was found upon questioning that the man had been a southpaw catcher. Trauma likewise explains the manifestation in typists and needleworkers who have been on the job for a long time.

No treatment is available to make the nodes vanish or prevent them from spreading to other fingers. During the pain stage, heat affords relief. Many of the ladies have volunteered the information that the hands feel better after washing dishes in warm water. Hot soaks or melted paraffin packs help for the same reason. Salicylates also afford relief. Since injury and cold aggravate the disorder, precautions against these situations must be taken. Of great importance to victims is the fact that this is not the crippling form of arthritis. Many fear such a complication and worry unnecessarily.

PROSTATE

J. H. R. writes: Where is the prostate? What causes it to become enlarged?

REPLY

This organ is located near the base of the bladder and surrounds the tiny passageway which leads to the outside (urethra). Enlargement may follow infection but is usually associated with the ageing process. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlarged prostate.

BIG-HEARTED

R. C. writes: Does hard physical labor cause enlargement of the heart?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Infection, high blood pressure, and impairment of the cardiac muscle are more likely origins. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlargement of the heart.

HUNGRY AFTER EATING

F. E. writes: What causes a person to feel hungry after a hearty meal?

REPLY

Perhaps it was not hearty enough.

PELLAGRA

Mrs. W. writes: Does pellagra affect the nerves?

REPLY

Yes, as one o fthe symptoms is a peripheral neuritis which may be the most distressing feature of the disorder.

Truman Confident of Democratic Victory; Democrats Figure Losing Three Seats In Senate; How Senator Thomas of Oklahoma Prodded Cotton Debacle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Unlike FDR, Harry Truman has not made a private estimate of today's election results and tucked it away in a drawer of his desk to be opened after the voting is over.

However, President Truman did receive a confidential report on the election's outcome from Senator-elect John Sparkman of Alabama, who called at the White House with Alabama's Governor, "Big Jim" Folsom, and new Alabama Congressman Bob Jones who is taking Sparkman's place in the house.

To them the President expressed confidence that the Democrats would win both houses of Congress.

Despite newspaper polls indicating GOP control of the House and a tough battle for the Senate, despite pessimistic statements by Democrats like Governor Arnall of Georgia, Truman predicted a double-barreled victory.

Sparkman, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee Speakers' Bureau, drew him out by declaring that reports from the field indicated the Republican trend had run its course and that Democratic candidates were steadily picking up ground in most districts.

"Personally, I don't think we are going to lose either house, Mr. President," asserted Sparkman.

"Neither do I," said Truman.

Admitting that the Senate was the safest for the Democrats, he observed:

"However, I think we'll hold our own in the House."

Truman said that a number of Democratic seats conceded to Republicans a few weeks ago—and he named six seats specifically—are not being conceded now.

Senator Sparkman then went over the country, state by state, and predicted that the Democrats would retain 231 House seats, a majority of 13.

"We will lose between 10 and 12 seats all told in the House and not more than 3 in the Senate," Sparkman forecast. The present make-up of the Senate is: Democrats, 56; Republicans, 39; Progressive, 1.

The Democratic Line-up

"Our candidates are in safely in Washington, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming, Rhode Island and Maryland," Sparkman continued, "and we have an excellent chance of taking away two seats from the Republicans in California and Kentucky."

Sparkman named eight "doubtful" states — Massachusetts, Delaware, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Missouri and Idaho.

The Democrats, he said, have a fighting chance in all eight. In West Virginia, he added, Senator Harley Kilgore would win.

Truman flashed a big smile when Sparkman mentioned Missouri as among the "doubtful" states. A St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorial lauding Democratic Senator Briggs was on his desk.

"I think you can take Senator Briggs off the doubtful column," the President declared. "He's going to win."

Husky 6-foot-4 Governor Folsom reported that the Democrats had raised twice as much money in Alabama as ever before in an off-year election.

"Despite the fussing we do among ourselves," he said, "the party as a whole is solidly behind you, Mr. President, and will continue to support you.

"One reason the Republicans are losing ground in this campaign, despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary, is because they won't take a stand on anything," Folsom contended. "They're fighting a negative fight, attacking what we do. Why, the Republicans wouldn't even take a stand on foreign policy, so we had to debate that out among ourselves."

"Big Jim" didn't have to mention Henry Wallace by name when he said this. The President beat him to it with a broad smile.

How Cotton Tumbled

Peoples' memories are short.

During the past two weeks the crash in the cotton market lost the south millions of dollars and gave the cotton belt a serious jolt.

Few people remember, however, that this was exactly what Chester Bowles, then economic stabilizer, warned against last March. At that time he sought to increase the margin on cotton trading in order to prevent runaway cotton prices.

Bowles remembered the economic catastrophe which hit the south after the last war when cotton climbed to its highest peak, then dropped to its lowest.

But Bowles' attempt to keep cotton on an even keel ran into serious trouble. Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, Democrat, didn't like it. He ranted and raved. A glance at the Congressional Record for last spring is revealing. Senator Thomas fumed and fulminated for page after page.

"Now Mr. Bowles comes along and says that these margin requirements are not sufficiently high," declaimed the Democratic Senator from Oklahoma, "and so to keep the prices of cotton from mounting he has issued an order that anyone who desires to sell or buy cotton must put up $50 a bale.

"If this order becomes effective, and if it does what Mr. Bowles thinks it will do—namely, drive the price of cotton down 1 cent—that will amount to $5 on a bale of cotton."

Thomas ranted on for thousands of words. But what he did not tell his colleagues was that he had been purchasing cotton on the exchange through members of his family. Naturally, therefore, he wanted cotton to go up. Anyway, he got his wish—at least for a while.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Bowles was eased out of the Government, the Office of Economic Stabilization was virtually abolished, and the price-control act was thrown on the scrap heap.

Meanwhile the price of cotton skyrocketed. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma had his way all right. Cotton soared up and up and then, having reached the almost record price of 39 cents a pound, cotton started down to a level near where Bowles wanted to keep it.

A lot of people got seriously hurt in this crash. And judging from the loud screams of anger from Senator Thomas he was one of them. If so, it was not the speculators whom he accused, but he, himself, who was largely to blame.

Capital Chaff

Representatives Wright Patman of Texas, for whom the Library of Congress is preparing a diagnosis of fascism, is trying to get the full text of the Rogge report, as well as two highly secret reports now in State Department files. The first is a list of American firms which aided the Nazi-controlled industrialists right up to Pearl Harbor. The second is the texts of a number of secret treaties between the Nazis and Spain, Italy, The USSRR and other countries. Full details on these agreements have never been released.

Truman Victory Over Slaughter May Be Costly

By MARK SULLIVAN

President Truman, at his Missouri home for the election, could hardly fail to be aware that his party's prospects are in low estate. He could find part of the reason by casting his eyes across the county line to the Fifth Missouri Congressional District, and casting his memory back three months.

The Fifth Missouri District was represented in the present Congress by Roger C. Slaughter, an able man and good Democrat—good, that is, by regular Democratic standards. But he was not good by the standards of the CIO Political Action Committee. They opposed him in his primary campaign for re-nomination last August.

While Mr. Slaughter was fighting for his political life, President Truman publicly announced opposition to him. This step—a Democratic President going out of his way to oppose re-nomination of a Democratic Congressman—was so unusual as to be almost unprecedented. The only recent precedent was the sensationally conspicuous attempt of President Roosevelt to "purge" three Democratic Senators in 1938.

Mr. Slaughter, in his campaign, did not especially emphasize the President's action; it was part of his high quality that he maintained an attitude of respect for the President of the United States. But Mr. Slaughter did emphasize, very strongly, the opposition to him of the CIO Political Action Committee, which he strongly attacked. In the turn the campaign took, the conspicuousness of Mr. Truman's action had the effect of associating him with the Political Action Committee.

Not The Victory Claimed

Mr. Slaughter was defeated. The defeat was regarded by some of Mr. Truman's friends, and we can presume by himself, as a victory for Mr. Truman. It was said that Mr. Truman had shown his authority and power as head of his party. But sager persons reflected that a victory by a President in one Congressional district of the 435 in the country is the winning of a very small battle; and that, as often, the winning of one battle might be the loss of the war.

This is what Mr. Truman must now reflect on. For a large part of the cause of the low estate of the Democrats is the cleavage between regular Democrats and the CIO Political Action Committee, and the association in the public mind of Mr. Truman with the latter group. Apart from the belief of the Political Action Committee, many voters hesitate to support a party which is obviously divided within itself, and confused as to its direction.

The same condition was illustrated by an incident in Michigan last Saturday. Mr. Henry A. Wallace was to deliver a campaign speech for the Democrats. This in itself was a blazing advertisement of the cleavage in the Democratic Party—a Democratic campaign speech to be made by a man who, a few weeks ago, was dismissed from the cabinet of a Democratic President. The condition was intensified by what took place.

In Michigan the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator is Mr. Arthur H. Vandenberg, who is one of America's representatives at the Peace Conference and in other activities associated with the United Nations. If Mr. Wallace was to make a Democratic speech at all, he could hardly fail to oppose re-election of Mr. Vandenberg. Also, the dismissal of Mr. Wallace from President Truman's cabinet had been caused by Mr. Wallace's divergence from the joint policy of Mr Vandenberg and Secretary of State Byrnes about Russia.

Democrats Halt Wallace Attack

In this background newsmen learned that Mr. Wallace's speech had been written several days before and, partly by information and partly by reasonable surmise, assumed that the speech would deal with what Mr. Wallace is most conspicuously identified with, his Russian policy. When Mr. Wallace delivered his speech, he changed it, and told newsmen the change had been made after consultation with the local Democratic leaders. The Democratic leaders did not want Mr. Vandenberg's candidacy attacked and it was not. And Mr. Wallace did not exploit his Russian policy.

President Truman, when he took over the Presidency, inherited a difficult situation within his party. Whether a different course from what he followed might have been better is in the world of "if." The next phase will emerge after next Tuesday's election. It will depend in part on whether Democratic candidates for Congress who reflect the regular wing of the party are or are not more successful than these supported by the CIO Political Action Committee.

Biggest Blunder Of Political Campaign Committed By Barkley

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — The biggest blunder of the political campaign has just been made by the majority leader of the senate, Alben Barkley of Kentucky. Far exceeding in its injury to the Democratic cause anything that Henry Wallace did, Mr. Barkley has done more to jeopardize bipartisan cooperation for peace than any speaker of the whole campaign on either side.

Mrs. Roosevelt's ineptitude and bad taste in making a partisan political speech while she is serving as a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations is inexcusable but it is far less important than the deliberate statement of the man who actually is the chosen leader of the Democratic Party in the U. S. Senate.

The speech doesn't sound like Mr. Barkley at all. He has tact and common sense and is an able leader and it may be that in the harassment and desperations of the closing days of the campaign he accepted carelessly a ghost-written speech prepared by the Democratic National Committee. One would like to believe that Mr. Barkley didn't give careful thought to the implications of his utterance which go far beyond the present campaign. He said in his radio address that if the Republicans win, the nation can then "say good-bye to any real hope of further progress along the hard road to international friendship and peace."

Attacks Those Aiding Peace Efforts

This is an amazing declaration to make at a time when Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the real leader of the Republican Party on foreign policy has done such an excellent job in assisting Secretary of State Byrnes in negotiations with other countries at Paris and elsewhere. The most important test vote in the present congress—whether the Republican Party is for or against international cooperation — was taken on the United Nations Charter. The Republicans voted overwhelmingly for the Charter and subsequently too for American participation in the world court.

Certainly the cause of bipartisan cooperation in the Senate will suffer if the leader of the Democratic Party harbors and such deep-seated distrust as he now has expressed. What Mr. Barkley has said will be presented from coast to coast by all those voters who do not agree that only Democrats are patriots and only Democrats are interested in world peace. It will make votes for the Republican Party out of sheer resentment. Plainly the sacrifices made on the battlefield and on the seas in World War II do not entitle either Mrs. Roosevelt or Senator Barkley to feel that the government of the United States is owned in perpetuity by the Democratic Party and that no Republicans need be trusted with public power hereafter because they would presumably wreck their own country and particularly its peace policy.

Bipartisan Efforts Endangered

There has been and is danger of breaking down the bipartisan peace policy but the biggest threat has come from the Pepper-Wallace isolationist wing of the Democratic Party which has been stabbing in the back the makers of the Truman-Brynes-Vandenberg foreign policy. It is true that there is a handful of isolationists in the Republican party and it is true there there are pro-Russian appeasers in the Democratic party. These groups are natural allies but together they cannot gain a majority of the senate or a two-thirds vote on any major issues if there is a bipartisan coalition such as has operated in recent months. Speeches like those of Senator Barkley and Mrs. Roosevelt, however, have really endangered a continuance of bipartisan cooperation. They have rekindled the flames of partisanship and made more difficult the task of Senator Vandenberg, the next Republican leader in the senate.

It will not be possible when the election is over to forget the speeches of Senator Barkley and Mrs. Roosevelt and call them "campaign oratory." The wounds left by the charges of distrust and the manifestations of suspicion will make it harder for the president and secretary of state to deal with the Senate. The Republicans now will rightly feel that the motive behind the administration's leaders in their sponsoring of foreign policy proposals is primarily political and part of a move to tell the country in 1948 that Republicans aren't patriotic Americans and cannot be trusted to act for the best interests of the United States in foreign policy if they are elected.

This is one way to bring confusion in the next two years and give aid and comfort to those nations which thrive on American dissension. Senator Barkley has done a disservice to his party and to the country and after election can repair the damage only by a frank apology to the Republican Party and the Republican voters of the nation.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I know a fellow who has a shoe store. He tells me every third customer has a hole in his sock. "They all lie about it," he says. "They tell me the sock didn't have a hole in it when they put it on in the morning."

The other day my aunt came to see me. We talked about her son, who had been a sergeant in the Quartermaster Depot at Staten Island. She told me, "He refused a commission because he wanted to stay with his buddies." A cup of coffee later she told me another fib: Her son had kept asking for overseas duty but his C. O. wouldn't let him go.

Billy Rose

It all gets down to this: The gal who tells you she never lies is a liar; the man who says he never makes a phony excuse is a phony. You can't avoid it. I guess it has something to do with the way we come off the assembly line. If I tried to go for a week without dishing out a little of the banana oil that lubricates society, I'd probably wind up with a busted head.

Last week I started jotting down the little lies I heard. Try it some time if your uncle owns a paper mill. Here are a few out of the notebook:

"Where is it? I'd like to wash my hands."

"I put a check in the mail. Funny you didn't get it."

"Nobody could finish this crossword puzzle—the definitions are unfair."

"I can't follow you rhumba. I do it like they do it in Cuba—authentic."

"We only keep liquor around the house in case someone gets a cold."

"I must have two down front for tonight's performance. My husband is hard of hearing."

"How can you say I was speeding, officer? At least fifty cars passed me."

Husband to wife at nightclub: "The girl kept flirting with me. Would you want me to be impolite?"

Wife to husband at another table: "Can I help it if a man comes over and talks to me?"

Woman at butcher's: "I'm sure you don't mind if he waits on me first. I've got some potatoes on the fire."

Lady driver who hit my parked car: "Why don't you look where you're going?"

President Truman: "I was misquoted."

If you think I'm trying to justify petty prevarication, you've got me right. Up to a couple of years ago, I used to give people straight answers. It got so they'd hang out "Beware of the Dog" signs when they saw me coming. Now I lather them with a little soft soap, and they introduce me to their dogs.

I met a girl the other night with bandy-legs and a little mustache. I told her she was "distinctive and different." It costs me nothing, and she went away convinced I was a fellow of rare discernment. I tell women I like their hats even when they look like the last word in egg plants. I'm training myself to laugh at jokes I didn't think were funny when I head them twenty years ago. This I still find a little tough.

A few years ago a producer invited me to a preview of his new show. When he asked what I though of it, I told him I didn't think it had a chance. When we got home my wife gave me a good talking to. "If you were as smart as you think you are, you wouldn't say such things. Do you want us to dine alone for the rest of our lives?"

"Well, what am I supposed to say about a bum show?" I asked.

"Say it's charming," said Eleanor. And that's been our code ever since. When we think something stinks we say it's charming.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

All public sales have a fascination for me, even though they do sometimes cause a catch in the throat—for there you witness the offering of things once loved by another, but now offered "to the highest bidder." There is distribution, however—someone else gaining the opportunity to love and treasure anew.

Many of my prized books have the signature of former owners, and many of them are marked with lines that suggest how another was impressed, or pleased, with the expression of the author. And there are other books that have been presented by the author himself, or herself, to a friend. The distribution gives joy and happiness to many another.

Whatever we write, whatever information we are able to distribute by word of mouth, is quite the same. Ourselves we distribute. Public libraries, public forums, the newspapers, the radio, and any number of other mediums, result in the distribution of knowledge and valuable information that add to our intelligence and pleasure.

We would not be in the midst of confusion and filled with fear and anxiety, did we have intelligent and unselfish distribution of our goods today. Production and wise distribution are the key to order and universal good will. This is a rich world. There is enough for all. Eliminate the selfish and greedy, distribute impartially, and for the good of all, and there would be a different story to tell.

Most of us are greatly blessed beyond our realization. We should count our blessings more, take invoice of them, and then start distributing them beyond ourselves. That is the way to personal and universal happiness.

The happy folks are those who gain joy from giving, for somehow, a new stream of blessings flow their way. There is a higher law than that of "supply and demand"—the one of giving, so that you may have an abundance. I have a pocket coin that a friend gave to me — it carries the initials of this line: "Lord I Do Give Thee Thanks For the Abundance That Is Mine." A wonderful line to distribute—and so I do!

It Is A Privilege And A Duty To Vote Today

During the past several weeks candidates and their supporters and leaders have held the spotlight in one of the most stirring off-year election campaigns in many years. Today, those who have listened to the political debates at party rallies or by radio will have their say with the ballot. Every man and woman who has qualified for this important day, by having his or her name placed on the registration books, should not fail to exercise the privilege of voicing their opinion with a freedom few countries in the world today grant. It is your duty to vote. Do not neglect it.

In this connection we would like to call attention to an essay, submitted to the American Bar Association, "The Responsibility Of the Citizen As a Voter," by Ralph Busnell Potts:

"The blood of free men stains my ballot sheet. Whatever others may do, I shall not carelessly make my mark. I vote not because I can but because I must. Those that died for this, my voice in my government, had a right to expect that I would prepare with every faculty to use it wisely, honestly and courageously. They did not die that fools, blind partisans, or the reckless, might make a game of free elections.

"Only my secret heart knows whether I justify the definition of 'Voter' as they wrote it in the redeening sand. If I love my country as they did, I question my qualifications again and again.

"I carefully study the issues and candidates to determine not what is best for me or my minority but for my Country.

"I will not be confused or deceived by propaganda, slogans or histrionics. I shield my eyes to the glitter of personalities, purge my mind of passion and prejudice, and search diligently for the hidden truth. I must be free of all influences save that of conscience and justice.

"I garden for dreams, but with a realistic spade. My test is not of trend or popularity but of principle and liberty.

"I vote as if my ballot alone decided the contest. I may lose my preference, but I will not throw away my sacred vote. For within the booth I hold in my humble hand the living proxy of all my country's honorable dead."

So, in exercising your right to a voice in your government, we have no hesitancy in suggesting that you mark your ballot for James Holmes, C. N. (Jerry) Wilkinson and William H. Lemmert, for county commissioners; Edward R. Muir for sheriff; A. Charles Stewart, for register of wills; Robert B. Kimble, for state senator, and Noel Speir Cook, William H. Geppert, Charles M. See, John T. Fey, Lester B. Reed and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., for the Maryland legislature. Every one of them will fill the offices they seek with credit to themselves and to the people of Allegany county.

Muzzle For The Press

The socialist-dominated British House of Commons, smarting from patriotic newspaper attacks on the government's "regiment-everything" program, has ordered an investigation into the "finance, control, ownership and management" of the nation's press. If, in their inability to brook criticism of their policies and their shortcomings, the laborites are turning toward the suppresson of freedom of speech, they are showing signs of turning to the reaction that generally has been the downfall of reform parties which become intrenched in power.

The great newspapers of England are the very symbols of the freedoms which made possible the accession of the laborite movement. Their independence of government controls has been in contrast to the press of the Continent, much of which has been and still is the organ and mouthpiece of government. The investigation ordered virtually places British newspapers on trial in a Star Chamber, with the choice of trucking to the government or a degree of state control, which the Times of London says rightly would be "intelerable."

The laborites are riding to a fall if they have the notion that the British people will long stand for the Times becoming a Pravda or the Daily Mail a Izvestia.

Truman And Johnson

An interesting subject of speculation is that if Harry Truman had been elected President in his own right he might have done better. But he was elected merely as the tail to the Roosevelt kite and has maintained from the time of the latter's demise that he would carry out Roosevelt's policies.

It is unfortunate for the nation that Mr. Truman did not develop policies of his own instead of clinging tenaciously to the clearly outmoded panaceas of the late Franklin Roosevelt. The parallel with Andrew Johnson is striking. Johnson was determined to hew to the course of Abraham Lincoln's policies toward the South when Congress would have none of them. He was a bitter-ender, just as Mr. Truman has been, and suffered personal consequences that were most uncomfortable.

Apparently it has not occurred to the President, as it did not occur to Johnson, that his predecessor, had he lived, might have changed his policies to meet changed conditions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

KNOBBY FINGERS

OVER a century ago William Heberden wrote: "What are those little, hard knots about the size of a pea which are frequently seen upon the fingers, particularly a little below the top near the joint? They have no connection with the gout, being found in persons who never had it; they continue for life; and being hardly ever attended with pain or disposed to become sores are rather unsightly than inconvenient, tho they must be some little hindrance of the free use of the fingers."

History does not tell us whether this 18th century physician found the answer but he probably would be interested to learn that today if a patient were to ask, "What are those small, hard knobs?" any medic would reply, "Heberden's nodes."

The condition is a form of arthritis occurring after the halfway mark in life, mainly after 60. It is confined chiefly to the joint nearest the ends of the fingers and rarely affects other structures in the body. As a rule, one digit is attacked at a time. In the early stages, the parts are red and tender but this phase is temporary, disappearing within a few months to a year. Swelling develops slowly and enlargement persists as a firm, bonelike ridge, for the abnormality represents an overgrowth of the hard edges of the joint itself.

To most victims, the appearance of the lumps is the most distressing feature. In some instances the end of the finger is bent somewhat to the right or left; in others, stiffness is noted.

No one knows the exact cause. It may typify an ageing process. Women are more likely to be affected in a ratio of almost 10 to 1. Stretcher discovered that there is a tendency for the disturbance to run in families. Apparently it is inherited and passed along thru the female side. Many afflicted individuals have sisters, but no brothers, who exhibit similar protuberances, especially if the mother had the defect. Its occurrence now and then in men is the exception that proves the rule but many male sufferers have sisters who manifest the deformity.

There is another variety having little to do with heredity which results from repeated injury. The baseball finger is an example. In one case, in which the bumps were located only on the fingers of the left hand, it was found upon questioning that the man had been a southpaw catcher. Trauma likewise explains the manifestation in typists and needleworkers who have been on the job for a long time.

No treatment is available to make the nodes vanish or prevent them from spreading to other fingers. During the pain stage, heat affords relief. Many of the ladies have volunteered the information that the hands feel better after washing dishes in warm water. Hot soaks or melted paraffin packs help for the same reason. Salicylates also afford relief. Since injury and cold aggravate the disorder, precautions against these situations must be taken. Of great importance to victims is the fact that this is not the crippling form of arthritis. Many fear such a complication and worry unnecessarily.

PROSTATE

J. H. R. writes: Where is the prostate? What causes it to become enlarged?

REPLY

This organ is located near the base of the bladder and surrounds the tiny passageway which leads to the outside (urethra). Enlargement may follow infection but is usually associated with the ageing process. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlarged prostate.

BIG-HEARTED

R. C. writes: Does hard physical labor cause enlargement of the heart?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Infection, high blood pressure, and impairment of the cardiac muscle are more likely origins. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enlargement of the heart.

HUNGRY AFTER EATING

F. E. writes: What causes a person to feel hungry after a hearty meal?

REPLY

Perhaps it was not hearty enough.

PELLAGRA

Mrs. W. writes: Does pellagra affect the nerves?

REPLY

Yes, as one o fthe symptoms is a peripheral neuritis which may be the most distressing feature of the disorder.

Truman Confident of Democratic Victory; Democrats Figure Losing Three Seats In Senate; How Senator Thomas of Oklahoma Prodded Cotton Debacle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Unlike FDR, Harry Truman has not made a private estimate of today's election results and tucked it away in a drawer of his desk to be opened after the voting is over.

However, President Truman did receive a confidential report on the election's outcome from Senator-elect John Sparkman of Alabama, who called at the White House with Alabama's Governor, "Big Jim" Folsom, and new Alabama Congressman Bob Jones who is taking Sparkman's place in the house.

To them the President expressed confidence that the Democrats would win both houses of Congress.

Despite newspaper polls indicating GOP control of the House and a tough battle for the Senate, despite pessimistic statements by Democrats like Governor Arnall of Georgia, Truman predicted a double-barreled victory.

Sparkman, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee Speakers' Bureau, drew him out by declaring that reports from the field indicated the Republican trend had run its course and that Democratic candidates were steadily picking up ground in most districts.

"Personally, I don't think we are going to lose either house, Mr. President," asserted Sparkman.

"Neither do I," said Truman.

Admitting that the Senate was the safest for the Democrats, he observed:

"However, I think we'll hold our own in the House."

Truman said that a number of Democratic seats conceded to Republicans a few weeks ago—and he named six seats specifically—are not being conceded now.

Senator Sparkman then went over the country, state by state, and predicted that the Democrats would retain 231 House seats, a majority of 13.

"We will lose between 10 and 12 seats all told in the House and not more than 3 in the Senate," Sparkman forecast. The present make-up of the Senate is: Democrats, 56; Republicans, 39; Progressive, 1.

The Democratic Line-up

"Our candidates are in safely in Washington, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming, Rhode Island and Maryland," Sparkman continued, "and we have an excellent chance of taking away two seats from the Republicans in California and Kentucky."

Sparkman named eight "doubtful" states — Massachusetts, Delaware, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Missouri and Idaho.

The Democrats, he said, have a fighting chance in all eight. In West Virginia, he added, Senator Harley Kilgore would win.

Truman flashed a big smile when Sparkman mentioned Missouri as among the "doubtful" states. A St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorial lauding Democratic Senator Briggs was on his desk.

"I think you can take Senator Briggs off the doubtful column," the President declared. "He's going to win."

Husky 6-foot-4 Governor Folsom reported that the Democrats had raised twice as much money in Alabama as ever before in an off-year election.

"Despite the fussing we do among ourselves," he said, "the party as a whole is solidly behind you, Mr. President, and will continue to support you.

"One reason the Republicans are losing ground in this campaign, despite all the ballyhoo to the contrary, is because they won't take a stand on anything," Folsom contended. "They're fighting a negative fight, attacking what we do. Why, the Republicans wouldn't even take a stand on foreign policy, so we had to debate that out among ourselves."

"Big Jim" didn't have to mention Henry Wallace by name when he said this. The President beat him to it with a broad smile.

How Cotton Tumbled

Peoples' memories are short.

During the past two weeks the crash in the cotton market lost the south millions of dollars and gave the cotton belt a serious jolt.

Few people remember, however, that this was exactly what Chester Bowles, then economic stabilizer, warned against last March. At that time he sought to increase the margin on cotton trading in order to prevent runaway cotton prices.

Bowles remembered the economic catastrophe which hit the south after the last war when cotton climbed to its highest peak, then dropped to its lowest.

But Bowles' attempt to keep cotton on an even keel ran into serious trouble. Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, Democrat, didn't like it. He ranted and raved. A glance at the Congressional Record for last spring is revealing. Senator Thomas fumed and fulminated for page after page.

"Now Mr. Bowles comes along and says that these margin requirements are not sufficiently high," declaimed the Democratic Senator from Oklahoma, "and so to keep the prices of cotton from mounting he has issued an order that anyone who desires to sell or buy cotton must put up $50 a bale.

"If this order becomes effective, and if it does what Mr. Bowles thinks it will do—namely, drive the price of cotton down 1 cent—that will amount to $5 on a bale of cotton."

Thomas ranted on for thousands of words. But what he did not tell his colleagues was that he had been purchasing cotton on the exchange through members of his family. Naturally, therefore, he wanted cotton to go up. Anyway, he got his wish—at least for a while.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Bowles was eased out of the Government, the Office of Economic Stabilization was virtually abolished, and the price-control act was thrown on the scrap heap.

Meanwhile the price of cotton skyrocketed. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma had his way all right. Cotton soared up and up and then, having reached the almost record price of 39 cents a pound, cotton started down to a level near where Bowles wanted to keep it.

A lot of people got seriously hurt in this crash. And judging from the loud screams of anger from Senator Thomas he was one of them. If so, it was not the speculators whom he accused, but he, himself, who was largely to blame.

Capital Chaff

Representatives Wright Patman of Texas, for whom the Library of Congress is preparing a diagnosis of fascism, is trying to get the full text of the Rogge report, as well as two highly secret reports now in State Department files. The first is a list of American firms which aided the Nazi-controlled industrialists right up to Pearl Harbor. The second is the texts of a number of secret treaties between the Nazis and Spain, Italy, The USSRR and other countries. Full details on these agreements have never been released.

Truman Victory Over Slaughter May Be Costly

By MARK SULLIVAN

President Truman, at his Missouri home for the election, could hardly fail to be aware that his party's prospects are in low estate. He could find part of the reason by casting his eyes across the county line to the Fifth Missouri Congressional District, and casting his memory back three months.

The Fifth Missouri District was represented in the present Congress by Roger C. Slaughter, an able man and good Democrat—good, that is, by regular Democratic standards. But he was not good by the standards of the CIO Political Action Committee. They opposed him in his primary campaign for re-nomination last August.

While Mr. Slaughter was fighting for his political life, President Truman publicly announced opposition to him. This step—a Democratic President going out of his way to oppose re-nomination of a Democratic Congressman—was so unusual as to be almost unprecedented. The only recent precedent was the sensationally conspicuous attempt of President Roosevelt to "purge" three Democratic Senators in 1938.

Mr. Slaughter, in his campaign, did not especially emphasize the President's action; it was part of his high quality that he maintained an attitude of respect for the President of the United States. But Mr. Slaughter did emphasize, very strongly, the opposition to him of the CIO Political Action Committee, which he strongly attacked. In the turn the campaign took, the conspicuousness of Mr. Truman's action had the effect of associating him with the Political Action Committee.

Not The Victory Claimed

Mr. Slaughter was defeated. The defeat was regarded by some of Mr. Truman's friends, and we can presume by himself, as a victory for Mr. Truman. It was said that Mr. Truman had shown his authority and power as head of his party. But sager persons reflected that a victory by a President in one Congressional district of the 435 in the country is the winning of a very small battle; and that, as often, the winning of one battle might be the loss of the war.

This is what Mr. Truman must now reflect on. For a large part of the cause of the low estate of the Democrats is the cleavage between regular Democrats and the CIO Political Action Committee, and the association in the public mind of Mr. Truman with the latter group. Apart from the belief of the Political Action Committee, many voters hesitate to support a party which is obviously divided within itself, and confused as to its direction.

The same condition was illustrated by an incident in Michigan last Saturday. Mr. Henry A. Wallace was to deliver a campaign speech for the Democrats. This in itself was a blazing advertisement of the cleavage in the Democratic Party—a Democratic campaign speech to be made by a man who, a few weeks ago, was dismissed from the cabinet of a Democratic President. The condition was intensified by what took place.

In Michigan the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator is Mr. Arthur H. Vandenberg, who is one of America's representatives at the Peace Conference and in other activities associated with the United Nations. If Mr. Wallace was to make a Democratic speech at all, he could hardly fail to oppose re-election of Mr. Vandenberg. Also, the dismissal of Mr. Wallace from President Truman's cabinet had been caused by Mr. Wallace's divergence from the joint policy of Mr Vandenberg and Secretary of State Byrnes about Russia.

Democrats Halt Wallace Attack

In this background newsmen learned that Mr. Wallace's speech had been written several days before and, partly by information and partly by reasonable surmise, assumed that the speech would deal with what Mr. Wallace is most conspicuously identified with, his Russian policy. When Mr. Wallace delivered his speech, he changed it, and told newsmen the change had been made after consultation with the local Democratic leaders. The Democratic leaders did not want Mr. Vandenberg's candidacy attacked and it was not. And Mr. Wallace did not exploit his Russian policy.

President Truman, when he took over the Presidency, inherited a difficult situation within his party. Whether a different course from what he followed might have been better is in the world of "if." The next phase will emerge after next Tuesday's election. It will depend in part on whether Democratic candidates for Congress who reflect the regular wing of the party are more successful than those supported by the CIO Political Action Committee.

Biggest Blunder Of Political Campaign Committed By Barkley

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — The biggest blunder of the political campaign has just been made by the majority leader of the senate, Alben Barkley of Kentucky. Far exceeding in its injury to the Democratic cause anything that Henry Wallace did, Mr. Barkley has done more to jeopardize bipartisan cooperation for peace than any speaker of the whole campaign on either side.

Mrs. Roosevelt's ineptitude and bad taste in making a partisan political speech while she is serving as a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations is inexcusable but it is far less important than the deliberate statement of the man who actually is the chosen leader of the Democratic Party in the U. S. Senate.

The speech doesn't sound like Mr. Barkley at all. He has tact and common sense and is an able leader and it may be that in the harassment and desperations of the closing days of the campaign he accepted carelessly a ghost-written speech prepared by the Democratic National Committee. One would like to believe that Mr. Barkley didn't give careful thought to the implications of his utterance which go far beyond the present campaign. He said in his radio address that if the Republicans win, the nation can then "say good-bye to any real hope of further progress along the hard road to international friendship and peace."

Attacks Those Aiding Peace Efforts

This is an amazing declaration to make at a time when Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the real leader of the Republican Party on foreign policy has done such an excellent job in assisting Secretary of State Byrnes in negotiations with other countries at Paris and elsewhere. The most important test vote in the present congress—whether the Republican Party is for or against international cooperation — was taken on the United Nations Charter. The Republicans voted overwhelmingly for the Charter and subsequently too for American participation in the world court.

Certainly the cause of bipartisan cooperation in the Senate will suffer if the leader of the Democratic Party harbors and such deep-seated distrust as he now has expressed. What Mr. Barkley has said will be presented from coast to coast by all those voters who do not agree that only Democrats are patriots and only Democrats are interested in world peace. It will make votes for the Republican Party out of sheer resentment. Plainly the sacrifices made on the battlefield and on the seas in World War II do not entitle either Mrs. Roosevelt or Senator Barkley to feel that the government of the United States is owned in perpetuity by the Democratic Party and that no Republicans need be trusted with public power hereafter because they would presumably wreck their own country and particularly its peace policy.

Bipartisan Efforts Endangered

There has been and is danger of breaking down the bipartisan peace policy but the biggest threat has come from the Pepper-Wallace isolationist wing of the Democratic Party which has been stabbing in the back the makers of the Truman-Brynes-Vandenberg foreign policy. It is true that there is a handful of isolationists in the Republican party and it is true there there are pro-Russian appeasers in the Democratic party. These groups are natural allies but together they cannot gain a majority of the senate or a two-thirds vote on any major issues if there is a bipartisan coalition such as has operated in recent months. Speeches like those of Senator Barkley and Mrs. Roosevelt, however, have really endangered a continuance of bipartisan cooperation. They have rekindled the flames of partisanship and made more difficult the task of Senator Vandenberg, the next Republican leader in the senate.

It will not be possible when the election is over to forget the speeches of Senator Barkley and Mrs. Roosevelt and call them "campaign oratory." The wounds left by the charges of distrust and the manifestations of suspicion will make it harder for the president and secretary of state to deal with the Senate. The Republicans now will rightly feel that the motive behind the administration's leaders in their sponsoring of foreign policy proposals is primarily political and part of a move to tell the country in 1948 that Republicans aren't patriotic Americans and cannot be trusted to act for the best interests of the United States in foreign policy if they are elected.

This is one way to bring confusion in the next two years and give aid and comfort to those nations which thrive on American dissension. Senator Barkley has done a disservice to his party and to the country and after election can repair the damage only by a frank apology to the Republican Party and the Republican voters of the nation.

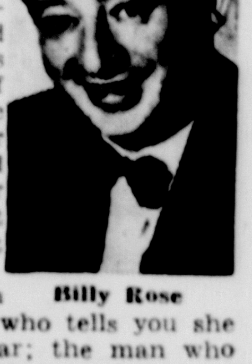
PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I know a fellow who has a shoe store. He tells me every third customer has a hole in his sock. "They all lie about it," he says. "They tell me the sock didn't have a hole in it when they put it on in the morning."

The other day my aunt came to see me. We talked about her son, who had been a sergeant in the Quartermaster Depot at Staten Island. She told me, "He refused a commission because he wanted to stay with his buddies." A cup of coffee later she told me another fib: Her son had kept asking for overseas duty but his C. O. wouldn't let him go.



Billy Rose

It all gets down to this: The gal who tells you she never lies is a liar; the man who says he never makes a phony excuse is a phony. You can't avoid it. I guess it has something to do with the way we come off the assembly line. If I tried to go for a week without dishing out a little of the banana oil that lubricates society, I'd probably wind up with a busted head.

Last week I started jotting down the little lies I heard. Try it some time if your uncle owns a paper mill. Here are a few out of the notebook:

"Where is it? I'd like to wash my hands."

"I put a check in the mail. Funny you didn't get it."

"Nobody could finish this crossword puzzle—the definitions are unfair."

"I can't follow you rhumba. I do it like they do it in Cuba—authentic."

"We only keep liquor around the house in case someone gets a cold."

"I must have two down front for tonight's performance. My husband is hard of hearing."

"How can you say I was speeding, officer? At least fifty cars passed me."

Husband to wife at nightclub: "The girl kept flirting with me. Would you want me to be impolite?"

Wife to husband at another table: "Can I help it if a man comes over and talks to me?"

Woman at butcher's: "I'm sure you don't mind if he waits on me first. I've got some potatoes on the fire."

President Truman: "I was misquoted."

If you think I'm trying to justify petty prevarication, you've got me right. Up to a couple of years ago, I used to give people straight answers. It got so they'd hang out "Beware of the Dog" signs when they saw me coming. Now I lather them with a little soft soap, and they introduce me to their dogs.

I met a girl the other night with bandy-legs and a little mustache. I told her she was "distinctive and different." It costs me nothing, and she went away convinced I was a fellow of rare discernment. I tell women I like their hats even when they look like the last word in egg plants. I'm training myself to laugh at jokes I didn't think were funny when I head them twenty years ago. This I still find a little tough.

A few years ago a producer invited me to a preview of his new show. When he asked what I though of it, I told him I didn't think it had a chance. When we got home my wife gave me a good talking to. "If you were as smart as you think you are, you wouldn't say such things. Do you want us to dine alone for the rest of our lives?"

"Well, what am I supposed to say about a bum show?" I asked.

"Say it's charming," said Eleanor. And that's been our code ever since. When we think something stinks we say it's charming.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

All public sales have a fascination for me, even though they do sometimes cause a catch in the throat—for there you witness the offering of things once loved by another, but now offered "to the highest bidder." There is distribution, however—someone else gaining the opportunity to love and treasure anew.

Many of my prized books have the signature of former owners, and many of them are marked with lines that suggest how another was impressed, or pleased, with the expression of the author. And there are other books that have been presented by the author himself, or herself, to a friend. The distribution gives joy and happiness to many another.

Whatever we write, whatever information we are able to distribute by word of mouth, is quite the same. Ourselves we distribute. Public libraries, public forums, the newspapers, the radio, and any number of other mediums, result in the distribution of knowledge and valuable information that add to our intelligence and pleasure.

We would not be in the midst of confusion and filled with fear and anxiety, did we have intelligent and unselfish distribution of our goods today. Production and wise distribution are the key to order and universal good will. This is a rich world. There is enough for all. Eliminate the selfish and greedy, distribute impartially, and for the good of all, and there would be a different story to tell.

Most of us are greatly blessed beyond our realization. We should count our blessings more, take invoice of them, and then start distributing them beyond ourselves. That is the way to personal and universal happiness.

The happy folks are those who gain joy from giving, for somehow, a new stream of blessings flow their way. There is a higher law than that of "supply and demand"—the one of giving, so that you may have an abundance. I have a pocket coin that I carry always. It carries the initials of this line: "Lord I Do Give Thee Thanks For The Abundance That Is Mine." A wonderful line to distribute—and so I do!

FAMILY MESSAGE NO. 5

"Those teen-agers and your family money"

Youngsters growing up would be less of a problem when it comes to money if parents kept in mind these helpful suggestions by Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, Executive Secretary of the National Conference on Family Relations.

1 How much money should teen-agers get?

"While every child should have an allowance, by teen-age his allowance should be big enough to include such things as sweaters, shoes, shirts, which he can buy on his own.

"Let the child make a list of all his needs; then talk it over with him so he understands he is getting neither less nor more than his fair share of what the family can afford.

"At first Mother can keep a weather eye out to see that the essentials are not neglected; but when the young person gets into senior high he should have the freedom to select most of the new things he needs."

2 When should parents keep hands off?

"Once the allowance has been decided upon, it belongs to the child. Teen-agers, like Mother and Dad, may spend foolishly; they will learn soon enough if they have to live with their own mistakes.

"And teen-agers have different tastes than parents. Mother may think a 'good' dress is worth stinting for . . . but Sister collects sweaters. Dad may prefer a business suit . . . but Brother goes for 'sharp' sports jackets.

"Letting youngsters make their own choices, with as little interference as possible, gives them experience they need in judging values."

3 What about money when teen-agers work?

"Work means a great deal to many young people . . . a chance to try out their abilities, to find themselves, to feel independent and to know what it means to earn their own money.

"When teen-agers earn money, they should always be allowed to spend part of it for themselves. If the family really needs part of the earnings, the child can contribute a share towards family expenses. But a portion should always be saved for the child's future.

"Where boys and girls have learned to save early, and to use good judgment in spending, they start out with good money habits . . . habits which will serve them well in building future character and happiness."

A simple, easy way to manage the family money

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer family worries by carefully planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank the small amounts each payday that will add up to the larger amounts when due.

Second: deposit something extra in the savings account until you have built up a fund for emergencies.

Then you know just what you have to spend on the everyday family needs such as food and clothing, and for recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

Music Festival To Have "Ambitious" Program

New Features To Be Piano Soloist; Small Groups Play Before Curtain

Preliminary plans have been made for the "All County Music Festival" to be held the latter part of April, Jack Platt, director of music education for the schools of Allegany County, announces.

The committee, composed of all junior and senior high school music teachers throughout the county, will spend several weeks in selecting music that will prove an education to the participants, and at the same time be of maximum value in entertainment for the audience, the director said.

Although the program will include a band, orchestra, choral clubs, a cappella group, boy's glee club and girl's glee club, only those high school pupils, who through their sincerity of work and recognizable ability to master the music selected will participate in this festival. In discussing it Mr. Platt said, "in all probability this means smaller music organizations in each division, for the music to be presented is ambitious and will require many laborious hours of individual practice as well as group rehearsals in school."

A new feature of the festival this year, will be having small groups play before the curtain, while the necessary adjustments are being made for the next performance.

As the climax of the program it is planned to have a combination of choral and instrumental work, with a chorus of around 100 selected voices and a selected band of 35 pieces. It will present a type of music too advanced for larger groups with which to work.

In addition, another feature, will be an outstanding soloist, selected from the schools of the county. This soloist will be a pianist.

Announcements concerning the competition, between capable pianists of the senior high schools, will be made shortly, Mr. Platt said. In order to select the outstanding pianist in the public school system, that pupil will be presented in a modern work called, "Repartee" with accompaniment of a selected band.

FLOOR SHOW GIVEN FOR VFW MEMBERS

Sixteen students from Mary Kathryn Steckman's Dance Studio staged an excellent floor show for veterans attending the ceremonial erans of Foreign Wars, Sunday night in the Queen City Hotel Ball Room.

Dale Parker of Frostburg was master of ceremonies and also participated in some of the numbers. He did a tap routine and also an exhibition of baton twirling.

A chorus of seven girls presented a military dance and song number, dedicated to veterans of World Wars I and II, featuring songs popular at the time of both wars, and also a Hawaiian number and other specialties.

Toni Dayton, of Westernport, a freshman at Potomac State College was solo vocalist, and an acrabotic dance number was given by Mary Frances Kennell, with a ballet specialty entilted "Memories of France," by Mary Louise Sheffler.

The Long Sisters, Alma June and Florence presented a specialty dance and a tap routine was done by Leureen Rinker and Thomas Mudge. Jo Ann Rowe and her guitar featured in the Hawaiian number. Members of the chorus included, Jo Ann Steele, Glenna Lyden and Delores Fairgrieve of Lonaconing; Bonny Lee Wilson, Darlene Wright and Mary Kathleen Logsdon of Barton and Betty Biddington of Frostburg.

Miss Steckman accompanied all the numbers at the piano.

New Theatre Unit To Stage First Play This Month

A newly formed local theatre group will begin rehearsals this week on their first production, "Angel Street", to be presented in Allegany High School auditorium, Friday, November 22.

Director of the new group, is Harold C. Wickard, well known here for the number of highly successful stage productions, plays and musical comedies he has presented.

Forming the nucleus of the new organization are several alumni of Allegany High School and the name adopted "Allegany Playhouse", emphasises this connection. Any profits realized will go to Allegany High School to purchase stage equipment and properties to encourage further advancement of dramatics at AHS.

Kenneth Hopwood, speaking for the group, said "Allegany Playhouse," will have no paid personnel; will seek no outside financial help, except from the sale of tickets, and aims to provide for those interested in the theatre, an opportunity to secure training in all phases of dramatic production.

Principal roles in the first production, "Angel Street," will be played by Louise Youngblood Moore as Mrs. Mannigham; Dixie Rafter Ballard, as Nancy; Jack Moore as Rough; and Hopwood as Mr. Manningham. Galen Metzger will be stage manager assisted by Derr Golladay.

Music Festival To Have "Ambitious" Program

New Features To Be Piano Soloist; Small Groups Play Before Curtain

Preliminary plans have been made for the "All County Music Festival" to be held the latter part of April, Jack Platt, director of music education for the schools of Allegany County, announces.

The committee, composed of all junior and senior high school music teachers throughout the county, will spend several weeks in selecting music that will prove an education to the participants, and at the same time be of maximum value in entertainment for the audience, the director said.

Although the program will include a band, orchestra, choral clubs, a cappella group, boy's glee club and girl's glee club, only those high school pupils, who through their sincerity of work and recognizable ability to master the music selected will participate in this festival. In discussing it Mr. Platt said, "in all probability this means smaller music organizations in each division, for the music to be presented is ambitious and will require many laborious hours of individual practice as well as group rehearsals in school."

A new feature of the festival this year, will be having small groups play before the curtain, while the necessary adjustments are being made for the next performance.

As the climax of the program it is planned to have a combination of choral and instrumental work, with a chorus of around 100 selected voices and a selected band of 35 pieces. It will present a type of music too advanced for larger groups with which to work.

In addition, another feature, will be an outstanding soloist, selected from the schools of the county. This soloist will be a pianist.

Announcements concerning the competition, between capable pianists of the senior high schools, will be made shortly, Mr. Platt said. In order to select the outstanding pianist in the public school system, that pupil will be presented in a modern work called "Repartee" with accompaniment of a selected band.

FLOOR SHOW GIVEN FOR VFW MEMBERS

Sixteen students from Mary Kathryn Steckman's Dance Studio staged an excellent floor show for veterans attending the ceremonial erans of Foreign Wars, Sunday night in the Queen City Hotel Ball Room.

Dale Parker of Frostburg was master of ceremonies and also participated in some of the numbers. He did a tap routine and also an exhibition of baton twirling.

A chorus of seven girls presented a military dance and song number, dedicated to veterans of World Wars I and II, featuring songs popular at the time of both wars, and also a Hawaiian number and other specialties.

Toni Dayton, of Westernport, a freshman at Potomac State College was solo vocalist, and an acrabotic dance number was given by Mary Frances Kennell, with a ballet specialty entilted "Memories of France," by Mary Louise Sheffler.

The Long Sisters, Alma June and Florence presented a specialty dance and a tap routine was done by Leureen Rinker and Thomas Mudge. Jo Ann Rowe and her guitar featured in the Hawaiian number. Members of the chorus included, Jo Ann Steele, Glenna Lyden and Delores Fairgrieve of Lonaconing; Bonny Lee Wilson, Darlene Wright and Mary Kathleen Logsdon of Barton and Betty Biddington of Frostburg.

Miss Steckman accompanied all the numbers at the piano.

ABL Recreational Club Plans Cider Celebration

Impromptu Entertainment To Mark Affair Friday In Constitution Park

The Employes Recreational Social Club of the Allegany Ballistic Laboratory will entertain its members and their invited guests with a "Cider Celebration," Friday.

Apples are being picked in the orchard on the ABL reservation and will be pressed for the celebration, which will be held in Constitution Park, from 6 to 8:30.

An extemporaneous entertainment will feature the program. Miss Eula Evans is general chairman of arrangements.

The club, organized in the late summer, sponsors various types of parties each month, in order to appeal to everyone. A dance is being planned for the latter part of the month.

A bowling league was organized in September with four teams in the ten pin league and six in the duck pin league.

George Dayton Weds Barbara MacLaughlin

Miss Barbara Ruth MacLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard D. McLaughlin, Santa Ana, California, and George T. Dayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dayton, Park Heights, were married Sunday, October 27, at the home of the bride.

Rev. Dr. John Ashly officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Robert D. G. Coale, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss June Johnson and Miss Violet Gatlin were bridesmaids. Lt. Robert D. G. Coale served as best man and Donna Kay Dye was flower girl.

Following the ceremony a reception was held after which the couple left on a wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Dayton will reside at 417 Louisiana avenue, city.

The bride attended Brewer High School and is a graduate of Templeton Union High School, Templeton, Calif., and the University of Washington, Seattle. Mr. Dayton is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. He served 43 months with the army during World War II.

New Theatre Unit To Stage First Play This Month

A newly formed local theatre group will begin rehearsals this week on their first production, "Angel Street", to be presented in Allegany High School auditorium, Friday, November 22.

Director of the new group, is Harold C. Wickard, well known here for the number of highly successful stage productions, plays and musical comedies he has presented.

Forming the nucleus of the new organization are several alumni of Allegany High School and the name adopted "Allegany Playhouse", emphasises this connection. Any profits realized will go to Allegany High School to purchase stage equipment and properties to encourage further advancement of dramatics at AHS.

Kenneth Hopwood, speaking for the group, said "Allegany Playhouse," will have no paid personnel; will seek no outside financial help, except from the sale of tickets, and aims to provide for those interested in the theatre, an opportunity to secure training in all phases of dramatic production.

Principal roles in the first production, "Angel Street," will be played by Louise Youngblood Moore as Mrs. Mannigham; Dixie Rafter Ballard, as Nancy; Jack Moore as Rough; and Hopwood as Mr. Manningham. Galen Metzger will be stage manager assisted by Derr Golladay.

Stock Market Negotiates Average Advance For Fifth Session In Row

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—For the fifth consecutive session the stock market today negotiated an average advance although pre-holiday profit cashing proved a restraining influence for many leaders.

Brokers generally credited further buying partly to Wall street hopes for a Republican victory. A certain amount of selling, however, was attributed to the thought that political optimism may have been overdone and that the recent advance possibly discounted results at tomorrow's polls. Principal exchanges will recess Tuesday for the elections.

Utilities, especially low-quoted issues which came out in 10,000-share blocks, were the liveliest sprinters. Motors did well throughout. The majority of rails slipped. Steels had their turn in the morning but later backed away. Extreme plus signs running to two points or so—there were assorted "thin" jumpers of about 10—were reduced in most cases or converted into minus marks at the close. Transfers of 1,830,000 shares compared with 1,670,000 Friday and were the largest since October 30.

General Motors was ahead 1⅛ points at 53¾ prior to a dividend meeting of directors. Chrysler ended up two at 87.

Eastman odak was up 9½ at 221½ on small sales. Western Auto Supply tacked on four at 68¼ following declaration of a sizable extra disbursement. American Can was up 2¼ at 87½, du Pont 2¼ at 179½, International Harvester 1⅞ at 73⅞, Santa Fe 1⅝ at 91⅝ and Consolidatde Edison one at 29¼.

Modest improvement was shown for United States Steel, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, United Aihcraft, North American, Public Service of N. J., Anaconda, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil (NJ) and J. C. Penney.

AT 69, GETS RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Calls This Famous Cereal "Wonderful Laxative Food"

Feeling down and out because of constipation? Read the words of cheer in this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am 69 years old and up to two years ago, I never knew what irregularity was. But I sure suffered agonies for nearly two years. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It is wonderful. How I wish every man who suffers the way I did, could hear of and try this wonderful laxative food." John T. Brennan, 611 E. Camilla St., Whittier, Calif.

Imagine! You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If after 10 days you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You will get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a natural laxative food providing gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat All-Bran every day as a delicious cereal—or in muffins.

Ask your grocer for ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Stock Market Negotiates Average Advance For Fifth Session In Row

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—For the fifth consecutive session the stock market today negotiated an average advance although pre-holiday profit cashing proved a restraining influence for many leaders.

Brokers generally credited further buying partly to Wall street hopes for a Republican victory. A certain amount of selling, however, was attributed to the thought that political optimism may have been overdone and that the recent advance possibly discounted results at tomorrow's polls. Principal exchanges will recess Tuesday for the elections.

Utilities, especially low-quoted issues which came out in 10,000-share blocks, were the liveliest sprinters. Motors did well throughout. The majority of rails slipped. Steels had their turn in the morning but later backed away. Extreme plus signs running to two points or so—there were assorted "thin" jumpers of about 10—were reduced in most cases or converted into minus marks at the close. Transfers of 1,830,000 shares compared with 1,670,000 Friday and were the largest since October 30.

General Motors was ahead 1⅛ points at 53¾ prior to a dividend meeting of directors. Chrysler ended up two at 87.

Eastman odak was up 9½ at 221½ on small sales. Western Auto Supply tacked on four at 68¼ following declaration of a sizable extra disbursement. American Can was up 2¼ at 87½, du Pont 2¼ at 179½, International Harvester 1⅞ at 73⅞, Santa Fe 1⅝ at 91⅝ and Consolidatde Edison one at 29¼.

Modest improvement was shown for United States Steel, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, United Aihcraft, North American, Public Service of N. J., Anaconda, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil (NJ) and J. C. Penney.

Laggards included Bethiehem, Youngstown Sheet, American Telephone, American Smelting, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Texas Company.

Higher in the Curb were American Gas, Consolidated Mining, Dennison Manufacturing, Solar Aircraft and Walthem Watch. Turnover here was 560,000 shares versus 440,000 in the previous full session.

American Telephone issues took the play in a generally improved bond market.

Sales of two A. T. and T. liens alone, the 3s and new 2⅝s, totaled more than $1,000,000. This compared with $5,852,000 for the entire market, against $7,380,000 Friday.

In the over-the-counter market United States governments retained recent gains, with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-72 unchanged at 102 24-32 bid.

Accordion Is Returned

An accordion missing from the home of Mrs. H. Emerson Symons, 738 Greene street, since Hallowe'en, has been returned, police said last night. They explained a Harman, W. Va., youth said he borrowed the instrument and did not have a chance to return it until yesterday since he had been visiting in Flintstone.

AT 69, GETS RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Calls This Famous Cereal "Wonderful Laxative Food"

Feeling down and out because of constipation? Read the words of cheer in this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am 69 years old and up to two years ago, I never knew what irregularity was. But I sure suffered agonies for nearly two years. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It is wonderful. How I wish every man who suffers the way I did, could hear of and try this wonderful laxative food." John T. Brennan, 611 E. Camilla St., Whittier, Calif.

Imagine! You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If after 10 days you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You will get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a natural laxative food providing gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat All-Bran every day as a delicious cereal—or in muffins.

Ask your grocer for ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Housing Situation Brings In-Law Trouble Regarding Children

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 23 and my husband is three years my senior. We get along fine, except where our youngster is concerned.

Owing to the housing situation, we have had to move in with his folks which, as you know, practically ruins any marriage. My problem is that the baby is over two years old and is just as spoiled as can be. He is so sweet when I have him alone, but when grandmother steps in, everything goes up in smoke and he just plain ignores me. At first, my husband blamed me and said I was a poor mother, but now the baby is acting the same way toward him. When I try to correct him for little things he does wrong, grandmother runs to the rescue immediately. We aren't allowed to care for him ourselves. There is always far too much interference.

I love my mother-in-law and hate to hurt her, but right now we are hurt far more than she can possibly realize. What can we do about this situation without hurting the one involved?

"BROKEN-HEARTED PARENTS"

It is very hard, indeed, for any young couple to have to live with in-laws. And there certainly are a great many of these situations today. It takes a great deal of courage and character to handle a problem such as this. It is too bad that so many older women who have married sons and daughters temporarily living with them cannot keep their hands off the young people's affairs, especially in the matter of bringing up their children.

If the parents writing the letter above can find a home for themselves before too long they will undoubtedly be able to correct whatever harm may have been done and get their child started off again in the right direction. As far as their fear that the child will grow away from them is concerned, I believed this to be groundless. I discussed this point with a child psychologist and the opinion given was that, as soon as the child is removed from his grandmother's house, he will certainly turn to the ones who would be most with him then; that is, the parents.

In the meantime, I think this father and mother will have to take a firm stand with the grandmother and let her understand that, after all, they are the parents of the child and they must be the ones to have the major control of him. The grandmother may resent it at first, but, if the parents proceed tactfully, she will probably get over it. I hope they will be able to find their own home soon and remove themselves from this disturbing environment.

I WONDER

I'm all for progress.

I'm all for any new movement which will carry the huan race along its long trail.

I'm strong for protecting old age and aiding youth and I have no use for these sourpusses who complain because it's nibbling away their profits.

I have known poverty in its cruelest form and I do not endorse it. I do not think it made a better woman of me or helped me to a wider understanding of life. I am quite sure that I would be finer and friendlier today if I had had more fun when I was a kid and better breaks as I went along.

I am saying this because it comes from my heart and also because what I am about to say will probably make you mad as the dickens.

What I am about to say is this—I'm for progress but I wonder if we are really getting our money's worth.

I Wonder if we are really continuing to build on those great principles upon which our nation and our national character were built.

This is the gimme age.

Everybody is wanting special privilege and protection and gobs and gobs of profit. And getting them. Before our babies are out of their cribs they are reaching for some special contact in Washington without any particular concern as to how they get it.

Now, some of this is good but I suspect that some of it is undermining the very things that America has always stood for and should always fight for-American pride and American independence.

American pride was very real and strenuous when I was a youngster and you don't have to go back to the cave age to find the proof of it. There was hardly an American citizen at the beginning of this century who would not have lain down and starved rather than accept charity. The very word was anathema. You were sorry for people who went to the poorhouse but you regarded them much as you would have regarded a leper.

Not that there wasn't abundant kindliness and generosity, friendliness and neighborliness. There was far more of that then than there is now. You expected to share with your neighbor and help him when he was down on his luck. That was not shameful to you or else. That was beneath the American standard of living. It was a shameful fate.

I am glad things are easier now. I am glad there are free clinics for mothers with sick babies. I am glad that there is provision for the old and the needy everywhere. Yet still I wonder. I wonder if we are paying too much for this seeming charity. I wonder if, with all our abundance, we may not be becoming a nation of beggars.

I remember with what shocked amazement I first witnessed a husky, healthy young man standing by the wayside and thumbing for a ride. I had never heard of thumbing for a ride in my life. I was almost forty years old and I was riding in the first car I ever possessed. It was nto an elegant car. I have never gone in for elegance. I did not mind giving the young man a ride but I was amazed and somewhat appalled that he should be willing to accept it. You see, they just didn't do things that way in the America I had known.

I had grown up in a rough, tough frontier town where you made your own way, or else.

Perhaps my amazement was wrong. I have given many a youngster a lift since and been glad of the chance and, I repeat, I'm truly grateful for any chance to split my dollar with the fellow who helps me earn it. But I'm still pretty dubious about this whole situation. As far as I'm concerned, I would still rather scrub streets than take anyone's bounty. That was bred into me with the first words I ever learned, with the first prayers I ever made, my first picture of America. I wonder if with all this remarkable "progress" we're not losing something that was infinitely more precious.

Three Separate Volleys Of Shots Are Investigated

Firing From Automobile Reported In Parsons; No One Injured

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Nov. 4 — State police and Tucker county authorities are investigating three separate volleys of firing from an unidentified automobile here Friday and Saturday nights and today at 3 a. m. No one was reported injured, although there were several eyewitnesses to the early morning shooting today.

Persons who fired several shots between 11:30 p. m. and midnight Friday in the vicinity of the Tucker county courthouse escaped in a car before officers reached the scene. On Saturday night at about the same time, authorities said, seven shots from a high-powered rifle were fired from an automobile on Quality Hill in the vicinity of the home of Sheriff A. Smith Hockman.

Early this morning, it was reported, five shots were fired from a .38 calibre pistol as an automobile went through the center of town on Route 219, travelling toward Elkins. Bullets went through windows of Miller's hardware store, Wilfong's clothing store, the Tucker County Bank, Lambert's OK Grocery and the Gordon Lambert grocery.

Two Men Found Dead

Two elderly Tucker county men were found dead at their homes today.

Mathias Arbogast, 73, Parsons, was found dead in a cabin on the farm of Emerson E. Hinkle, Mackeyville, about four miles east of here, where he lived alone. Hinkle, who discovered the body, reported he had last seen Mr. Arbogast alive when he helped the elderly man repair the cabin a week ago last Friday.

The time of death was set on October 25, and Sheriff A. Smith Hockman said Mr. Arbogast evidently died of a heart attack. The sheriff was assisted in the investigation by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb, Dr. F. K. Lyons, health officer, and Constable Sampson Pennington. Hinkle said Mr. Arbogast had lived in the cabin for several months.

A native of Randolph county, he was a woodsman most of his life. The only known survivor is a sister, Mrs. Hattie Lantz, Hendricks.

Services Set For Today

Services will be held at the Greenlief Funeral Home here on Tuesday at 2 p. m., with interment in the Fansler Cemetery, Hendricks.

The second man found dead today was Adam Long, 72, a lifelong resident of Tucker county, who resided in Hambleton. Oscar Baer, Parsons, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Benny Baer, Mr. Long's step-daughter, whom the elderly man had visited last Thursday afternoon, discovered the body at 4:30 p. m. after neighbors notified him that they had not seen Mr. Long since Thursday.

Baer reported he found Mr. Long dead in bed, with the lights turned on and the blinds pulled down. Authorities placed the time of death Thursday night. Mr. Long, a woodsman and farmer, had been in failing health for some time. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

A native of Pifer Mountain, Mr. Long was a son of the late William E. and Mary Yocum Long. His widow, Mrs. Rose Schooley Long, left a week ago to visit her son, Arthur Long, in Nitro, W. Va.

Also surviving are four step-children, Earl Watkins and William Long, both of Dundalk, Md.; W. Dale Long, Dunbar, and Mrs. Benny Baer, Parsons; and three brothers, Frank, Philippi; Elihu, Parsons, and James Long, Shippensburg, O.

The body has been taken to the Greenlief Funeral Home.

Mine Workers Are Opposing Kilgore

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 4 (AP)—President William Blizzard of United Mine Workers District 17 came out in a flat appeal today to "every working man in West Virginia" to vote against the election of Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D-WVa) in tomorrow's election.

In a tersely-worded statement, one of the leaders of the state's biggest labor segment thus turned his back on the man the UMW claims credit for electing to his first term six years ago.

Kilgore, who is chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, is opposed by Thomas Sweeney of Wheeling, 43-year-old insurance executive who ran against the senator in 1940.

Blizzard said in his statement:

"While the United Mine Workers of America has not endorsed either the Democratic or Republican party, I feel it is my duty to urge as strongly as I can that every working man in West Virginia, whether a coal miner or not, vote against Harley M. Kilgore.

"I ask all working people to vote against Kilgore because of his opposition to UMWA and to our president, John L. Lewis, personally; and because of his tie-up with the Communist-bossed CIO-PAC.

"I believe that it is the duty of every working man to vote against Kilgore for these reasons, and for many others known to the members and officials of the UMWA."

Veterans Groups In Westernport Plan Homecoming

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Nov. 4 — Victory Post No. 155 American Legion of Westernport and Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52 American Legion of Piedmont, are making plans for a homecoming for all those who served in the armed forces during World War II. It will be decided at the next meeting of each post whether to hold the celebration indoors or outside, determining whether it be held during the winter or next spring.

J. E. Kenny, Orville Kazlo, John Hanna, of Victory Post and John E. Grindle, Sam W. Widmer and George Angle of Kelly-Mansfield Post are members of the committee with Mr. Widmer as chairman.

Veteran Is Injured

Leo Lannon, 26, Poplar street, Westernport, an Army veteran of World War II, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., Saturday night after suffering second degree burns of the face, hands and arms.

Lannon was burned by steam arising from a large hot water tank in the color room at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, where he is employed. He was treated at the scene by Dr. Robert W. Bess, company physician, before being taken to the hospital.

Rites For Mrs. White

Services for Mrs. Elizabeth White, 76, Railroad street, Lonaconing, who died Thursday were held at her residence yesterday afternoon with the Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of Presbyterian Church of Lonaconing, officiating. Burial was in the Oak Hill Cemetery at Lonaconing.

Pallbearers were Patrick and Paul Nolan, Thomas Walters, W. H. Spiker, Bernard McPartland and Thomas Dailey.

Present Skits

The Junior high school assembly of Bruce High School was presented by the 7-2 class, taught by Mrs. Vernon Staggers. Two short skits featured the program. The first one, "The Lesson" was played by Marlene Nichols and William Michaels; the second one, "The Solicitors" played by Margaret Gardine, James Frantz, Robert McIntyre and William Bever.

The high school octet composed of Joanne Foreman, Elaine Bonner, Katherine Harris, Lois Ann Kelly, Seymour Nealis, William Metz, John Graney, Elwood Gift sang "Carmencita," "Mexican Folk Song" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Glen Dean Clark gave a reading, "A Sunday Idyll" and Duane Trenum, "Sambo Washington's Vindication."

Peggy Bush, Duretta Neuman, Lois Kelly and Josephine Satino sang "The Swan." Peggy Raines dressed in costume sang "Tit Willow." The 8-2 class taught by Mrs. Catherine Fahey presented the school with a $50 war bond.

Three Separate Volleys Of Shots Are Investigated

Firing From Automobile Reported In Parsons; No One Injured

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Nov. 4 — State police and Tucker county authorities are investigating three separate volleys of firing from an unidentified automobile here Friday and Saturday nights and today at 3 a. m. No one was reported injured, although there were several eyewitnesses to the early morning shooting today.

Persons who fired several shots between 11:30 p. m. and midnight Friday in the vicinity of the Tucker county courthouse escaped in a car before officers reached the scene. On Saturday night at about the same time, authorities said, seven shots from a high-powered rifle were fired from an automobile on Quality Hill in the vicinity of the home of Sheriff A. Smith Heckman.

Early this morning, it was reported, five shots were fired from a .38 calibre pistol as an automobile went through the center of town on Route 219, travelling toward Elkins. Bullets went through windows of Miller's hardware store, Wilfong's clothing store, the Tucker County Bank, Lambert's OK Grocery and the Gordon Lambert grocery.

Two Men Found Dead

Two elderly Tucker county men were found dead at their homes today.

Mathias Arbogast, 73, Parsons, was found dead in a cabin on the farm of Emerson E. Hinkle, Mackeyville, about four miles east of here, where he lived alone. Hinkle, who discovered the body, reported he had last seen Mr. Arbogast alive when he helped the elderly man repair the cabin a week ago last Friday.

The time of death was set on October 25, and Sheriff A. Smith Hockman said Mr. Arbogast evidently died of a heart attack. The sheriff was assisted in the investigation by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb, Dr. F. K. Lyons, health officer, and Constable Sampson Pennington. Hinkle said Mr. Arbogast had lived in the cabin for several months.

A native of Randolph county, he was a woodsman most of his life. The only known survivor is a sister, Mrs. Hattie Lantz, Hendricks.

Services Set For Today

Services will be held at the Greenlief Funeral Home here on Tuesday at 2 p. m., with interment in the Fansler Cemetery, Hendricks.

The second man found dead today was Adam Long, 72, a lifelong resident of Tucker county, who resided in Hambleton. Oscar Baer, Parsons, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Benny Baer, Mr. Long's step-daughter, whom the elderly man had visited last Thursday afternoon, discovered the body at 4:30 p. m. after neighbors notified him that they had not seen Mr. Long since Thursday.

Baer reported he found Mr. Long dead in bed, with the lights turned on and the blinds pulled down. Authorities placed the time of death Thursday night. Mr. Long, a woodsman and farmer, had been in failing health for some time. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

A native of Pifer Mountain, Mr. Long was a son of the late William E. and Mary Yocum Long. His widow, Mrs. Rose Schooley Long, left a week ago to visit her son, Arthur Long, in Nitro, W. Va.

Also surviving are four step-children, Earl Watkins and William Long, both of Dundalk, Md.; W. Dele Long, Dunbar, and Mrs. Benny Baer, Parsons; and three brothers, Frank, Philippi; Elihu, Parsons, and James Long, Shippensburg, O.

The body has been taken to the Greenlief Funeral Home.

Mine Workers Are Opposing Kilgore

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 4. (AP)—President William Blizzard of United Mine Workers District 17 came out in a flat appeal today to "every working man in West Virginia" to vote against the election of Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D-WVa) in tomorrow's election.

In a tersely-worded statement, one of the leaders of the state's biggest labor segment thus turned his back on the man the UMW claims credit for electing to his first term six years ago.

Kilgore, who is chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, is opposed by Thomas Sweeney of Wheeling, 43-year-old insurance executive who ran against the senator in 1940.

Blizzard said in his statement:

"While the United Mine Workers of America has not endorsed either the Democratic or Republican party, I feel it is my duty to urge as strongly as I can that every working man in West Virginia, whether a coal miner or not, vote against Harley M. Kilgore.

"I ask all working people to vote against Kilgore because of his opposition to UMWA and to our president, John L. Lewis, personally; and because of his tie-up with the Communist-bossed CIO-PAC.

"I believe that it is the duty of every working man to vote against Kilgore for these reasons, and for many others known to the members and officials of the UMWA."

Lebanese To Pay

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, Nov. 4. (AP)—The Lebanese government has decided to pay the United State 2,500 Lebanese pounds about $1,152 indemnity for damages caused to the American legation by bombs last August 4.

Fuson Will Not Be Able To Play Against Irish

Right Halfback Injured Last Saturday; Two Notre Dame Men Hurt

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP) — Herschel (UG) Fuson, regular right halfback of the all-winning Army eleven when he isn't busy filling in for another regular, will not play against Notre Dame Saturday because of a shoulder injury, Coach Earl Blaik told the New York football writers today through an emissary.

There's some doubt about the type of injury Fuson suffered but there's no doubt about its effect.

"He will not play," Lt. Bob MacKinnon told the reporters today. "Before I left the point to come here, Colonel Blaik emphasized that. He also said that the entire Army backfield strategy would have to be overhauled. At this time, we do not know who will replace Fuson."

Fuson, a rugged 220-pounder from Middlesburg, Tenn., started the season as the Army's regular center, a job he handled all last season. Then when Shorty McWilliams resigned to continue his education at Mississippi State, Fuson was converted into a halfback. He held that spot until Felix (Doc) Blanchard, All-America fullback was injured, then shifted to the plunging post.

Blanchard has recovered from his leg injury but in the last three games he and Fuson have shared the fullback duties and were the ace linebackers.

It is on defense that Fuson's absence may be felt to the greatest degree.

His most logical successor in the starting backfield is Rip Rowan, 180-pounder whose forte is speed rather than defensive strength. Another possibility is Bobby (Jack) Stuart, who has been out of the lineup all season because of a late September operation.

Stuart, who played for Tulsa University in the Jan. 1, 1945 Orange Bowl game, was in uniform for the first time last Saturday as the Cadets disposed of West Virginia, 19 to 0. He did not, however, get into the contest.

Charles Callahan, publicator for Notre Dame, also attended the luncheon and countered the Fuson announcement with a statement that it was possible that neither Center George Strohmeyer nor Zygmont Czarobski, left tackle, would face Army.

Strohmeyer, who picked up a pair of bruised ribs in the Iowa contest, added a twisted ankle to his miseries as the Irish downed Navy in Baltimore last Saturday. Czarobski has a hip injury.

Meanwhile, odds on the game now are 5 to 6, pick 'em. First odds listed last week had Army a 7 to 5 favorite.

Nevada Cancels Game Over Negro Players

RENO, Nev., Nov. 4 (AP)—The University of Nevada Board of Athletic Control voted unanimously today to cancel a football game scheduled with Mississippi State College because of the inability of the two schools to arrive at a mutual agreement regarding participation of Nevada's two negro stars in the contest.

The game was scheduled for Nov. 16, and the board agreed to leave the date open on Nevada's calendar.

The action was taken after the Nevada Athletic Board received a telegram from Mississippi State Athletic Director C. R. Noble stating that the Southern school "could not violate Southern tradition" by pitting whites against negroes on the athletic field.

The controversy was over whether Horace Gillom, negro end, and Bill Bass, negro back, would be allowed to play at Starkville, Miss. against the Southern school.

Bucky Harris Due To Manage Yankees

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Barring a bigger upset than Princeton's win over Penn last Saturday, Stanley (Bucky) Harris is due to be elected field manager of the New York Baseball Yankees tomorrow at a reputed salary of $35,000 a year.

President Larry MacPhail of the club has called a press conference for 1 p. m. (EST), at which time he has promised to clear up the question which has more or less agitated the baseball world since the season ended.

Harris at present an executive assistant on MacPhail's staff, is considered the logical successor to Johnny Neun, the former Yankee coach who finished out the season at the helm and since has signed to manage the Cincinnati Reds.

Jockey Is Suspended

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Apprentice Jockey Consolato Errico today drew a 10-day suspension, effective Wednesday, from the stewards. Errico's mount in today's fourth race, a 30 to 1 shot named Badge which finished first, was disqualified after crossing over and bothering two other horses. Buzz Bomb, which was placed on top, and Miss Flares, awarded the place. Errico only recently served a similar suspension.

Sid Luckman Picks Irish To Win

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP) — Quarterback Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears, who saw both teams play and occasionally helps Notre Dame brush up on its "T" attack, today picked the Irish to defeat Army in their heralded New York meeting Saturday.

"Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis are two of the greatest players who ever lived," Luckman told the Herald-American Quarterback Club, "but I feel that Notre Dame's power and line play will keep them from gaining too much.

"I think Notre Dame will win, but I'm not saying by how many touchdowns."

The youthful typewriter walloper was born in Ridgeley, the town Jesse Riggleman put on the map, but he learned his ABC's at LaVale school, which Johnny calls LaVale Tech. Then his parents moved to Cumberland and John L. furthered his education at East Side School, better known to him as East Side Prep.

The Borcherts got homesick for West Virginia and before Johnny could say "I don't wanna" he was back in Ridgeley attending schools.

In his memoirs, the youthful Mr. Borchert recalls that while residing in Ridgeley he attended school in four different buildings. And he didn't forget to record the fact that one of the buildings rocked so much when the wind blew he thought he was in the navy. The student body's theme song was "Anchors Aweigh."

Ralph R. Webster heard of Johnny and gladly invited him to become a member of Allegany High School's student body. But he wasn't there long before the Borcherts pulled stakes and headed for Weston, W. Va., where Johnny learned all about snakes, catamounts, rhododendrons, West Virginia's football team, Joe Stydahar, etc.

From Weston the family returned to Cumberland where young Borchert completed his junior and senior years not at Fort Hill nor LaSalle but Allegany.

Johnny didn't attend Fort Hill or LaSalle but he's announcing their home games over the public address system at the stadium this season and he's doing a nice job.

After he receives his diploma from Coach Dana "Horse" Lough at Potomac State he hopes to go to Ohio State. Nope, he's not going there to make the All-America football team but will take an engineering course.

"Do you think I can borrow a locomotive from the B. & O. to get out there?" asks Cumberland's Ted Husing.

What a man, this Borchert fellow!

Paul Sheehe, local restaurateur, is a brother-in-law of Paule Abele, one-time Duquesne University football captain and basktball star, and former grid coach at Meyersdale (Pa.) High School and Johnstown Catholic High School. Abele is now coaching football at Ligonier (Pa.) High.

Abele played basketball for the Dukes under Coach "Chick" Davies and after his college football career ended he served as secretary to Elmer Layden, when the latter was coaching football at the Pittsburgh school.

The Sheehe family of 13, nine boys and four girls, hails from Indiana, Pa. Mrs. Paul Sheehe was Miss Julia Abele.

Connie Mack has drafted two young first basemen, an indication that he will place George McQuinn, 35-year-old initial sacker on the market this winter.

Mack has obtained Ferris Fain from the San Francisco Seals for the $10,000 draft price. Fain is a left-handed batter and thrower who hit .301 and drove in 105 runs in the Coast League this year. He belted 11 homers, four triples and 33 doubles.

The other first sacker, Richard L. Adams, right handed batter and thrower, hit .350 for Wenatchee in the Western International League before moving up to Sacramento from whom Connie drafted him for $10,000. Richard, a brother of Infielder Bobby Adams of the Cincinnati Reds, hit 37 homers, seven triples and 36 doubles.

When the Cumberland Colts were in the Middle Atlantic League in 1930, McQuinn was first sacker of the Wheeling Stogies. He hit .288 that season. George played with the St. Louis Browns for eight seasons before being traded in October 1945 to the A's for Dick Siebert.

Somerset's Golden Eagles ran into a hard one on the chin last Friday at home when they were crushed by Windber High School's Ramblers by the track meet score of 41-6. The previous week Somerset whitewashed Westmont of Johnstown, 12-0, to mark up its fifth straight shutout. Windber made 18 first downs to Somerset's six.

A standard uniform for law enforcement officers has been adopted by the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

The field uniform comprises forest green breeches, shirts, battle jackets, blouses and overcoats.

A contract calling for the outfitting of approximately 60 members of the law enforcement division has been let with two clothing manufacturing concerns. It amounts to $12,100. It is hoped to have delivery completed before the end of this year.

Williamsport and Brunswick look like the soccer champions of Washington and Frederick counties. Both are undefeated to date. They'll likely compete in the state's Class "C" and "D" tournaments as their enrollments will not warrant a higher classification.

If Hagerstown hurdles Fort Hill's Sentinels in that big football game in the Hub City next Saturday it will give Coach Eddie Semler his first undefeated team in 16 years. The Maroon and Gray's last unbeaten team was its 1930 eleven.

Frederick is one of the few counties in which the girls are playing field ball this year. Middletown High is leading the circuit. Central High School, of Lonaconing, excelled in this rugged outdoor game prior to the war, mopping up everything in the county for ten years and winning two state championships.

They were great teams, weren't they Prof. Arthur F. Smith?

Hogan Is In Top Form For North-South Tourney

Shoots Six Under Par 66 In Exhibition At Pinehurst, N. C.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP) —Belting Benny Hogan, golf's top money winner, figures he's served sufficient warning that he's out to win the North and South open.

The little slugger's 6-under-par 66, including eight birdies, in an exhibition here yesterday speaks for itself. It establishes him as the favorite in the 45th renewal tomorrow of this oldest consecutive tourney in the land against the usual field of top professionals and amateurs plus a pair of threats from Britain — Dai Rees and Charles Ward.

Hogan teamed with Horton Smith in an 18-hole exhibition yesterday to defeat the Britons 2 and 1. Hogan's 66 was low but Rees demonstrated he was on his game with a 68 and must be reckoned with as a contender. Ward had 72 and Smith 74.

Sammy Snead, the British Open King, and Denny Shute, runner-up here in 1945, top the pro shooters who'll try to outscore Hogan. Others entered include Ellsworth Vines, Herman Barron, Harry Todd, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Ky Laffoon, Tony Manero, Dick Metz and Art Doering.

Tiny Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, who has won here several times; Horton Smith and the veterans Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour are others who'll seek some of the $7,500 in cash prizes.

Single rounds in the 72-hole stroke play competition are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday with the final two rounds Thursday over Pinehurst's rugged No. 2 course which stretches 6,879 yards and has a par 72.

Rabbit, Quail Season Opens November 11 In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, Nov. 4 — Quail and cottontail rabbits, along with raccons, opossums and skunks, will become legitimate game on November 11, the conservation commission reminded West Virginia's hunters today.

At the same time, Director Jack K. Shipman pointed out that squirrels ruffed grouse and wild turkeys, which have been hunted since October 5, return to the protected list on November 16.

The season on quail will extend through December 14, that on rabbit will end January 4 of next year, and the seasons on 'coons, 'possums and skunks will continue until January 31.

The season on muskrats and mink —on which there will be no bag limits—does not open until December 2, while between January 1 and February 28 limited trapping of Beavers by permit only will be allowed in areas where the animals are causing damage.

Hunters will be allowed six quail a day or 30 for the season; four rabbits daily or 35 for the season, and two raccons a day or 10 for the season. There will be no limits on opossums or skunks, Shipman said.

Class Day Wins Fifth Straight Race

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—R. S. Howard's Class Day, which has developed into one of the most consistent horses in the country, sped to his fifth straight triumph in today's featured Stormy Dawn Handicap, a six furlong dash for three year olds witnessed by 21,535 fans.

Carrying topweight of 126 pounds, the gelding romped home with four lengths to spare under Hedley Woodhouse. Jay Paley's Inroc, a slight favorite over the $6.80 winner, earned the place by a length and a half, with C. W. Whitney's Mush Mush, an entry with Blue Falcon, third in the field of seven. Class Day was timed in 1:11 4-5 and his share of the purse was $4,850.

Class Day began his current winning streak Sept. 21, running in the colors of his breeder, the Greenville Stable. Between that and his next triumph of Oct. 9, the brown gelding was privately acquired by his present owner, for whom he has now captured four in a row.

In 10 starts this year, the son of Valedictory 2nd-Miss Merriment has always finished in the money, with six wins, three seconds and one third to his credit.

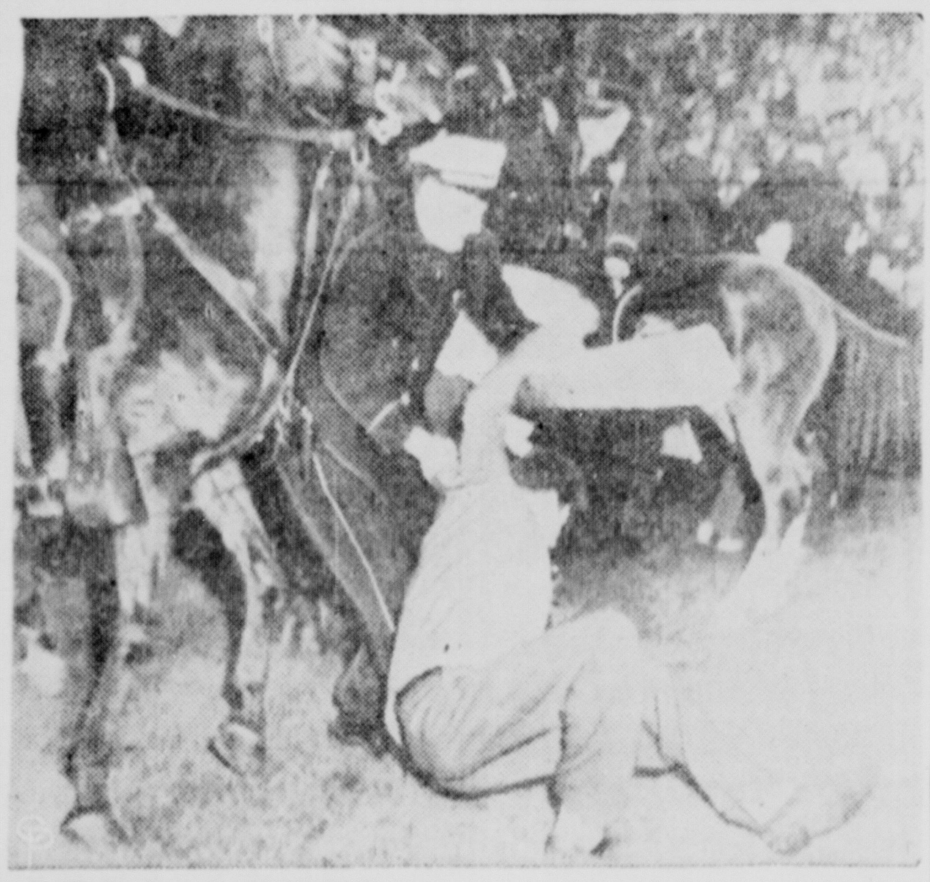
Navy Starts Working For Georgia Tech

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 4 (AP)—Capt. Tom Hamilton, Navy's football coach, went to work today in an attempt to repair the Middies' shattered pass defense in preparing to meet Georgia Tech Saturday.

It was a cold prospect for Hamilton, bringing his charges back again to the practice field after their fifth straight defeat—the last at the hands of powerful Notre Dame.

Hamilton was pleased to note, however, that Saturday's defeat had turned up a good sharpshooting passer in Reaves Baysinger, fourth string quarterback.

Baysinger, pressed into service when Jake Welsh and Cal Killeen were forced out by injuries, won plenty of commendation for his cool pass deliveries.



COPS SCORE—Mounted police at Philadelphia's Franklin Field down one of Princeton's happy horde on his own 10 yard line during a scrimmage between the law and triumphant Tiger rooters who sought to get down the field to tear up the goal posts. Despite a number of upsets such as this — and one of them was the upset by which the Tigers took the game from Princeton 14-17 — the Princeton lads did yank up the posts.

Cats Preparing For Major Test

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—The Potomac State Catamounts began practice today for their biggest test of the season this Saturday afternoon when the Cats will tangle with the California State Teachers' College eleven at 2 o'clock on Stayman Field.

Despite the fact that the Hilltoppers have won one more game than the Pennsylvania outfit, they will enter the game on the short end of the odds. California beat West Virginia Tech 38-2 while State tripped Tech 7-0. In a drizzle last Saturday, California toppled Salem College 54-0, the week before Potomac State downed the same team 20-0.

The Teachers have rolled up 185-points while yielding only 15 in their six games. The Cats have 99 points to their credit while giving up 12. Coach Dana "Horse" Lough, of Potomac State, said that California has much of everything, possessing a top-notch passing and running attack. The Teachers use spinners in the ground assault.

Injuries suffered in the Glenville affair will force Len Lenevich and Clifford Smith to the sidelines with either Bill Ballard or Don Rogers taking over the end spot and Jim McFarland moving in at the tackle position.

Credric Durst Will Manage Rochester

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Credric Durst, former Major League outfielder and pilot of the New York Yankee's farm club at Quincy, Ill., last season, today was named manager of the Rochester International League Baseball Club.

Durst succeeds Benny Borgmann who resigned last Saturday to coach the new National Professional Basketball League team at Syracuse.

He is the third manager of the St. Louis Cardinals' farm club within a year. Borgmann was named last June 15 when Burleigh Grimes resigned. Rochester finished seventh in the International League.

South Carolina Works Out For Maryland

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Serious forward pass drill, both offensively and defensively, occupied the University of South Carolina Gamecocks today as they practiced for their Southern Conference game with Maryland Saturday at College Park.

Harold (Bo) Hagan, freshman quarterback, on the throwing end, and left halfback Earl Dunham, receiving, showed up well as a pass combination.

The squad appeared to be in good shape for Maryland although Hagan's understudy, Droppy Atwell, will be unable to play because of injuries suffered in the Citadel game.

Mills Will Fight Joe Baksi Tonight

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP) — Freddie Mills, British light - heavyweight champion, who failed in two giant killer stabs at Gus Lesnevich and Bruce Woodcock this year, makes his third attempt tomorrow night against a ranking American heavyweight, Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., at London's Harringay arena.

Conceding height and reach and outweighed about 35 pounds, Mills has been placed on the short end of the betting odds, with Baksi a firm 4-6 favorite.

South End Cleaners Down North Enders

Romping to a 20 to 0 win over the North End Tigers on the Fort Hill practice field, the South End Cleaners, formerly the Cumberland Dragons, turned in their third straight football victory Sunday afternoon.

South End made 17 first downs to eight for the North End aggregation and completed seven of 11 passes, while the losers completed six out of 15 passes.

UCLA Record Good

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4 (AP)—With all this hubba-hubba over Army-Notre Dame, Western pigskin fanciers rise to remind that the nation's No. 3 team, UCLA, is no slouch, either.

While the Bruins' probable showdown test with rebounding Southern California is still three weeks off, there's a potent mass of evidence pointing to power, versatility and depth—earmarks of gridiron greatness.

In sweeping through six straight opponents 207 points to 59, UCLA has rolled up 2,477 yards, running and passing—an average of over 400 yards per game.

Hachazo Captures Bowie Handicap

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 4 (AP) — South America took it away here today.

Bred in Argentine, Boome Hall Stable's Hachazo chose to run and turned in a head decision to win the $15,000 added Governor Bowie Handicap, featuring the Monday program. The 5-year-old horse won at the expense of the favorite, Christiana Stables' Megogo in the test of a mile and five furlongs. In third position came Greentree Stable's Willing Spirit.

Beaten off 14 and 15 lengths in his two previous races, Hachazo, with Ruperto Donoso from south of the Equator in the saddle, was coupled in the betting with Mon Prince and the entry paid $33 to scattered backers in a crowd of 10,000. The winner was clocked in 2:45 4-5 for the long route.

Donoso sent Hachazo to the front in the early stages while Megogo and Willing Spirit were under strong restraint. Once in command, Donoso sat and waited challenges. Approaching the backstretch, Megogo went around horses boldly and looked all the winner. Donoso, however, did not go into a serious drive aboard Hachazo until Megogo took a neck lead in the stretch, then he applied the whip. Johnny Gilbert, on Megogo, also went to the bat. In the final drive the South American horse showed his mettle.

Neale Says Eagles Were "Up" Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP) — There was a bright gleam today in the eyes of Earle J. (Greasy) Neale, whose Philadelphia Eagles downed the New York Giants 24-14 to move into a first place tie in the National Football League's Eastern Division.

"I hope the squad doesn't get too overconfident because we have too go over to their back yard next week," Neale added quickly with a mental note that the Giants overcame a 21-0 deficit to win 28-21 last year in a game that cost the Eagles a deadlock for first place.

"The main reason we beat them," Neale commented, "was because the players were 'up' for this one. And we'll have to be 'up' again next week."

Mare And Colt Are Sold For $13,500 Each

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 4 (AP)—Top prices of $13,500 each were paid for a mare and colt at auction sales of horses in the paddock here this morning. In both cases the seller was J. L. Friedman. The S. W. Labrot Stable of Annapolis, Md., purchased Milcave for that figure and M. Marmarstein took Royal Chap for the same price. The average price for the entire sale was $2,715. C. E. Nelson of Ritchie, Md., bought Friedman's Overlin for $5,500 while E. L. Rankin of Baltimore gave a like amount for Spain's Armado from the same owner.

Organization Of New League To Be Completed

The final organization of the district's new independent basketball league is expected to be completed at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Amvets Home on Baltimore street. The name of the loop will be selected at the session and franchise fees will be posted.

Seven Players Dropped

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Ten members of the Hofstra College football squad, seven of them regular performers, were dropped from the team today by Coach John B. MacDonald.

MacDonald said the men violated training instructions at Springfield, Mass., last Friday night before Hofstra's game with American International College Saturday. Hofstra lost, 20-6.

Co-captains Named

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Center Chan Highsmith of Brunswick, Ga., and Guard Ralph Strayhorn of Durham today were elected co-captains of the University of North Carolina football team.

William And Mary Coach Is Moaning The Blues Again

Rube McCray Says North Carolina Is Stronger And Faster Team

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Nov. 4 (AP) —William and Mary head coach R. N. (Rube) McCray, currently regarded as the "moaningest mentor" in the entire Southern Conference, moaned louder and longer today than ever before this season, so the North Carolina Tar Heels had better look out Saturday.

McCray, who bosses what he labels "A pretty fair bunch of country football players," sends his Indians against North Carolina at Richmond, Va., in a battle that may go a long way toward determining the Southern Conference championship for 1946.

Among the Rube's moanings today were that "we don't have the speed and the manpower to cope with North Carolina. The Tar Heels are deeper, and their first team is a little stronger than ours. They've got team speed on us.

"I hope Carolina will hold the score down on us. We haven't anyone who can compare with Charlie Justice, their great freshman back."

Every time the Rube came out with statements like that during these past five Saturdays, somebody had to pay, so much so that the Indians, thanks to guard Knox Ramsey's terrific open-field blocking, have the best scoring record of any major college team in the country with 280 points.

McCray moaned "the Citadel has two teams, and there is little to choose between them. They will be rugged." His Indians won, 51-12.

Then came Virginia Tech. McCray grumbled this time that "they'll be tough to handle. They're got greater strength, and they're deeper in reserves (see any similarity in those moans, North Carolina?)" yet McCray's country boys won, 49-0.

The Indians faced Washington and Lee, and McCray mumbled something about the Generals' "T" formation and how Coach Art Lewis had been such a great football player with the Cleveland Pros, but the Tribe won, 34-18.

For Virginia Military Institute McCray came out with "we will need better than average line play to overcome VMI. Those Keydets are good." But they weren't good enough to keep William and Mary from running up a 41-0 score.

And last week against Maryland, McCray groaned that "Maryland is laying for us. Somebody said before the season started, they'd be one of the country's best football teams. I hope we can manage someway to get by them." The Indians did, 41-7.

Notre Dame's Injured Players Are Improved

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 4, (AP)—The hospital report on Notre Dame's injured players brightened considerably today with word that center George Strohmeyer and tackle Ziggy Czarobski probably would be able to play against Army.

Strohmeyer, 195-pounder from McAllen, Tex., suffered a sprained ankle and cracked ribs in the Navy game but today much of the swelling had disappeared and he felt good enough to do some running around the practice field.

A muscle in Czarobski's right side was torn and the 213-pound Chicagoan was still in some pain today. However, trainer Hughie Burns gave both players special heat treatments and predicted they would be ready for the kickoff Saturday.

Bill Dietrich Is Signed By Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Bill Dietrich, onetime "boy wonder" of local high school circles, joined the Philadelphia Athletics today after a 10-year lapse.

Manager Connie Mack announced the A's have signed the 36-year-old righthander who has been declared a free agent by the Chicago White Sox.

Dietrich began his Major League career with the Athletics in 1930 shortly after he was graduated from Frankford High.

Posessed of a blazing fast ball, Bill remained with the A's until 1936 when he went to the Washington Senators and later to the White Sox, for whom he pitched a no-hit no-run game against the St. Louis Browns on June 1, 1937.

Potomac State Cagers Report To Coach Lough

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—Coach Dana "Horse" Lough held the first meeting tonight of his 1946-47 basketball team. Thirty boys have already signed up for the team but Lough said that he expected a total turnout of over sixty.

Fuson Will Not Be Able To Play Against Irish

Right Halfback Injured Last Saturday; Two Notre Dame Men Hurt

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP) — Herschel (UG) Fuson, regular right halfback of the all-winning Army eleven when he isn't busy filling in for another regular, will not play against Notre Dame Saturday because of a shoulder injury, Coach Earl Blaik told the New York football writers today through an emissary.

There's some doubt about the type of injury Fuson suffered but there's no doubt about its effect.

"He will not play," Lt. Bob MacKinnon told the reporters today. "Before I left the point to come here, Colonel Blaik emphasized that. He also said that the entire Army backfield strategy would have to be overhauled. At this time, we do not know who will replace Fuson."

Fuson, a rugged 220-pounder from Middlesburg, Tenn., started the season as the Army's regular center, a job he handled all last season. Then when Shorty McWilliams resigned to continue his education at Mississippi State, Fuson was converted into a halfback. He held that spot until Felix (Doc) Blanchard, All-America fullback was injured, then shifted to the plunging post.

Blanchard has recovered from his leg injury but in the last three games he and Fuson have shared the fullback duties and were the ace linebackers.

It is on defense that Fuson's absence may be felt to the greatest degree.

His most logical successor in the starting backfield is Rip Rowan, 180-pounder whose forte is speed rather than defensive strength. Another possibility is Bobby (Jack) Stuart, who has been out of the lineup all season because of a late September operation.

Stuart, who played for Tulsa University in the Jan. 1, 1945 Orange Bowl game, was in uniform for the first time last Saturday as the Cadets disposed of West Virginia, 19 to 0. He did not, however, get into the contest.

Charles Callahan, publicator for Notre Dame, also attended the luncheon and countered the Fuson announcement with a statement that it was possible that neither Center George Strohmeyer nor Zygmont Czarobski, left tackle, would face Army.

Strohmeyer, who picked up a pair of bruised ribs in the Iowa contest, added a twisted ankle to his miseries as the Irish downed Navy in Baltimore last Saturday. Czarobski has a hip injury.

Meanwhile, odds on the game now are 5 to 6, pick 'em. First odds listed last week had Army a 7 to 5 favorite.

Nevada Cancels Game Over Negro Players

RENO, Nev., Nov. 4 (AP)—The University of Nevada Board of Athletic Control voted unanimously today to cancel a football game scheduled with Mississippi State College because of the inability of the two schools to arrive at a mutual agreement regarding participation of Nevada's two negro stars in the contest.

The game was scheduled for Nov. 16, and the board agreed to leave the date open on Nevada's calendar.

The action was taken after the Nevada Athletic Board received a telegram from Mississippi State Athletic Director C. R. Noble stating that the Southern school "could not violate Southern tradition" by pitting whites against negroes on the athletic field.

The controversy was over whether Horace Gillom, negro end, and Bill Bass, negro back, would be allowed to play at Starkville, Miss. against the Southern school.

Bucky Harris Due To Manage Yankees

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Barring a bigger upset than Princeton's win over Penn last Saturday, Stanley (Bucky) Harris is due to be elected field manager of the New York Baseball Yankees tomorrow at a reputed salary of $35,000 a year.

President Larry MacPhail of the club has called a press conference for 1 p. m. (EST), at which time he has promised to clear up the question which has more or less agitated the baseball world since the season ended.

Harris at present an executive assistant on MacPhail's staff, is considered the logical successor to Johnny Neun, the former Yankee coach who finished out the season at the helm and since has signed to manage the Cincinnati Reds.

Jockey Is Suspended

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Apprentice Jockey Consolato Errico today drew a 10-day suspension, effective Wednesday, from the stewards. Errico's mount in today's fourth race, a 30 to 1 shot named Badge which finished first, was disqualified after crossing over and bothering two other horses. Buzz Bomb, which was placed on top, and Miss Flares, awarded the place. Errico only recently served a similar suspension.

Sid Luckman Picks Irish To Win

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP) — Quarterback Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears, who saw both teams play and occasionally helps Notre Dame brush up on its "T" attack, today picked the Irish to defeat Army in their heralded New York meeting Saturday.

"Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis are two of the greatest players who ever lived," Luckman told the Herald-American Quarterback Club, "but I feel that Notre Dame's power and line play will keep them from gaining too much.

"I think Notre Dame will win, but I'm not saying by how many touchdowns."

Hubs Seek Perfect Year

By C. V. BURNS

Johnny Borchert, press relations specialist of Potomac State's undefeated football team, who rated bylines in the Times and News, (gosh Johnny how do you do it) has attended six different schools in two states and yet he is still a young man matriculating at a junior college.

The youthful typewriter walloper was born in Ridgeley, the town Jesse Riggleman put on the map, but he learned his ABC's at LaVale school, which Johnny calls LaVale Tech. Then his parents moved to Cumberland and John L. furthered his education at East Side School, better known to him as East Side Prep.

The Borcherts got homesick for West Virginia and before Johnny could say "I don't wanna" he was back in Ridgeley attending schools.

In his memoirs, the youthful Mr. Borchert recalls that while residing in Ridgeley he attended school in four different buildings. And he didn't forget to record the fact that one of the buildings rocked so much when the wind blew he thought he was in the navy. The student body's theme song was "Anchors Aweigh."

Ralph R. Webster heard of Johnny and gladly invited him to become a member of Allegany High School's student body. But he wasn't there long before the Borcherts pulled stakes and headed for Weston, W. Va., where Johnny learned all about snakes, catamounts, rhododendrons, West Virginia's football team, Joe Stydahar, etc.

From Weston the family returned to Cumberland where young Borchert completed his junior and senior years not at Fort Hill nor LaSalle but Allegany.

Johnny didn't attend Fort Hill or LaSalle but he's announcing their home games over the public address system at the stadium this season and he's doing a nice job.

After he receives his diploma from Coach Dana "Horse" Lough at Potomac State he hopes to go to Ohio State. Nope, he's not going there to make the All-America football team but will take an engineering course.

"Do you think I can borrow a locomotive from the B. & O. to get out there?" asks Cumberland's Ted Husing.

What a man, this Borchert fellow!

Paul Sheehe, local restaurateur, is a brother-in-law of Paule Abele, one-time Duquesne University football captain and basktball star, and former grid coach at Meyersdale (Pa.) High School and Johnstown Catholic High School. Abele is now coaching football at Ligonier (Pa.) High.

Abele played basketball for the Dukes under Coach "Chick" Davies and after his college football career ended he served as secretary to Elmer Layden, when the latter was coaching football at the Pittsburgh school.

The Sheehe family of 13, nine boys and four girls, hails from Indiana, Pa. Mrs. Paul Sheehe was Miss Julia Abele.

Connie Mack has drafted two young first basemen, an indication that he will place George McQuinn, 35-year-old initial sacker on the market this winter.

Mack has obtained Ferris Fain from the San Francisco Seals for the $10,000 draft price. Fain is a left-handed batter and thrower who hit .301 and drove in 105 runs in the Coast League this year. He belted 11 homers, four triples and 33 doubles.

The other first sacker, Richard L. Adams, right handed batter and thrower, hit .350 for Wenatche in the Western International League before moving up to Sacramento from whom Connie drafted him for $10,000. Richard, a brother of Infielder Bobby Adams of the Cincinnati Reds, hit 37 homers, seven triples and 36 doubles.

When the Cumberland Colts were in the Middle Atlantic League in 1930, McQuinn was first sacker of the Wheeling Stogies. He hit .288 that season. George played with the St. Louis Browns for eight seasons before being traded in October 1945 to the A's for Dick Siebert.

Somerset's Golden Eagles ran into a hard one on the chin last Friday at home when they were crushed by Windber High School's Ramblers by the track meet score of 41-6. The previous week Somerset whitewashed Westmont of Johnstown, 12-0, to mark up its fifth straight shutout. Windber made 18 first downs to Somerset's six.

A standard uniform for law enforcement officers has been adopted by the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

The field uniform comprises forest green breeches, shirts, battle jackets, blouses and overcoats.

A contract calling for the outfitting of approximately 60 members of the law enforcement division has been let with two clothing manufacturing concerns. It amounts to $12,100. It is hoped to have delivery completed before the end of this year.

Williamsport and Brunswick look like the soccer champions of Washington and Frederick counties. Both are undefeated to date. They'll likely compete in the state's Class "C" and "D" tournaments as their enrollments will not warrant a higher classification.

If Hagerstown hurdles Fort Hill's Sentinels in that big football game in the Hub City next Saturday it will give Coach Eddie Semler his first undefeated team in 16 years. The Maroon and Gray's last unbeaten team was its 1930 eleven.

Frederick is one of the few counties in which the girls are playing field ball this year. Middletown High is leading the circuit. Central High School, of Lonaconing, excelled in this rugged outdoor game prior to the war, mopping up everything in the county for ten years and winning two state championships.

They were great teams, weren't they Prof. Arthur F. Smith?

Hogan Is In Top Form For North-South Tourney

Shoots Six Under Par 66 In Exhibition At Pinehurst, N. C.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Belting Benny Hogan, golf's top money winner, figures he's served sufficient warning that he's out to win the North and South open.

The little slugger's 6-under-par 66, including eight birdies, in an exhibition here yesterday speaks for itself. It establishes him as the favorite in the 45th renewal tomorrow of this oldest consecutive tourney in the land against the usual field of top professionals and amateurs plus a pair of threats from Britain — Dai Rees and Charles Ward.

Hogan teamed with Horton Smith in an 18-hole exhibition yesterday to defeat the Britons 2 and 1. Hogan's 66 was low but Rees demonstrated he was on his game with a 68 and must be reckoned with as a contender. Ward had 72 and Smith 74.

Sammy Snead, the British Open King, and Denny Shute, runner-up here in 1945, top the pro shooters who'll try to outscore Hogan. Others entered include Ellsworth Vines, Herman Barron, Harry Todd, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Ky Laffoon, Tony Manero, Dick Metz and Art Doering.

Tiny Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, who has won here several times; Horton Smith and the veterans Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour are others who'll seek some of the $7,500 in cash prizes.

Single rounds in the 72-hole stroke play competition are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday with the final two rounds Thursday over Pinehurst's rugged No. 2 course which stretches 6,879 yards and has a par 72.

Rabbit, Quail Season Opens November 11 In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, Nov. 4 — Quail and cottontail rabbits, along with raccons, opossums and skunks, will become legitimate game on November 11, the conservation commission reminded West Virginia's hunters today.

At the same time, Director Jack K. Shipman pointed out that squirrels ruffed grouse and wild turkeys, which have been hunted since October 5, return to the protected list on November 16.

The season on quail will extend through December 14, that on rabbit will end January 4 of next year, and the seasons on 'coons, 'possums and skunks will continue until January 31.

The season on muskrats and mink —on which there will be no bag limits—does not open until December 2, while between January 1 and February 28 limited trapping of Beavers by permit only will be allowed in areas where the animals are causing damage.

Hunters will be allowed six quail a day or 30 for the season; four rabbits daily or 35 for the season, and two raccons a day or 10 for the season. There will be no limits on opossums or skunks, Shipman said.

Class Day Wins Fifth Straight Race

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—R. S. Howard's Class Day, which has developed into one of the most consistent horses in the country, sped to his fifth straight triumph in today's featured Stormy Dawn Handicap, a six furlong dash for three year olds witnessed by 21,535 fans.

Carrying topweight of 126 pounds, the gelding romped home with four lengths to spare under Hedley Woodhouse. Jay Paley's Inroc, a slight favorite over the $6.80 winner, earned the place by a length and a half, with C. W. Whitney's Mush Mush, an entry with Blue Falcon, third in the field of seven. Class Day was timed in 1:11 4-5 and his share of the purse was $4,850.

Class Day began his current winning streak Sept. 21, running in the colors of his breeder, the Greenville Stable. Between that and his next triumph of Oct. 9, the brown gelding was privately acquired by his present owner, for whom he has now captured four in a row.

In 10 starts this year, the son of Valedictory 2nd-Miss Merriment has always finished in the money, with six wins, three seconds and one third to his credit.

Navy Starts Working For Georgia Tech

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 4 (AP)—Capt. Tom Hamilton, Navy's football coach, went to work today in an attempt to repair the Middies' shattered pass defense in preparing to meet Georgia Tech Saturday.

It was a cold prospect for Hamilton, bringing his charges back again to the practice field after their fifth straight defeat—the last at the hands of powerful Notre Dame.

Hamilton was pleased to note, however, that Saturday's defeat had turned up a good sharpshooting passer in Reaves Baysinger, fourth string quarterback.

Baysinger, pressed into service when Jake Welsh and Cal Killeen were forced out by injuries, won plenty of commendation for his cool pass deliveries.

COPS SCORE—Mounted police at Philadelphia's Franklin Field down one of Princeton's happy horde on his own 10 yard line during a scrimmage between the law and triumphant Tiger rooters who sought to get down the field to tear up the goal posts. Despite a number of upsets such as this — and one of them was the upset by which the Tigers took the game from Princeton 14-17 — the Princeton lads did yank up the posts.

Cats Preparing For Major Test

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—The Potomac State Catamounts began practice today for their biggest test of the season this Saturday afternoon when the Cats will tangle with the California State Teachers' College eleven at 2 o'clock on Stayman Field.

Despite the fact that the Hilltoppers have won one more game than the Pennsylvania outfit, they will enter the game on the short end of the odds. California beat West Virginia Tech 38-2 while State tripped Tech 7-0. In a drizzle last Saturday, California toppled Salem College 54-0, the week before Potomac State downed the same team 20-0.

The Teachers have rolled up 185 points while yielding only 15 in their six games. The Cats have 99 points to their credit while giving up 12. Coach Dana "Horse" Lough, of Potomac State, said that California has much of everything, possessing a top-notch passing and running attack. The Teachers use spinners in the ground assault.

Injuries suffered in the Glenville affair will force Len Lenevich and Clifford Smith to the sidelines with either Bill Ballard or Don Rogers taking over the end spot and Jim McFarland moving in at the tackle position.

Credric Durst Will Manage Rochester

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Credric Durst, former Major League outfielder and pilot of the New York Yankee's farm club at Quincy, Ill., last season, today was named manager of the Rochester International League Baseball Club.

Durst succeeds Benny Borgmann who resigned last Saturday to coach the new National Professional Basketball League team at Syracuse.

He is the third manager of the St. Louis Cardinals' farm club within a year. Borgmann was named last June 15 when Burleigh Grimes resigned. Rochester finished seventh in the International League.

South Carolina Works Out For Maryland

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Serious forward pass drill, both offensively and defensively, occupied the University of South Carolina Gamecocks today as they practiced for their Southern Conference game with Maryland Saturday at College Park.

Harold (Bo) Hagan, freshman quarterback, on the throwing end, and left halfback Earl Dunham, receiving, showed up well as a pass combination.

The squad appeared to be in good shape for Maryland although Hagan's understudy, Droppy Atwell, will be unable to play because of injuries suffered in the Citadel game.

Mills Will Fight Joe Baksi Tonight

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP) — Freddie Mills, British light - heavyweight champion, who failed in two giant killer stabs at Gus Lesnevich and Bruce Woodcock this year, makes his third attempt tomorrow night against a ranking American heavyweight, Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., at London's Harringay arena.

Conceding height and reach and outweighed about 35 pounds, Mills has been placed on the short end of the betting odds, with Baksi a firm 4-6 favorite.

South End Cleaners Down North Enders

Romping to a 20 to 0 win over the North End Tigers on the Fort Hill practice field, the South End Cleaners, formerly the Cumberland Dragons, turned in their third straight football victory Sunday afternoon.

South End made 17 first downs to eight for the North End aggregation and completed seven of 11 passes, while the losers completed six out of 15 passes.

UCLA Record Good

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4 (AP)—With all this hubba-hubba over Army-Notre Dame, Western pigskin fanciers rise to remind that the nation's No. 3 team, UCLA, is no slouch, either.

While the Bruins' probable showdown test with rebounding Southern California is still three weeks off, there's a potent mass of evidence pointing to power, versatility and depth—earmarks of gridiron greatness.

In sweeping through six straight opponents 207 points to 59, UCLA has rolled up 2,477 yards, running and passing—an average of over 400 yards per game.

Hachazo Captures Bowie Handicap

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 4 (AP) — South America took it away here today.

Bred in Argentine, Boome Hall Stable's Hachazo chose to run and turned in a head decision to win the $15,000 added Governor Bowie Handicap, featuring the Monday program. The 5-year-old horse won at the expense of the favorite, Christiana Stables' Megogo in the test of a mile and five furlongs. In third position came Greentree Stable's Willing Spirit.

Beaten off 14 and 15 lengths in his two previous races, Hachazo, with Ruperto Donoso from south of the Equator in the saddle, was coupled in the betting with Mon Prince and the entry paid $33 to scattered backers in a crowd of 10,000. The winner was clocked in 2:45 4-5 for the long route.

Donoso sent Hachazo to the front in the early stages while Megogo and Willing Spirit were under strong restraint. Once in command, Donoso sat and waited challenges. Approaching the backstretch, Megogo went around horses boldly and looked all the winner. Donoso, however, did not go into a serious drive aboard Hachazo until Megogo took a neck lead in the stretch, then he applied the whip. Johnny Gilbert, on Megogo, also went to the bat. In the final drive the South American horse showed his mettle.

Neale Says Eagles Were "Up" Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP) — There was a bright gleam today in the eyes of Earle J. (Greasy) Neale, whose Philadelphia Eagles downed the New York Giants 24-14 to move into a first place tie in the National Football League's Eastern Division.

"I hope the squad doesn't get too overconfident because we have too go over to their back yard next week." Neale added quickly with a mental note that the Giants overcame a 21-0 deficit to win 28-21 last year in a game that cost the Eagles a deadlock for first place.

"The main reason we beat them," Neale commented, "was because the players were 'up' for this one. And we'll have to be 'up' again next week."

Mare And Colt Are Sold For $13,500 Each

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 4 (AP)—Top prices of $13,500 each were paid for a mare and colt at auction sales of horses in the paddock here this morning. In both cases the seller was J. L. Friedman. The S. W. Labrot Stable of Annapolis, Md., purchased Milcave for that figure and M. Marmarstein took Royal Chap for the same price. The average price for the entire sale was $2,715. C. E. Nelson of Ritchie, Md., bought Friedman's Overlin for $5,500 while E. L. Rankin of Baltimore gave a like amount for Spain's Armado from the same owner.

Organization Of New League To Be Completed

The final organization of the district's new independent basketball league is expected to be completed at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Amvets Home on Baltimore street. The name of the loop will be selected at the session and franchise fees will be posted.

Seven Players Dropped

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Ten members of the Hofstra College football squad, seven of them regular performers, were dropped from the team today by Coach John B. MacDonald.

MacDonald said the men violated training instructions at Springfield, Mass., last Friday night before Hofstra's game with American International College Saturday. Hofstra lost, 20-6.

Co-captains Named

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 4 (AP)—Center Chan Highsmith of Brunswick, Ga., and Guard Ralph Strayhorn of Durham today were elected co-captains of the University of North Carolina football team.

William And Mary Coach Is Moaning The Blues Again

Rube McCray Says North Carolina Is Stronger And Faster Team

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Nov. 4 (AP)—William and Mary head coach R. N. (Rube) McCray, currently regarded as the "moaningest mentor" in the entire Southern Conference, moaned louder and longer today than ever before this season, so the North Carolina Tar Heels had better look out Saturday.

McCray, who bosses what he labels "A pretty fair bunch of country football players," sends his Indians against North Carolina at Richmond, Va., in a battle that may go a long way toward determining the Southern Conference championship for 1946.

Among the Rube's moanings today were that "we don't have the speed and the manpower to cope with North Carolina. The Tar Heels are deeper, and their first team is a little stronger than ours. They've got team speed on us.

"I hope Carolina will hold the score down on us. We haven't anyone who can compare with Charlie Justice, their great freshman back."

Every time the Rube came out with statements like that during these past five Saturdays, somebody had to pay, so much so that the Indians, thanks to guard Knox Ramsey's terrific open-field blocking, have the best scoring record of any major college team in the country with 280 points.

McCray moaned "the Citadel has two teams, and there is little to choose between them. They will be rugged." His Indians won, 51-12.

Then came Virginia Tech. McCray grumbled this time that "they'll be tough to handle. They're got greater strength, and they're deeper in reserves (see any similarity in those moans, North Carolina?)" yet McCray's country boys won, 49-0.

The Indians faced Washington and Lee, and McCray mumbled something about the Generals' "T" formation and how Coach Art Lewis had been such a great football player with the Cleveland Pros, but the Tribe won, 34-18.

For Virginia Military Institute McCray came out with "we will need better than average line play to overcome VMI. Those Keydets are good." But they weren't good enough to keep William and Mary from running up a 41-0 score.

And last week against Maryland, McCray groaned that "Maryland is laying for us. Somebody said before the season started, they'd be one of the country's best football teams. I hope we can manage someway to get by them." The Indians did, 41-7.

Notre Dame's Injured Players Are Improved

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 4. (AP)—The hospital report on Notre Dame's injured players brightened considerably today with word that center George Strohmeyer and tackle Ziggy Czarobski probably would be able to play against Army.

Strohmeyer, 195-pounder from McAllen, Tex., suffered a sprained ankle and cracked ribs in the Navy game but today much of the swelling had disappeared and he felt good enough to do some running around the practice field.

A muscle in Czarobski's right side was torn and the 213-pound Chicagoan was still in some pain today. However, trainer Hughie Burns gave both players special heat treatments and predicted they would be ready for the kickoff Saturday.

Bill Dietrich Is Signed By Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Bill Dietrich, onetime "boy wonder" of local high school circles, joined the Philadelphia Athletics today after a 10-year lapse.

Manager Connie Mack announced the A's have signed the 36-year-old righthander who has been declared a free agent by the Chicago White Sox.

Dietrich began his Major League career with the Athletics in 1930 shortly after he was graduated from Frankford High.

Posessed of a blazing fast ball, Bill remained with the A's until 1936 when he went to the Washington Senators and later to the White Sox, for whom he pitched a no-hit no-run game against the St. Louis Browns on June 1, 1937.

Potomac State Cagers Report To Coach Lough

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 4—Coach Dana "Horse" Lough held the first meeting tonight of his 1946-47 basketball team. Thirty boys have already signed up for the team but Lough said that he expected a total turnout of over sixty.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4 — Everybody relax—Kay of "The Hucksters" is chosen. Kay is Deborah Kerr, and for my money that is as perfect casting as I ever met up with in my life. Deborah sails for Hollywood November 16, and "The Hucksters" gets going, after all this long time, on the last of this month. I really believe this is going to bring Gable back in a big, big way. Moreover, Gable has just signed a brand new deal with MGM.

Arthur Hornblow, who makes good pictures, is the producer, with Jack Conway, an old friend of Gable's, directing. The script turned out to the satisfaction of Gable who is now happy about the whole thing. If you saw Deborah Kerr in "Vacation From Marriage," you'll know she's the answer to any star's prayer for a movie girl friend. She is lovely, and she is talented.

Those cooked up rumors that the Rex Harrisons are straining at the leash because he doesn't want her to work in pictures, will never boil because they ain't true. Neither Rex nor his pretty Lilli let these things bother them. They laughed at the rumor hounds in New York. I had dinner with them a few nights ago and there certainly was no evidence of trouble. Rex is interested enough in Lilli's career to discuss her next picture, "Distant Drums," a story of the Oregon trail. Milton Sperling, for whom she will make it, is glad to get her for she was a solid click in her first movie for him, "Cloak and Dagger." Although the picture won't set the world on fire, it's doing big business at all the theaters.

Trouble on the Potomac — and that's what I mean. Now comes Johnny Farrow, well known director, stating that he has prior claim on "Moonrise" which, 'tis said, Garson Kanin has already bought for $125,000. The story, which first appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine, is a drama about prejudice in the south, and it's by Ted Strauss. The gossip is that Kanin bought it to make for Universal-International — now Johnny says he bid $140,000 for it before the author started negotiating with Kanin. He wants to make it for Paramount. Well, there's nothing like a good argument, so we'll see who will win. The boys must consider it to be good movie material.

I asked Ingrid Bergman if it were true that she and Dr. Peter Lindstrom are separating. I got her on the telephone between shows in Washington, and she laughed at such gossip. "Dr. Lindstrom came to Washington for my play and took pictures of it in 16mm," she said. "He goes from here to the Boston hospital and later to Johns Hopkins in Baltimore to study, then back to New York for my Broadway debut. As I told you, he returns to Hollywood to his work in the General Hospital and to look after our daughter Pia. You're married to a doctor, so you should understand that Dr. Lindstrom doesn't like to talk for publication."

Chatter in Hollywood: Latest spark from the legally tangled elopement of Artie Shaw and Kathleen Winsor is that they will live under separate roofs until the complications surrounding their marriage are cleared up. Yes ma'am, the newlyweds are starting married life in the center of threatening storms—one from the state of California which would like to get a look at their final divorce papers, and still another cloud on the horizon in the person of Kathleen's ex, Robert Herwig, who 'tis said, has some ideas about community property settlement. But all isn't trouble. Artie's turned out a torch ballad "Forever Amber" which has been offered to 20th for a theme song for his wife's movie and he's also written a book about himself, "Those Two Other Guys", which is his story of how he sees his favorite person—Artie Shaw, of course.

Tyrone Power is flying Virginia and Darryl Zanuck to the "Razor's Edge" premiere, November 19, in New York. At dinner with Ty, the Zanucks, Marlene Dietrich, the Sam Goldwyns, Fefe Ferri and Charles Feldman, Ty told us about his experiences in South America. He really must write a book. He was received by presidents and dictators, and did more to promote good will than a boat load of official ambassadors to South America. Gene Tierney will go to New York by train. And again I want to shout to the four winds, the most ridiculous of all stories is the one connecting Gene and Tyrone in a romance. Let me say they don't need publicity of this kind for the "Razor's Edge". That picture is so good that it will sell itself without any fake romances.

There's more to the Howard Hughes-Preston Sturges battle than meets the eye, and for once Howard doesn't want to direct. This is what happened. The Harold Lloyd picture, "The Sin of Harold Diddlebock", runs far too long, and Preston was unwilling to cut it. That started the first misunderstanding. And there was an awful lot of money spent on "Vendetta". Preston let the writer go and did the writing himself—let the director go and did the directing himself, along with producing, which was more than any one man could do. So maybe that's what really went wrong. Anyhow, Stuart Heisler is directing now and he is starting all over again.

I opened my eyes wide when Marlene Dietrich said, "I'm going back to Paris in early December to make a picture with Jean Gabin." "I thought you and Jean had quarreled," I said. Marlene shrugged her shoulders saying, "that's what everybody said, but there never was any truth in it. I had planned, as you know, to make a picture with Raimu, but he died, and now Jean wants me to come back in time for the opening of our first picture in the middle of December, and I'm going to do it and also read the script he has for me."

There was sadness on the 20th Century-Fox lot when word was noised about that Ruth Gunning, a popular secretary, had been in a tragic automobile accident—a curious accident, too, it was. Ruth was riding with a boy friend when another car crashed into their car, breaking her back. She is one of the most beautiful girls on the lot and well liked by everyone.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Connie Haines, the canary who sings so sweetly, will wed Dick Gray shortly after Christmas. He is an engineering student at U. S. C. . . . Anne Shirley has been desperately ill in a London hospital, which has delayed her return and that of her husband Adrian Scott, to this country. . . When Sonja Henie opens her season in Indiana with her skating revue Stuart Barthelmess, Dick and Jessie's boy, will be there to applaud her. Sonja's romance with the youthful Stuart is the most serious one she has ever had since she married Dan Topping. . . . Tommy Manville, if you are interested, is reconciled with wife number eight, the former Hobo News reporter. Mrs. Manville's sister, Elspeth Campbell, has been married since October 15 to Robin Flynn, Los Angeles commentator. . . . Never saw so many diners out as on last cooks night out. Lana Turner rushed in with her close pal, Evie Wynn—and who do you thinfl they were with—Keenan, no less. Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson had an early dinner. Spencer Tracy, Dick Haymes, Eleanor Parker, Dolores Moran were a few faces—and here's where I came in—Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer at a table for two. . . . The divorce rumors are denied by Sir Cedric Hardwicke in spite of the fact that Lady Hardwicke has been living in England for a long time; this is really good news. Mary Brown, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Joe E, who has been unable to walk for two years, has taken off her brace and is well. She was badly hurt in an automobile accident. . . . More good news is that Barney Ross is completely cured of taking dope and will get his release from the sanatorium. They will probably put his life story back into production since it has a happy ending. That's all today.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4 — Everybody relax—Kay of "The Hucksters" is chosen. Kay is Deborah Kerr, and for my money that is as perfect casting as I ever met up with in my life. Deborah sails for Hollywood November 16, and "The Hucksters" gets going, after all this long time, on the last of this month. I really believe this is going to bring Gable back in a big, big way. Moreover, Gable has just signed a brand new deal with MGM.

Arthur Hornblow, who makes good pictures, is the producer, with Jack Conway, an old friend of Gable's, directing. The script turned out to the satisfaction of Gable who is now happy about the whole thing. If you saw Deborah Kerr in "Vacation From Marriage," you'll know she's the answer to any star's prayer for a movie girl friend. She is lovely, and she is talented.

Those cooked up rumors that the Rex Harrisons are straining at the leash because he doesn't want her to work in pictures, will never boil because they ain't true. Neither Rex nor his pretty Lilli let these things bother them. They laughed at the rumor hounds in New York. I had dinner with them a few nights ago and there certainly was no evidence of trouble. Rex is interested enough in Lilli's career to discuss her next picture, "Distant Drums," a story of the Oregon trail. Milton Sperling, for whom she will make it, is glad to get her for she was a solid click in her first movie for him, "Cloak and Dagger." Although the picture won't set the world on fire, it's doing big business at all the theaters.

Trouble on the Potomac — and that's what I mean. Now comes Johnny Farrow, well known director, stating that he has prior claim on "Moonrise" which, 'tis said, Garson Kanin has already bought for $125,000. The story, which first appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine, is a drama about prejudice in the south, and it's by Ted Strauss. The gossip is that Kanin bought it to make for Universal-International — now Johnny says he bid $140,000 for it before the author started negotiating with Kanin. He wants to make it for Paramount. Well, there's nothing like a good argument, so we'll see who will win. The boys must consider it to be good movie material.

I asked Ingrid Bergman if it were true that she and Dr. Peter Lindstrom are separating. I got her on the telephone between shows in Washington, and she laughed at such gossip. "Dr. Lindstrom came to Washington for my play and took pictures of it in 16mm," she said. "He goes from here to the Boston hospital and later to Johns Hopkins in Baltimore to study, then back to New York for my Broadway debut. As I told you, he returns to Hollywood to his work in the General Hospital and to look after our daughter Pia. You're married to a doctor, so you should understand that Dr. Lindstrom doesn't like to talk for publication."

Chatter in Hollywood: Latest spark from the legally tangled elopement of Artie Shaw and Kathleen Winsor is that they will live under separate roofs until the complications surrounding their marriage are cleared up. Yes ma'am, the newlyweds are starting married life in the center of threatening storms—one from the state of California which would like to get a look at their final divorce papers, and still another cloud on the horizon in the person of Kathleen's ex, Robert Herwig, who 'tis said, has some ideas about community property settlement. But all isn't trouble. Artie's turned out a torch ballad "Forever Amber" which has been offered to 20th for a theme song for his wife's movie and he's also written a book about himself, "Those Two Other Guys", which is his story of how he sees his favorite person—Artie Shaw, of course.

Tyrone Power is flying Virginia and Darryl Zanuck to the "Razor's Edge" premiere, November 19, in New York. At dinner with Ty, the Zanucks, Marlene Dietrich, the Sam Goldwyns, Fefe Ferri and Charles Feldman, Ty told us about his experiences in South America. He really must write a book. He was received by presidents and dictators, and did more to promote good will than a boat load of official ambassadors to South America. Gene Tierney will go to New York by train. And again I want to shout to the four winds, the most ridiculous of all stories is the one connecting Gene and Tyrone in a romance. Let me say they don't need publicity of this kind for the "Razor's Edge". That picture is so good that it will sell itself without any fake romances.

There's more to the Howard Hughes-Preston Sturges battle than meets the eye, and for once Howard doesn't want to direct. This is what happened. The Harold Lloyd picture, "The Sin of Harold Diddlebock", runs far too long, and Preston was unwilling to cut it. That started the first misunderstanding. And there was an awful lot of money spent on "Vendetta". Preston let the writer go and did the writing himself—let the director go and did the directing himself, along with producing, which was more than any one man could do. So maybe that's what really went wrong. Anyhow, Stuart Heisler is directing now and he is starting all over again.

I opened my eyes wide when Marlene Dietrich said, "I'm going back to Paris in early December to make a picture with Jean Gabin." "I thought you and Jean had quarreled," I said. Marlene shrugged her shoulders saying, "that's what everybody said, but there never was any truth in it. I had planned, as you know, to make a picture with Raimu, but he died, and now Jean wants me to come back in time for the opening of our first picture in the middle of December, and I'm going to do it and also read the script he has for me."

There was sadness on the 20th Century-Fox lot when word was noised about that Ruth Gunning, a popular secretary, had been in a tragic automobile accident—a curious accident, too, it was. Ruth was riding with a boy friend when another car crashed into their car, breaking her back. She is one of the most beautiful girls on the lot and well liked by everyone.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Connie Haines, the canary who sings so sweetly, will wed Dick Gray shortly after Christmas. He is an engineering student at U. S. C. . . . Anne Shirley has been desperately ill in a London hospital, which has delayed her return and that of her husband Adrian Scott, to this country. . . When Sonja Henie opens her season in Indiana with her skating revue Stuart Barthelmess, Dick and Jessie's boy, will be there to applaud her. Sonja's romance with the youthful Stuart is the most serious one she has ever had since she married Dan Topping. . . . Tommy Manville, if you are interested, is reconciled with wife number eight, the former Hobo News reporter. Mrs. Manville's sister, Elspeth Campbell, has been married since October 15 to Robin Flynn, Los Angeles commentator. . . . Never saw so many diners out as on last cooks night out. Lana Turner rushed in with her close pal, Evie Wynn—and who do you think they were with—Keenan, no less. Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson had an early dinner. Spencer Tracy, Dick Haymes, Eleanor Parker, Dolores Moran were a few faces—and here's where I came in—Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer at a table for two. . . . The divorce rumors are denied by Sir Cedric Hardwicke in spite of the fact that Lady Hardwicke has been living in England for a long time; this is really good news. Mary Brown, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Joe E, who has been unable to walk for two years, has taken off her brace and is well. She was badly hurt in an automobile accident. . . . More good news is that Barney Ross is completely cured of taking dope and will get his release from the sanatorium. They will probably put his life story back into production since it has a happy ending. That's all today.

Election Returns And Comments To Fill Broadcasts

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—It's election night Tuesday, and that means network broadcasting will be filled with figures and comment. All chains will be concentrating on the returns to a greater extent than usual in a mid-term vote.

In fact two of them will eliminate regular schedules almost the bulk of the evening, and others will have a similar schedule, but will sandwich in most of the regular shows. In more detail here's the arrangement by networks:

NBC—Eearly results in regular news period 6 to 8; periodic returns at 8:26, 8:56, 9:24, 9:54 and 10:24. Then from 11 on until closing returns and comment.

CBS—Election preview, at 6; early returns at 8, and 9:25 in addition to 8:55 newspot; more detail returns from 10:30 to 1 a. m. or later.

ABC—Early returns at 8:15, followed at 8:30 with a drama of highlights of senatorial and gubernatorial candidates; then 9 until closing returns and comment.

MBS—In addition to regular commentators, early returns at 7:15, then at 9 until sign-off returns and comment.

Fibber McGee and Molly are coming out of Hollywood and switching activities to Racine, Wis., for their 9:30 NBC broadcast. . . . This same time on CBS will find Paulette Goddard doing "Kitty" for the Hollywood Players.

The Radio Clock

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5

Changes in programs as listed are due to corrections by networks made too late to incorporate.

All times PM eastern standard. To change to central standard subtract one hour; to mountain standard subtract two hours.

Times listed are those supplied by networks. Relay times by local stations, may vary in some instances.

Election Returns And Comments To Fill Broadcasts

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—It's election night Tuesday, and that means network broadcasting will be filled with figures and comment. All chains will be concentrating on the returns to a greater extent than usual in a mid-term vote.

In fact two of them will eliminate regular schedules almost the bulk of the evening, and others will have a similar schedule, but will sandwich in most of the regular shows. In more detail here's the arrangement by networks:

NBC—Eearly results in regular news period 6 to 8; periodic returns at 8:26, 8:56, 9:24, 9:54 and 10:24. Then from 11 on until closing returns and comment.

CBS—Election preview, at 6; early returns at 8, and 9:25 in addition to 8:55 newspot; more detail returns from 10:30 to 1 a. m. or later.

ABC—Early returns at 8:15, followed at 8:30 with a drama of highlights of senatorial and gubernatorial candidates; then 9 until closing returns and comment.

MBS—In addition to regular commentators, early returns at 7:15, then at 9 until sign-off returns and comment.

Fibber McGee and Molly are coming out of Hollywood and switching activities to Racine, Wis., for their 9:30 NBC broadcast. . . . This same time on CBS will find Paulette Goddard doing "Kitty" for the Hollywood Players.

The Radio Clock

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5

Changes in programs as listed are due to corrections by networks made too late to incorporate.

All times PM eastern standard. To change to central standard subtract one hour; to mountain standard subtract two hours.

Times listed are those supplied by networks. Relay times by local stations, may vary in some instances.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and following the death of our beloved father, George Linty of Lonaconing. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers, loaned cars and especially Rev. Gloshorn and the Presbyterian choir.
MR. AND MRS. WELLINGTON CONN AND FAMILY
11-4-1t-TN

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and following the death of my husband and our Father, Jedson D. Barnes. We especially want to thank Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, the choir, those who sent floral tributes, pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
MRS. J. D. BARNES, DAUGHTER & SONS,
Ridgeley, W. Va.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Bernard Lipson, who died thirteen years ago today, November 5, 1933.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near,
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Our love cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how we miss him,
In our lonesome home today.

He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.

Sadly missed by his parents,
MR. & MRS. M. J. LIPSON.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Bernard Lipson, who died thirteen years ago today, November 5, 1933.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near,
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Our love cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how we miss him,
In our lonesome home today.

He little thought when leaving home
That he would never return,
That he so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid.

Sadly missed by his parents,
MR. & MRS. M. J. LIPSON.

Textile Workers' Group To Recommend Increase

Policy Committee To Ask Membership To Concur In Seeking 18-Cent Pay Hike, Coleman Says

The Policy Committe of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, announced last night that it would recommend to the membership that they concur with action of the industry-wide Conference of Rayon Workers in seeking a flat 18 cent per hour wage increase.

Boyd Coleman, Textile president, said the recommendation would be made at a meeting of the membership Wednesday, November 13, and that four separate demands will be discussed.

The council agreed that any wage demands made by the union would be on a flat cent per hour basis and no percentage increases would be acceptable, Coleman said, adding that the policy committee will recommend an 18 cent per hour demand by the local when negotiations are opened with the Celanese Corporation of America.

The figure was agreed to after a lengthy discussion on the increased cost of living, Coleman said, and the "enormous" profits the rayon corporations have been making in the past year. He cited the recent removal of price controls and explained that every rayon industry union is entitled to reopen the wage clauses in their contracts at this time.

"With respect to the profits of the rayon corporations in the industry, after serious discussion both at the Industry Conference and at the meeting of the local Policy Committee, we find that the rayon manufacturers are making more profits now than ever in the history of this industry. For this reason we find that the rayon industry will net between 400 and 600 per cent increase in profits by the end of this year," Coleman asserted.

These profits are a very fine indication of the ability of the rayon manufacturers to meet the 18 cent wage demand of the union, Coleman said, adding that it is estimated that the industry will net better than a billion dollars this year.

An invitation was extended to all the rayon corporations, Coleman said, to meet and negotiate with the union at a meeting called for that purpose, which will be held in New York City November 15. The union officials will recommend that any dispute or disagreement on the whole question of wages be a subject for arbitration and that any wage increase agreed to be effective throughout the industry on the same date regardless of the reopening date or contract termination.

The fourth recommendation to be made by the Policy Committee is that if the Celanese Corporation of America agrees to accept the invitation of the union to attend the national wage session in New York the local will send a representative to participate in the negotiations with the rayon manufacturers.

Coleman said that the present contract calls for a 30-day notification before negotiations are reopened, but added that a written notice was delivered to the company October 19, and the negotiations may be reopened on November 17.

Street Extension Plan Presented To City Council

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, was authorized yesterday to give assistance in a plan for opening First street from South street to Maple street, which was presented to the Mayor and Council by M. J. Malone.

Malone, William M. Somerville and John F. Wempe agreed to deed to the city enough land to cut the street through. The connecting link, Malone said, will be about 1,200 feet long and the street will have a 50-foot driveway. Among other streets in the area which may be opened are Second and Fourth streets, Queen avenue, Wempe drive, Somerville and Blackstone avenues.

A proposal of the Board of Zoning Appeals that the area in the vicinity of North Centre and Mechanic streets, Henderson avenue, and Oldtown Road be classified as "business" instead of "residential" was referred to Rizer for study.

The commissioner of streets and public property was authorized to purchase a snow loader at a cost not exceeding $5,000.

The bid of the Thompson-Buick Corporation for a 1946 Buick to be used by Charles J. Bruce, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, was accepted. The bid was $1,925.51, less $1,107.83 allowance on a 1942 car.

The account of William A. Lindner was ordered credited with $220.10 representing a charge for sewer frontage on Princeton street. The sewer cannot be used by Lots 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, so the insolvency was granted.

Harry T. Umstot was credited with $13.56 in another insolvency. The order stated he was charged for eight feet of curb, sidewalk, and sewer work in error at 603 Roberts street.

The application of George H. Benson for a sewer permit for 270-271 Magnolia street was tabled for a week. Rizer reported it would be necessary to extend a sewer line about 300 feet and was empowered to prepare estimates.

Charles Paul Roeder was refunded $12 and Daisy M. C. Darr $2 for building permits not used. E. G. Shirley was refunded a $1 parking deposit, the ticket having been given in error.

The City Hall will be closed next Monday in observance of Armistice Day and the council will not meet until Wednesday.

Collections for last month included: Collector, $45,573.32, of which $30,125.56 was for water rent; water office, $507.50; fines, $1,186; weights, $243.69; Lake Gordon, $425; general licenses, $566; movie taxes, $1,246.60; and engineer's office, $268.40.

B'nai B'rith To Have Debate Tonight

Western Maryland Lodge No. 1507, B'nai B'rith will have a debate at its meeting tonight at 8:30 in the B'er Chayim vestry. Robert Kaplon will preside at the meeting.

Julius E. Schindler, Rabbi Maurice Feuer, George Ossip and David Kauffman will be the debaters and Dr. Harry Pinsky will be moderator. Following the debate refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Harry Stein.

Lane's Campaign Tactics Scored By Mrs. Cupler

Election Of Entire Republican Ticket Urged By Local Woman

William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor, was charged with "stooping to the rankest display of low campaign tactics," by Mrs. John Cupler, II, in a radio broadcast here last night closing the Republican campaign.

She took issue with Mr. Lane for characterizing his Republican opponent Theodore R. McKeldin, as "Tearful Teddy," and added that it is just a sample of Mr. Lane's oratory. His entire campaign has been conducted in this same vein of name-calling and doubtful humor, she declared. "Such coarse methods of approaching the public are disgusting to say the least," Mrs. Cupler added. She charged that Mr. Lane is spending huge sums of money to be elected and so far has spent more than $80,000 to become Governor of Maryland.

Asserting that Mr. McKeldin as Mayor has given the people of Baltimore advantages such as they never have had before, and that under his administration Baltimore has progressed and is now the sixth largest city in the United States, she told her listeners that Mr. McKeldin has a wonderful talent for getting the right people for the right jobs and inspiring them with his great enthusiasm for giving the people the very best kind of government.

Urges Beall's Election

Mrs. Cupler asserted that it is imperative that "we return J. Glenn Beall to Congress as our representative. A concerted effort has been made to mislead you as to his record. Never before have the people of the Sixth District owed so much to their congressman as we owe Glenn Beall.

"The alegations that Mr. Beall has not attended to his duties as our representative are false absolutely. The Potomac River has been flowing since time began probably — but no one did anything about the rampages it went on periodically, leaving destruction in its wake, until Glenn Beall went to Congress and got the money appropriated for flood control on the Potomac.

"As for labor and veteran legislation Mr. Beall's stand on these matters has been so highly praised by labor and veterans' organizations that we are confident he has merited their enthusiastic support. Your vote for Glenn Beall tomorrow will assure the people of the Congressional District that their best interests will continue to be unselfishly served in Washington."

Mrs. Cupler took issue with William C Walsh's address last night in support of the Democratic ticket for quoting at length from Democratic papers which had endorsed Gov. O'Conor, Mr. Lane and their running mates.

Even though national prognosticators such as Peter Edson, Dr. Gallup and Times Magazine see one of the greatest Republican landslides ever, we still have the local Democrats looking through rose colored glasses—all the while making desperate efforts to wash off the tell tale stains of recent close embraces with the New Dealers. "Don't be fooled," she said, "Vote Republican."

Fletcher Answers Statement

Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, speaking on the same program with Mrs. Cupler, John T. Fey and William A. Wilson, said he felt it proper to direct the attention of the voters to loose statements, half truths and deceptive and insidious acts made made and practiced by Democratic candidates and orators during the past week here in Allegany County.

Fletcher urged the election of the entire Republican ticket and devoted part of his talk to advocating the election of A. Charles Stewart as Register of Wills. He took issue with statements made in a radio address by Thomas Stakem, Mr. Stewart's opponent for Register of Wills, and said the many claims and endorsements Mr. Stakem had made were apparently for vote-getting purposes.

Fey spoke primarily in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Robert B. Kimble for re-election and the election of the six Republican candidates for the House of Delegates saying they would, if elected, faithfully serve all the people of the county and not any particular class or group.

Wilson, while urging the election of the entire Republican ticket, spoke principally for the election of Edward Muir as sheriff. He pointed out his qualifications and training for the office through serving as a deputy sheriff.

Courts, Schools Closed

The Court House, Trial Magistrate's Court, Police Court and schools will be closed today, Election Day. However, City Hall and the State's Attorney's office will be open.

The local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board will be closed today, according to Francis Kenney, chief claims deputy. Claimants who report regularly on Tuesday should report Wednesday this week, Kenney said.

Theft Of Handbag Containing $3,000 Is Reported Here

Police Admit Robbery But Refuse To Give Details Of Case

Theft of a pocketbook, containing approximately $3,000, from Bopp's Flower Shop, Baltimore street, between 4 and 6 p. m. yesterday, was reported last night, but City Police refused to confirm it.

Mrs. Joanna W. Bopp, 715 Memorial avenue, last night declined to make a statement regarding the theft, but indicated that it was her purse that was taken from the store while she was working. She admitted that the purse contained considerable money but refused to give an actual figure.

Local police said the robbery had been reported to them, but refused to give further details. They admitted, however, that they were investigating the case, and several persons were under suspicion.

One source, who asked that her name be withheld, said Mrs. Bopp carried the money to the flower shop yesterday morning and noticed that her purse was missing about 6 o'clock last night.

It was reported that a 14-year-old child who had been seen in the store was suspected of taking the pocketbook.

At one time in her conversation Mrs. Bopp indicated that she knew the person or persons who had taken the purse from the store, but later said she would make no statement since she may be wrong about the identity of the suspected party.

It was reported the money was kept in a leather wallet which Mrs. Bopp usually carried in her pocketbook.

Program Of Child Study Explained To School Heads

High And Elementary Principals Attend Series Of Meetings

Principals of both high and elementary schools met yesterday with Board of Education Officials in the second of a series of 4 meetings scheduled to explain more fully the child study program.

In arranging the meetings, Charles L. Kopp, school superintendent, termed the program one of the most important steps forward in education in recent years. It was inaugurated in county schools last year.

This program unquestionably has more potentialities, Kopp said, for the advancement of education in Allegany County than any other that has been conceived.

The meetings, the first of which was held Saturday, are planned to enable the principals to gain complete understanding of the program to aid in efficient application of the theories in all county schools.

Other meetings will be held Thursday and Saturday of this week. It is the hope of the educators to evolve a point of view of the efficacy of an educational program when it is carried on at a level which is conceivably possible, Kopp explained.

The sale of stamps and bonds to school pupils will be continued this year, in all public schools, Kopp said, but will be conducted on a voluntary basis, without drives, contests or quotas being set.

The sale of bonds and stamps in schools, was explained by Kopp to be a valuable program for the education of all children in the art of saving. The sales have been decided on as a means of inaugurating saving as part of the educational program, Kopp said.

Work On County Honor Roll Ended

Completion of the Allegany County Honor Roll in City Hall, was announced last night by Thomas F. Conlon, chairman, who said 11,896 men and women who served in World War II are listed in addition to 361 who died while in service.

The board, which has a black background with white letters, also lists 106 men who died while serving in the Armed Forces during Warld War I, Conlon said. He estimated that 3,340 from this county served during World War I, but added that space would not permit a list of the names.

A memorial program will be held for the listed dead, Armistice Day from 10:30 to 11 o'clock Conlon said, and an effort will be made to explain the type of life that was lived by the men who served and died during the two wars.

Space for a history of Allegany County's part in both wars has been reserved on the board, Conlon explained, and will be filled in the near future.

Members of the Honor Roll Committee include Conlon, who is chairman, John Parks, treasurer, and Miss Wella Cook, secretary. Parks said last night, that the cost of erecting the board has been paid in full through donations and school contributions.

Should any names be omitted, Conlon said, the committee will make the correction immediately, if they are notified.

Lions Will Honor Police Officers

The Cumberland Lions Club will honor the law enforcement personnel of Cumberland and Allegany County at its program Wednesday at 12:15 p. m., in Central YMCA.

The object of the program, according to the Lions, "is to honor those who risk their lives to protect our persons and our property, our homes and our rights—our law enforcement officers."

Those who have been invited to participate in the round table program are: William Keegan, police and fire commissioner of Cumberland; David Steele, Allegany County sheriff; Terrance J. Boyle, county investigator; Sgt. John H. Doud, head of the LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police and Raymond Jones, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Accept Wage Increase

Drivers for 17 beer distributors of this area Sunday accepted an 18½ cent hourly increase in a contract to run until August 31, 1947, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Teamsters Local 453 said. Stutzman said the increase for the 50 drivers is retroactive 13 weeks and that the wage clause is the only change in the agreement.

Accelerated Farm Training Program Is Planned Here

Actual Agricultural Work And Supervised Instruction To Be Given

A program to accelerate on-the-farm training for veterans under the GI Bill of Rights was announced yesterday by the Board of Education and Veterans Administration who are working in a joint capacity.

Under the program a minimum of 250 hours of instruction per calendar year is required with 150 hours of institutional off-the-farm instruction by a teacher approved by the State Department of Education.

Recommendations Made

It is recommended that the requirements be met by one three-hour class per week for 50 weeks, however, it is permissible to meet the time requirement in some other manner.

Fifty hours of on-the-farm supervision for each trainee is also required under the program and may be obtained in one-hour or two-hour visits depending on such variable factors as season of the year, type of farm work in progress, farmer trainer's or trainee's convenience.

Fifty hours of time will also be given to attending rural community meetings, such as Grange, Farm Bureau, Soil Conservation, Co-operative Production or Marketing Groups concerned with milk, wheat and poultry.

Classes or groups may be composed of veterans in training on their own farms, or rented farms or on farms on which veterans are employed. Veterans may be trained for general farm work or for specific types of farming.

Committee Named

A county advisory committee composed of approximately seven men will investigate the farms for training purposes, establish wage scales for trainees and assist with related instruction.

The State Department of Education will approve the farm for training purposes on recommendation of the county advisory committee and also provide related instruction and farm supervision through county superintendents and teachers designated by the superintendents.

Applicants must first secure a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration, which pays the subsistence to all trainees and co-operates with the teachers in training programs.

The minimum number of veterans for whom a teacher will be assigned is four, while the maximum number that may enroll in one class is 10. When the number is exceeded it will be necessary to organize a new class.

Walsh Predicts Democrats Will Win In General Election Today

Scoring the Republican candidates and their supporters for evading the real issues of the election campaign by discussing "irrelevant" factors, William C. Walsh, former attorney general, last night predicted victory for the Democratic candidates in today's general election.

Walsh said the Democratic party is united behind its candidates and that "a great many Republicans" intend to support some or all of them because of their "preeminent qualifications for the offices they seek."

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, the GOP candidate for governor, Walsh said, discussed foreign affairs, came out against communism and falsely charged William Preston Lane, his Democratic opponent, with being responsible for bank failures in 1933.

Walsh declared that after the election today the successful candidates, after they take office, "will have nothing to do with foreign affairs or with any of the other matters which the Republican campaign orators have been so vociferously talking about. On the contrary, they will be concerned only with administering the purely domestic affairs of the State of Maryland or of Allegany County."

The Republicans are attempting to capitalize on the hardships that come with reconversion, Walsh said, but are carrying the argument to "absurd lengths" when they "say in effect that no matter how much better qualified a Democratic candidate may be and regardless of the fact that his office has nothing to do with the matters of which they complain, he should be defeated." Walsh termed this "pure partisanship."

He cited an editorial in the Baltimore Sun urging support of Lane and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, and called for their election as well as that of other party candidates on the state and county tickets.

Election Returns Will Be Given By Paper And Radio

News To Compile County Returns; Special Broadcasts Arranged

The staffs of the Cumberland News and Radio Station WTBO will join tonight in tabulating and furnishing election returns to the citizens of Cumberland and the Tri-State area. Arrangements have been made to give results of various precincts for state and county offices as speedily and accurately as possible.

The News has completed arrangements to receive the results from the 75 polling places in Allegany County immediately after the polls close. Returns will be tabulated and placed on a large board at the Times-News building, 7 South Mechanic street. The returns will also be furnished WTBO which will broadcast them from the TIMES-NEWS OFFICE. Returns will be given by precincts as they are reported and totals will also be broadcast just as fast as they can be tabulated.

It is impossible to know just when the first returns will be available as indications are that a heavy vote will be cast in Cumberland as well as other sections of the county, particularly in Frostburg and the Georges Creek section. The polls will not close until 7 o'clock and it will take quite a while for the election officials to count the ballots. However just as soon as returns are received they will be posted on the board and will be available for radio broadcast.

No Returns By Phone

The NEWS will carry a table of various precincts in the county in its Wednesday morning edition as well as stories on the various races for county and state offices. The first edition will be on the streets about 2 a. m. carrying all returns received up to that time. The second edition will carry returns received after 2 a. m. and the NEWS hopes it will be able to carry returns from all 75 precincts in the county in its second edition.

The TIMES-NEWS will not give returns over the telephone and it will beu seless to call for them as telephone lines must be kept open to handle results from the various polling places in the county. Neither will the paper permit anyone except members of its editorial staff in the news room as it is impossible to handle election returns quickly and accurately with a lot of people in the office. WTBO will not give out returns by telephone and requests that no calls for returns be made to the station.

Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker of Station WTBO announced yesterday that after 8 p. m. today the National Broadcasting Company and WTBO will devote five minutes at the end of each half-hour period to national, state and county election returns, although it is not expected that county returns will be available much before 10 p. m.

Broadcasting Time Announced

From 11 to 11:15 p. m. NBC will present a complete resume of election returns up to that time, with a local summary tied in at the end of the program, Mrs. Becker said. From 11:15 to 11:30 Richard Harkness, NBC commentator, will broadcast a summary of the general national election picture at that time, and from 11:30 until midnight NBC will present cross-country election results from various cities across the nation.

From 12 to 12:30 a. m. an election roundtable will be held, with NBC reporters and commentators analyzing the voting trend and discussing the new makeup of Congress as it will be affected by the election. NBC will continue broadcasting until national congressional returns are complete, probably at about 3 a. m.

WTBO will remain on the air until Maryland election returns are complete and the election of the various candidates is conceded, Mrs. Becker said. The station will broadcast state and county returns at regular intervals.

Election officials at each precinct are urged to report returns to the TIMES-NEWS, by calling Cumberland 4600 collect, immediately after the official count has been completed. By telephoning returns promptly officials will make it possible for the NEWS to give complete results in the county in its Wednesday morning's edition. The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

School Children's Swimming Classes To Open Nov. 11

West Side Pupils To Have First Lessons Under Red Cross Program

Swimming classes for the sixth grade children of West Side School will begin Monday, November 11 at Central YMCA pool at 4 p. m., according to Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross, which is sponsoring the program in co-operation with Board of Education and the YMCA.

The classes, which will be held Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays will be conducted by James E. Kelley, Jr., chairman of Life Saving and Water Safety of the County Red Cross chapter. West Side School children have been selected because the school was the first to apply, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of public schools.

Kelley will hold a preliminary session with the children on Thursday November 7. They all must supply their own bathing suits and have written permission from their parents to begin the course, which will last approximately four weeks. Upon completion they will receive a Red Cross swimming certificate as well as one from the "Y." Only those children who cannot swim at all will be admitted. It is not a swimming improvement course.

In the near future a survey will be taken of all school children to screen them according to their

DIES IN CRASH—Attempting to land his plane in Leaksville, N. C., Eugene L. Watkins, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Watkins, 814 Sylvan avenue, was killed instantly Sunday when the PT-26 nosed to the earth and exploded. He left Cumberland last Friday with a companion to purchase the plane and was returning when the mishap occurred.

Eugene L. Watkins Killed Instantly In Plane Accident

Cumberland Man Dies When Craft Noses To Earth And Explodes

An ex-sergeant of the United States Army Air Corps, Eugene L. Watkins, 23, 814 Sylvan avenue, was instantly killed Sunday when a plane he was piloting crashed and exploded at Leaksville, N. C.

Watkins, in company with Elroy Lewis, Bowling Green, left this city Friday to purchase two planes, and was returning when the accident occurred. Lewis, who was piloting the other plane, landed just before Watkins' Primary Trainer-26 crashed.

Attempting To Land

According to reports, Watkins was attempting to land at Leaksville when the plane nosed to the earth and crashed. No explanation of the accident was received here, but they were reported to have taken off from Woodford Field Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

An aviation enthusiast from his youth, Watkins served in the United States Army Air Corps, and was captured by the Germans, when his plane was shot down October 25, 1944 while on a mission over Austria. He was held prisoner in Stalag Luft, Moosburg, Germany for 11 months. The Cumberland man was discharged October 18, 1945, as a technical sergeant.

Prior to entering the army, Watkins owned a Stearman plane which he kept at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Watkins, 814 Sylvan avenue, he was graduated from Allegany High School with the class of 1941, and was employed by the National Aeronautical Association, Langley Field, Va, prior to his enlistment in February, 1943.

Survivors Listed

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Robert S. Watkins, a member of the Merchant Marine, who recently returned from the Pacific; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Anna B. Stump, who lives at the Sylvan avenue address, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Watkins, Washington, D. C.

The victim's father left Sunday for Leaksville to make arrangements for the return of the body.

Election Today Ends Two Months Of Campaigning

Over 50 Per Cent Of Registered Voters Expected To Cast Ballots

Allegany County voters will go to the polls today to make their choice for state and county offices, climaxing two months of intensive campaigning on the part of candidates of the Republican and Democratic tickets.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and there was every indication last night that party workers will be out in force today getting out the vote. It was estimated that more than 50 per cent of the registered voters in the county will cast ballots in this general election, with 24,488 Republicans and 18,750 Democrats eligible to vote, according to election officials. Names of 43,925 voters are on the books.

Both Democrats and Republicans wound up the county campaigns last night, firing their final guns by means of radio addresses. Republicans held a final rally at Barton.

Can Make 29 Marks

Voters who trek to the 75 county polling places will be able to place a total of 29 "X" marks on the ballot, if they express a choice on all candidates, including those who are unopposed, and also vote for or against the four amendments to the Constitution of Maryland.

The ballot contains the names of 36 candidates—far fewer than that in the June primary—and election officials predicted that the unofficial count will be completed soon after midnight.

Republicans have candidates for every office on the ballot while Democrats have six men seeking county office, three seeking state office, one election to the United States Senate and one to the House of Delegates.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Republican Congressman from the Sixth District, is the only incumbent other than candidates seeking county offices.

He concluded his campaign by visiting voters in Allegany County yesterday and said last night that he is confident of victory by a large majority. He added that he expects to carry all five counties in the district as he did in the last two campaigns.

Will Vote In Frostburg

Rep. Beall wound up his campaign last night by attending the Republican rally at Barton. Today he will vote at his home precinct and spend most of the day in his home city — Frostburg — helping to get out the vote.

Eight Republicans are unopposed but are expected to be given a "vote of confidence." They are Col. George Henderson, for associate judge of Circuit Court; State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Board County Commissioners; County Treasurer Frederick C. Dreyer, and J. French VanMeter, William C. Abbott and Hugh Stevenson, judges of the Orphans Court.

Election Of GOP Candidates Urged By Negro Paper

In its issue of October 29, The Baltimore Afro-American, under the editorial caption, "We've Had More than Enough," had the following to say:

"As election time draws near, the AFRO, after surveying the national scene, has come to the conclusion that the time has come for a change.

"We have had enough, actually, more than enough!

"For this reason we believe that everwhere that Republican candidates for national office are the equal of or better than the Democratic candidates, they should be supported so that we can have, without a doubt, a Republican House and a Republican Senate.

"If Mr. Truman didn't want the Presidency at the death of Mr. Roosevelt, there is no reason why we should elect him to office in 1948.

"Since the Congress we elect now will be in office then we should begin to put Republicans in office now.

"In cases where the Democratic candidates for the Senate and House are far superior to the Republicans, the AFRO will support them.

"We will not support Republican or Democratic candidates who are opposed to the anti-poll tax, FEPC and anti-lynching bills.

"It is perfectly plain that the muddling of our foreign policy, the inability to keep our internal economies on an even keel, the lack of clear policy that will get our post-war industries functioning without constant change in prices and consequently recurring strikes, show how incompetent and inept the present administration is.

"Public opinion polls show dissatisfaction in all sections and parts of the nation. Such wisecracks as 'Vote for Truman. He has kept us out of Wallace,' and 'For horse sense, vote Republican; for horse meat, vote Democratic,' are being heard with increasing frequency.

"The Republicans once made the mistake of promising 'a chicken in every pot and a car in every garage' but they are now pointing out that the Democrats have four families in every garage.

"We have had enough. It is time for a change."

Mrs. Nellie Field Granted Divorce

In a decree signed yesterday in Circuit Court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, an absolute divorce has been granted Mrs. Nellie R. Field from Watson E. Field.

Mrs. Clair Leslie has docketed suit for a divorce from Michael D. Leslie. The action was filed by her mother and next friend, Mrs. Vallie P. Welker.

Mrs. Louise Woodworth has filed suit for a divorce from George T Woodworth.

Textile Workers' Group To Recommend Increase

Policy Committee To Ask Membership To Concur In Seeking 18-Cent Pay Hike, Coleman Says

The Policy Committe of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, announced last night that it would recommend to the membership that they concur with action of the industry-wide Conference of Rayon Workers in seeking a flat 18 cent per hour wage increase.

Boyd Coleman, Textile president, said the recommendation would be made at a meeting of the membership Wednesday, November 13, and that four separate demands will be discussed.

The council agreed that any wage demands made by the union would be on a flat cent per hour basis and no percentage increases would be acceptable, Coleman said, adding that the policy committee will recommend an 18 cent per hour demand by the local when negotiations are opened with the Celanese Corporation of America.

The figure was agreed to after a lengthy discussion on the increased cost of living, Coleman said, and the "enormous" profits the rayon corporations have been making in the past year. He cited the recent removal of price controls and explained that every rayon industry union is entitled to reopen the wage clauses in their contracts at this time.

"With respect to the profits of the rayon corporations in the industry, after serious discussion both at the Industry Conference and at the meeting of the local Policy Committee, we find that the rayon manufacturers are making more profits now than ever in the history of this industry. For this reason we find that the rayon industry will net between 400 and 600 per cent increase in profits by the end of this year," Coleman asserted.

These profits are a very fine indication of the ability of the rayon manufacturers to meet the 18 cent wage demand of the union, Coleman said, adding that it is estimated that the industry will net better than a billion dollars this year.

An invitation was extended to all the rayon corporations, Coleman said, to meet and negotiate with the union at a meeting called for that purpose, which will be held in New York City November 15. The union officials will recommend that any dispute or disagreement on the whole question of wages be a subject for arbitration and that any wage increase agreed to be effective throughout the industry on the same date regardless of the reopening date or contract termination.

The fourth recommendation to be made by the Policy Committee is that if the Celanese Corporation of America agrees to accept the invitation of the union to attend the national wage session in New York the local will send a representative to participate in the negotiations with the rayon manufacturers.

Coleman said that the present contract calls for a 30-day notification before negotiations are reopened, but added that a written notice was delivered to the company October 19, and the negotiations may be reopened on November 17.

Street Extension Plan Presented To City Council

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, was authorized yesterday to give assistance in a plan for opening First street from South street to Maple street, which was presented to the Mayor and Council by M. J. Malone.

Malone, William M. Somerville and John F. Wempe agreed to deed to the city enough land to cut the street through. The connecting link, Malone said, will be about 1,200 feet long and the street will have a 50-foot driveway. Among other streets in the area which may be opened are Second and Fourth streets, Queen avenue, Wempe drive, Somerville and Blackstone avenues.

A proposal of the Board of Zoning Appeals that the area in the vicinity of North Centre and Mechanic streets, Henderson avenue, and Oldtown Road be classified as "business" instead of "residential" was referred to Rizer for study.

The commissioner of streets and public property was authorized to purchase a snow loader at a cost not exceeding $5,000.

The bid of the Thompson-Buick Corporation for a 1946 Buick to be used by Charles J. Bruce, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, was accepted. The bid was $1,925.51, less $1,107.83 allowance on a 1942 car.

The account of William A. Lindner was ordered credited with $220.10 representing a charge for sewer frontage on Princeton street. The sewer cannot be used by Lots 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, so the insolvency was granted.

Harry T. Umstot was credited with $13.56 in another insolvency. The order stated he was charged for eight feet of curb, sidewalk, and sewer work in error at 603 Roberts street.

The application of George H. Benson for a sewer permit for 270-271 Magnolia street was tabled for a week. Rizer reported it would be necessary to extend a sewer line about 300 feet and was empowered to prepare estimates.

Charles Paul Roeder was refunded $12 and Daisy M. C. Darr $2 for building permits not used. E. G. Shirley was refunded a $1 parking deposit, the ticket having been given in error.

The City Hall will be closed next Monday in observance of Armistice Day and the council will not meet until Wednesday.

Collections for last month included: Collector, $45,573.32, of which $30,125.56 was for water rent; water office, $507.50; fines, $1,186; weights, $243.69; Lake Gordon, $425; general licenses, $566; movie taxes, $1,246.60; and engineer's office, $268.40.

B'nai B'rith To Have Debate Tonight

Western Maryland Lodge No. 1507, B'nai B'rith will have a debate at its meeting tonight at 8:30 in the B'er Chayim vestry. Robert Kaplon will preside at the meeting.

Julius E. Schindler, Rabbi Maurice Feuer, George Ossip and David Kauffman will be the debaters and Dr. Harry Pinsky will be moderator. Following the debate refreshments will be served by a committee headed by Harry Stein.

Lane's Campaign Tactics Scored By Mrs. Cupler

Election Of Entire Republican Ticket Urged By Local Woman

William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor, was charged with "stooping to the rankest display of low campaign tactics," by Mrs. John Cupler, II, in a radio broadcast here last night closing the Republican campaign.

She took issue with Mr. Lane for characterizing his Republican opponent Theodore R. McKeldin, as "Tearful Teddy," and added that it is just a sample of Mr. Lane's oratory. His entire campaign has been conducted in this same vein of name-calling and doubtful humor, she declared. "Such coarse methods of approaching the public are disgusting to say the least," Mrs. Cupler added. She charged that Mr. Lane is spending huge sums of money to be elected and so far has spent more than $80,000 to become Governor of Maryland.

Asserting that Mr. McKeldin as Mayor has given the people of Baltimore advantages such as they never have had before, and that under his administration Baltimore has progressed and is now the sixth largest city in the United States, she told her listeners that Mr. McKeldin has a wonderful talent for getting the right people for the right jobs and inspiring them with his great enthusiasm for giving the people the very best kind of government.

Urges Beall's Election

Mrs. Cupler asserted that it is imperative that "we return J. Glenn Beall to Congress as our representative. A concerted effort has been made to mislead you as to his record. Never before have the people of the Sixth District owed so much to their congressman as we owe Glenn Beall.

"The alegations that Mr. Beall has not attended to his duties as our representative are false absolutely. The Potomac River has been flowing since time began probably — but no one did anything about the rampages it went on periodically, leaving destruction in its wake, until Glenn Beall went to Congress and got the money appropriated for flood control on the Potomac.

"As for labor and veteran legislation Mr. Beall's stand on these matters has been so highly praised by labor and veterans' organizations that we are confident he has merited their enthusiastic support. Your vote for Glenn Beall tomorrow will assure the people of the Congressional District that their best interests will continue to be unselfishly served in Washington."

Mrs. Cupler took issue with William C. Walsh's address last night in support of the Democratic ticket for quoting at length from Democratic papers which had endorsed Gov. O'Conor, Mr. Lane and their running mates.

Even though national prognosticators such as Peter Edson, Dr. Gallup and Times Magazine see one of the greatest Republican landslides ever, we still have the local Democrats looking through rose colored glasses—all the while making desperate efforts to wash off the tell tale stains of recent close embraces with the New Dealers. "Don't be fooled," she said, "Vote Republican."

Fletcher Answers Statement

Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, speaking on the same program with Mrs. Cupler, John T. Fey and William A. Wilson, said he felt it proper to direct the attention of the voters to loose statements, half truths and deceptive and insidious acts made made and practiced by Democratic candidates and orators during the past week here in Allegany County.

Fletcher urged the election of the entire Republican ticket and devoted part of his talk to advocating the election of A. Charles Stewart as Register of Wills. He took issue with statements made in a radio address by Thomas Stakem, Mr. Stewart's opponent for Register of Wills, and said the many claims and endorsements Mr. Stakem had made were apparently for vote-getting purposes.

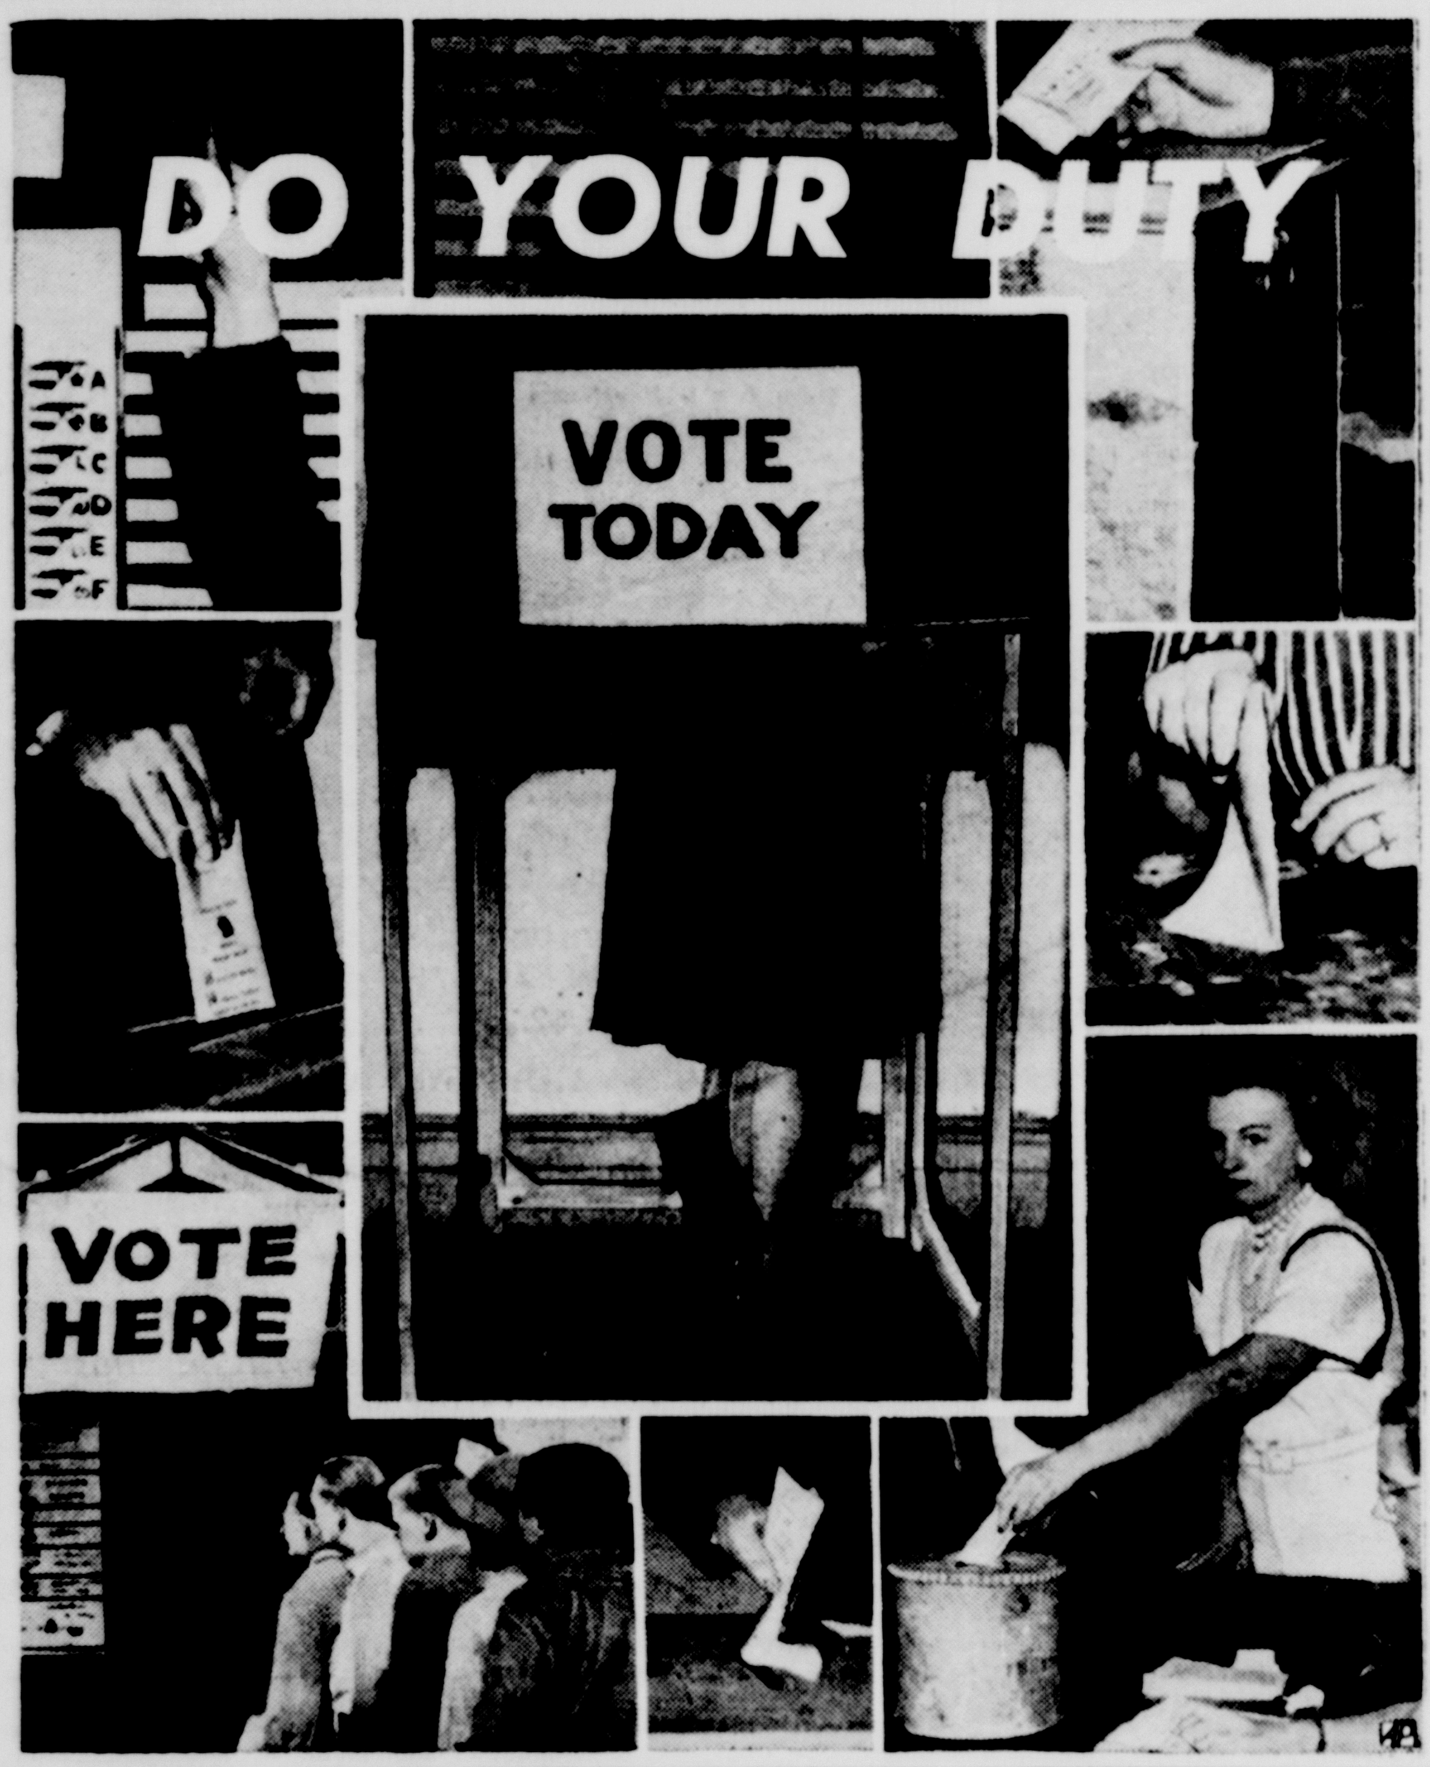
Fey spoke primarily in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Robert B. Kimble for re-election and the election of the six Republican candidates for the House of Delegates saying they would, if elected, faithfully serve all the people of the county and not any particular class or group.

Wilson, while urging the election of the entire Republican ticket, spoke principally for the election of Edward Muir as sheriff. He pointed out his qualifications and training for the office through serving as a deputy sheriff.

Courts, Schools Closed

The Court House, Trial Magistrate's Court, Police Court and schools will be closed today, Election Day. However, City Hall and the State's Attorney's office will be open.

The local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board will be closed today, according to Francis Kenney, chief claims deputy. Claimants who report regularly on Tuesday should report Wednesday this week, Kenney said.



Theft Of Handbag Containing $3,000 Is Reported Here

Police Admit Robbery But Refuse To Give Details Of Case

Theft of a pocketbook, containing approximately $3,000, from Bopp's Flower Shop, Baltimore street, between 4 and 6 p. m. yesterday, was reported last night, but City Police refused to confirm it.

Mrs. Joanna W. Bopp, 715 Memorial avenue, last night declined to make a statement regarding the theft, but indicated that it was her purse that was taken from the store while she was working. She admitted that the purse contained considerable money but refused to give an actual figure.

Local police said the robbery had been reported to them, but refused to give further details. They admitted, however, that they were investigating the case, and several persons were under suspicion.

One source, who asked that her name be withheld, said Mrs. Bopp carried the money to the flower shop yesterday morning and noticed that her purse was missing about 6 o'clock last night.

It was reported that a 14-year-old child who had been seen in the store was suspected of taking the pocketbook.

At one time in her conversation Mrs. Bopp indicated that she knew the person or persons who had taken the purse from the store, but later said she would make no statement since she may be wrong about the identity of the suspected party.

It was reported the money was kept in a leather wallet which Mrs. Bopp usually carried in her pocketbook.

Program Of Child Study Explained To School Heads

High And Elementary Principals Attend Series Of Meetings

Principals of both high and elementary schools met yesterday with Board of Education Officials in the second of a series of 4 meetings scheduled to explain more fully the child study program.

In arranging the meetings, Charles L. Kopp, school superintendent, termed the program one of the most important steps forward in education in recent years. It was inaugurated in county schools last year.

This program unquestionably has more potentialities, Kopp said, for the advancement of education in Allegany County than any other that has been conceived.

The meetings, the first of which was held Saturday, are planned to enable the principals to gain complete understanding of the program to aid in efficient application of the theories in all county schools.

Other meetings will be held Thursday and Saturday of this week. It is the hope of the educators to evolve a point of view of the efficacy of an educational program when it is carried on at a level which is conceivably possible, Kopp explained.

The sale of stamps and bonds to school pupils will be continued this year, in all public schools, Kopp said, but will be conducted on a voluntary basis, without drives, contests or quotas being set.

The sale of bonds and stamps in schools, was explained by Kopp to be a valuable program for the education of all children in the art of saving. The sales have been decided on as a means of inaugurating saving as part of the educational program, Kopp said.

Work On County Honor Roll Ended

Completion of the Allegany County Honor Roll in City Hall, was announced last night by Thomas F. Conlon, chairman, who said 11,896 men and women who served in World War II are listed in addition to 361 who died while in service.

The board, which has a black background with white letters, also lists 106 men who died while serving in the Armed Forces during Warld War I, Conlon said. He estimated that 3,340 from this county served during World War I, but added that space would not permit a list of the names.

A memorial program will be held for the listed dead, Armistice Day from 10:30 to 11 o'clock Conlon said, and an effort will be made to explain the type of life that was lived by the men who served and died during the two wars.

Space for a history of Allegany County's part in both wars has been reserved on the board, Conlon explained, and will be filled in the near future.

Members of the Honor Roll Committee include Conlon, who is chairman, John Parks, treasurer, and Miss Wella Cook, secretary. Parks said last night, that the cost of erecting the board has been paid in full through donations and school contributions.

Should any names be omitted, Conlon said, the committee will make the correction immediately, if they are notified.

Lions Will Honor Police Officers

The Cumberland Lions Club will honor the law enforcement personnel of Cumberland and Allegany County at its program Wednesday at 12:15 p. m., in Central YMCA.

The object of the program, according to the Lions, "is to honor those who risk their lives to protect our persons and our property, our homes and our rights—our law enforcement officers."

Those who have been invited to participate in the round table program are: William Keegan, police and fire commissioner of Cumberland; David Steele, Allegany County sheriff; Terrance J. Boyle, county investigator; Sgt. John H. Doud, head of the LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police and Raymond Jones, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Accept Wage Increase

Drivers for 17 beer distributors of this area Sunday accepted an 18½ cent hourly increase in a contract to run until August 31, 1947, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Teamsters Local 453 said. Stutzman said the increase for the 50 drivers is retroactive 13 weeks and that the wage clause is the only change in the agreement.

Accelerated Farm Training Program Is Planned Here

Actual Agricultural Work And Supervised Instruction To Be Given

A program to accelerate on-the-farm training for veterans under the GI Bill of Rights was announced yesterday by the Board of Education and Veterans Administration who are working in a joint capacity.

Under the program a minimum of 250 hours of instruction per calendar year is required with 150 hours of institutional off-the-farm instruction by a teacher approved by the State Department of Education.

Recommendations Made

It is recommended that the requirements be met by one three-hour class per week for 50 weeks, however, it is permissible to meet the time requirement in some other manner.

Fifty hours of on-the-farm supervision for each trainee is also required under the program and may be obtained in one-hour or two-hour visits depending on such variable factors as season of the year, type of farm work in progress, farmer trainer's or trainee's convenience.

Fifty hours of time will also be given to attending rural community meetings, such as Grange, Farm Bureau, Soil Conservation, Co-operative Production or Marketing Groups concerned with milk, wheat and poultry.

Classes or groups may be composed of veterans in training on their own farms, or rented farms or on farms on which veterans are employed. Veterans may be trained for general farm work or for specific types of farming.

Committee Named

A county advisory committee composed of approximately seven men will investigate the farms for training purposes, establish wage scales for trainees and assist with related instruction.

The State Department of Education will approve the farm for training purposes on recommendation of the county advisory committee and also provide related instruction and farm supervision through county superintendents and teachers designated by the superintendents.

Applicants must first secure a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration, which pays the subsistence to all trainees and co-operates with the teachers in training programs.

The minimum number of veterans for whom a teacher will be assigned is four, while the maximum number that may enroll in one class is 10. When the number is exceeded it will be necessary to organize a new class.

Walsh Predicts Democrats Will Win In General Election Today

Scoring the Republican candidates and their supporters for evading the real issues of the election campaign by discussing "irrelevant" factors, William C. Walsh, former attorney general, last night predicted victory for the Democratic candidates in today's general election.

Walsh said the Democratic party is united behind its candidates and that "a great many Republicans" intend to support some or all of them because of their "preeminent qualifications for the offices they seek."

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, the GOP candidate for governor, Walsh said, discussed foreign affairs, came out against communism and falsely charged William Preston Lane, his Democratic opponent, with being responsible for bank failures in 1933.

Walsh declared that after the election today the successful candidates, after they take office, "will have nothing to do with foreign affairs or with any of the other matters which the Republican campaign orators have been so vociferously talking about. On the contrary, they will be concerned only with administering the purely domestic affairs of the State of Maryland or of Allegany County."

The Republicans are attempting to capitalize on the hardships that come with reconversion, Walsh said, but are carrying the argument to "absurd lengths" when they "say in effect that no matter how much better qualified a Democratic candidate may be and regardless of the fact that his office has nothing to do with the matters of which they complain, he should be defeated." Walsh termed this "pure partisanship."

He cited an editorial in the Baltimore Sun urging support of Lane and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, and called for their election as well as that of other party candidates on the state and county tickets.

Election Returns Will Be Given By Paper And Radio

News To Compile County Returns; Special Broadcasts Arranged

The staffs of the Cumberland News and Radio Station WTBO will join tonight in tabulating and furnishing election returns to the citizens of Cumberland and the Tri-State area. Arrangements have been made to give results of various precincts for state and county offices as speedily and accurately as possible.

The News has completed arrangements to receive the results from the 75 polling places in Allegany County immediately after the polls close. Returns will be tabulated and placed on a large board at the Times-News building, 7 South Mechanic street. The returns will also be furnished WTBO which will broadcast them from the TIMES-NEWS OFFICE. Returns will be given by precincts as they are reported and totals will also be broadcast just as fast as they can be tabulated.

It is impossible to know just when the first returns will be available as indications are that a heavy vote will be cast in Cumberland as well as other sections of the county, particularly in Frostburg and the Georges Creek section. The polls will not close until 7 o'clock and it will take quite a while for the election officials to count the ballots. However just as soon as returns are received they will be posted on the board and will be available for radio broadcast.

No Returns By Phone

The NEWS will carry a table of various precincts in the county in its Wednesday morning edition as well as stories on the various races for county and state offices. The first edition will be on the streets about 2 a. m. carrying all returns received up to that time. The second edition will carry returns received after 2 a. m. and the NEWS hopes it will be able to carry returns from all 75 precincts in the county in its second edition.

The TIMES-NEWS will not give returns over the telephone and it will beu seless to call for them as telephone lines must be kept open to handle results from the various polling places in the county. Neither will the paper permit anyone except members of its editorial staff in the news room as it is impossible to handle election returns quickly and accurately with a lot of people in the office. WTBO will not give out returns by telephone and requests that no calls for returns be made to the station.

Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker of Station WTBO announced yesterday that after 8 p. m. today the National Broadcasting Company and WTBO will devote five minutes at the end of each half-hour period to national, state and county election returns, although it is not expected that county returns will be available much before 10 p. m.

Broadcasting Time Announced

From 11 to 11:15 p. m. NBC will present a complete resume of election returns up to that time, with a local summary tied in at the end of the program, Mrs. Becker said. From 11:15 to 11:30 Richard Harkness, NBC commentator, will broadcast a summary of the general national election picture at that time, and from 11:30 until midnight NBC will present cross-country election results from various cities across the nation.

From 12 to 12:30 a. m. an election roundtable will be held, with NBC reporters and commentators analyzing the voting trend and discussing the new makeup of Congress as it will be affected by the election. NBC will continue broadcasting until national congressional returns are complete, probably at about 3 a. m.

WTBO will remain on the air until Maryland election returns are complete and the election of the various candidates is conceded, Mrs. Becker said. The station will broadcast state and county returns at regular intervals.

Election officials at each precinct are urged to report returns to the TIMES-NEWS, by calling Cumberland 4600 collect, immediately after the official count has been completed. By telephoning returns promptly officials will make it possible for the NEWS to give complete results in the county in its Wednesday morning's edition. The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

School Children's Swimming Classes To Open Nov. 11

West Side Pupils To Have First Lessons Under Red Cross Program

Swimming classes for the sixth grade children of West Side School will begin Monday, November 11 at Central YMCA pool at 4 p. m., according to Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross, which is sponsoring the program in co-operation with Board of Education and the YMCA.

The classes, which will be held Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays will be conducted by James E. Kelley, Jr., chairman of Life Saving and Water Safety of the County Red Cross chapter. West Side School children have been selected because the school was the first to apply, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of public schools.

Kelley will hold a preliminary session with the children on Thursday November 7. They all must supply their own bathing suits and have written permission from their parents to begin the course, which will last approximately four weeks. Upon completion they will receive a Red Cross swimming certificate as well as one from the "Y." Only those children who cannot swim at all will be admitted. It is not a swimming improvement course.

In the near future a survey will be taken of all school children to screen them according to their

DIES IN CRASH—Attempting to land his plane in Leaksville, N. C., Eugene L. Watkins, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Watkins, 814 Sylvan avenue, was killed instantly Sunday when the PT-26 nosed to the earth and exploded. He left Cumberland last Friday with a companion to purchase the plane and was returning when the mishap occurred.

Eugene L. Watkins Killed Instantly In Plane Accident

Cumberland Man Dies When Craft Noses To Earth And Explodes

An ex-sergeant of the United States Army Air Corps, Eugene L. Watkins, 23, 814 Sylvan avenue, was instantly killed Sunday when a plane he was piloting crashed and exploded at Leaksville, N. C.

Watkins, in company with Elroy Lewis, Bowling Green, left this city Friday to purchase two planes, and was returning when the accident occurred. Lewis, who was piloting the other plane, landed just before Watkins' Primary Trainer-26 crashed.

Attempting To Land

According to reports, Watkins was attempting to land at Leaksville when the plane nosed to the earth and crashed. No explanation of the accident was received here, but they were reported to have taken off from Woodford Field Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

An aviation enthusiast from his youth, Watkins served in the United States Army Air Corps, and was captured by the Germans, when his plane was shot down October 25, 1944 while on a mission over Austria. He was held prisoner in Stalag Luft, Moosburg, Germany for 11 months. The Cumberland man was discharged October 18, 1945, as a technical sergeant.

Prior to entering the army, Watkins owned a Stearman plane which he kept at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Watkins, 814 Sylvan avenue, he was graduated from Allegany High School with the class of 1941, and was employed by the National Aeronautical Association, Langley Field, Va. prior to his enlistment in February, 1943.

Survivors Listed

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Robert S. Watkins, a member of the Merchant Marine, who recently returned from the Pacific; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Anna B. Stump, who lives at the Sylvan avenue address, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Watkins, Washington, D. C.

The victim's father left Sunday for Leaksville to make arrangements for the return of the body.

MRS. MARY UHL RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Edna Uhl, 69, widow of John H. Uhl, who died Sunday noon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Markwood, 533 Necessity street, will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. at St. George's Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage, with Rev. Rudolph J. Gunkle, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

A native of Mt. Savage, Mrs. Uhl was a daughter of the late Joseph and Anna Folk Uhl. Besides her daughter, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Gale W. Rigg, Chester, Pa.

The body will remain at Stein's Chapel until today, when it will be taken to the home of Mrs. Philip Kirby, Mt. Savage.

MRS. WYSNER SERVICES

Services for Mrs. Margaret Wysner, 87, Brownsville, Pa., who died in Memorial Hospital Sunday night, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, with interment in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery. The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

MISS ANNA REILLY RITES

Funeral services for Miss Anna A. Reilly, Midland school teacher who died suddenly of a heart attack Sunday afternoon at her home, will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church Midland.

Rev. Francis P. Flanigan, Loretta, Pa., her nephew, will be celebrant of the requiem high mass. Interment will be in St. Michael's Cemetery, Frostburg.

EDWARD VALENTINE RITES

Funeral services for Edward W. Valentine, 59, 68 Cresap street, who died in Allegany Hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered early Sunday morning when he was struck by a runaway automobile and pinned against a switching engine while at work as a watchman at the Baltimore street crossing of the B. and O. Railroad, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

MRS. EDITH HETTENHOUSER

Mrs. Edith Hettenhouser, 54, wife of John L. Hettenhouser, Little Orleans, died yesterday at 5:50 p. m. in Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted October 23.

Mrs. Hettenhouser was a daughter of John and Nan Barnhart McCusker.

The body has been taken to the Bast Funeral Home in Hancock.

Election Today Ends Two Months Of Campaigning

Over 50 Per Cent Of Registered Voters Expected To Cast Ballots

Allegany County voters will go [illegible] the polls today to make their choi[illegible] for state and county offices, climaxing two months of intensive campaigning on the part of candidates of the Republican and Democratic tickets.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and there was every indication last night that party workers will be out in force today getting out the vote. It was estimated that more than 50 per cent of the registered voters in the county will cast ballots in this general election, with 24,488 Republicans and 18,750 Democrats eligible to vote, according to election officials. Names of 43,925 voters are on the books.

Both Democrats and Republicans wound up the county campaigns last night, firing their final guns by means of radio addresses. Republicans held a final rally at Barton.

Can Make 29 Marks

Voters who trek to the 75 county polling places will be able to place a total of 29 "X" marks on the ballot, if they express a choice on all candidates, including those who are unopposed, and also vote for or against the four amendments to the Constitution of Maryland.

The ballot contains the names of 36 candidates—far fewer than that in the June primary—and election officials predicted that the unofficial count will be completed soon after midnight.

Republicans have candidates for every office on the ballot while Democrats have six men seeking county office, three seeking state office, one election to the United States Senate and one to the House of Delegates.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Republican Congressman from the Sixth District, is the only incumbent other than candidates seeking county offices.

He concluded his campaign by visiting voters in Allegany County yesterday and said last night that he is confident of victory by a large majority. He added that he expects to carry all five counties in the district as he did in the last two campaigns.

Will Vote In Frostburg

Rep. Beall wound up his campaign last night by attending the Republican rally at Barton. Today he will vote at his home precinct and spend most of the day in his home city — Frostburg — helping to get out the vote.

Eight Republicans are unopposed but are expected to be given a "vote of confidence." They are Col. George Henderson, for associate judge of Circuit Court; State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Board [illegible] County Commissioners; County Treasurer Frederick C. Dreyer, and J. French VanMeter, William C. Abbott and Hugh Stevenson, judges of the Orphans Court.

Election Of GOP Candidates Urged By Negro Paper

In its issue of October 29, The Baltimore Afro-American, under the editorial caption, "We've Had More than Enough," had the following to say:

"As election time draws near, the AFRO, after surveying the national scene, has come to the conclusion that the time has come for a change.

"We have had enough, actually, more than enough!

"For this reason we believe that everwhere that Republican candidates for national office are the equal of or better than the Democratic candidates, they should be supported so that we can have, without a doubt, a Republican House and a Republican Senate.

"If Mr. Truman didn't want the Presidency at the death of Mr. Roosevelt, there is no reason why we should elect him to office in 1948.

"Since the Congress we elect now will be in office then we should begin to put Republicans in office now.

"In cases where the Democratic candidates for the Senate and House are far superior to the Republicans, the AFRO will support them.

"We will not support Republican or Democratic candidates who are opposed to the anti-poll tax, FEPC and anti-lynching bills.

"It is perfectly plain that the muddling of our foreign policy, the inability to keep our internal economies on an even keel, the lack of clear policy that will get our post-war industries functioning without constant change in prices and consequently recurring strikes, show how incompetent and inept the present administration is.

"Public opinion polls show dissatisfaction in all sections and parts of the nation. Such wisecracks as 'Vote for Truman. He has kept us out of Wallace,' and 'For horse sense, vote Republican; for horse meat, vote Democratic,' are being heard with increasing frequency.

"The Republicans once made the mistake of promising 'a chicken in every pot and a car in every garag[illegible] but they are now pointing out th[illegible] the Democrats have four families in every garage.

"We have had enough. It is time for a change."

Mrs. Nellie Field Granted Divorce

In a decree signed yesterday in Circuit Court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, an absolute divorce has been granted Mrs. Nellie R. Field from Watson E. Field.

Mrs. Clair Leslie has docketed suit for a divorce from Michael D. Leslie. The action was filed by her mother and next friend, Mrs. Vallie P. Welker.

Mrs. Louise Woodworth has filed suit for a divorce from George T. Woodworth.
